Nazis Counter-Attack Yank Forces

U. S. VANGUARD WITHIN 10 MILES OF CHERBOURG

British Open Pincer Drive on Caen.

BULLETIN.

LONDON, June 14 (Wednesday)—(AP).—The Nazi controled Vichy radio quoted a Berlin military spokesman today as saying that important allied shipping movements had been observed in the Gulf of Gascony, in the Bay of Biscay near the Spanish frontier. A region of flat, sandy beaches, the Gulf of Gascony lies in the Biarritz region of France's west shore some 400 miles south of the Normandy beachhead.

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, June 14 [Wednesday].—An allied breakthru at Balleroy on the south edge of the Cerisy forest and the development of a powerful attack on the eastern sector of the bridgehead to throw a pincers around Caen highlighted the fighting in Normandy up to early today.

The good news was somewhat offset, however, by reports that the Germans had counter-attacked at Montebourg, captured by the Americans yesterday morning, and at Carentan, taken by the Yanks on Sunday. The Germans claimed both towns have been recaptured. This could neither be confirmed nor denied at headquarters this morning.

Montebourg is 14 miles south of France's third largest port, Cherbourg. Carentan is in the center of the American sector. American patrols were reported to have reached Valognes, four miles northwest of Martebourg and 10 miles from Cherbourg.

Five Towns Taken by Allies.

In all, five towns were taken by the allies yesterday—Troarn, seven miles east of Caen on the road to Rouen; Balleroy, eight miles southwest of Bayeux; Montebourg; Le Ham, four miles southwest of Montebourg, and Pont l'Abbe, four and one-half miles west of Ste. Mere Eglise.

Seizure of Pont l'Abbe put the Americans within five miles of the midpeninsular road between Valognes and La Haye du Puits, and also within eight miles of La Haye, which is a junction on the western coastal road leading into Cherbourg.

The battle front now has been extended until it stretches to between 80 and 90 miles with a beachhead 60 miles long. The allies are estimated to hold from 600 to 700 square miles of territory within their lines. They have increased their plane landing strips on the bridgehead from two to five. To date 10 allied divisions have been officially revealed as fighting in Normandy and German prisoners taken are in excess of 10,000.

Situation in Various Sectors.

The situation on the various sectors of the bridgehead up to early today was as follows:

Here's Digest of Invasion Facts

PROGRESS—Germans counter-attack Americans at Montebourg and Carentan. Yanks fight 10 to 14 miles from Cherbourg; capture town halfway across Cherbourg peninsula; capture Balleroy and advance on road hub of St. Lo. British take Troarn, seven miles east of Caen, in pincer drive.

LANDINGS—Germans report allied landings by sea and air near St. Vaast-la-Hougue, east of Cherbourg, and near Coutances on west coast of peninsula.

Find Captured British Mines Used by Nazis

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH AMERICAN TROOPS ON THE NORMANDY BEACHHEAD, June 13.—German anti-tank defenses on the right flank of the American invasion area consisted largely of British Mark 3 mines manufactured in England in 1939, Lt. Erwin Johnson, Hawley, Minn., revealed today.

Johnson, member of a combat engineer unit which cleared the mine fields under a hail of machine pistol fire, showed me one about the size of a derby hat. They were believed among the booty captured at Dunkerque or in Libya.

The Minnesota officer, a veteran of Africa, Sicily, and Italy, said the landing in France was a pushover compared to some of the other campaigns, particularly Salerno.

U. S. Intelligence Good.

Underwater obstacles consisted of four rows of concrete posts and one row of wooden posts, arranged so as to jab into the bottoms of invasion craft.

The commanding officer of the outfit, Lt. Col. Stephen I. Force, Greeley, Colo., said the beaches contained no surprises for the Yanks. "Our intelligence was pretty good," he said.

American casualties on the right flank were much lighter than anticipated, possibly because the Yanks landed a mile and a half south of where they had originally intended to hit the shoreline. This came about because in swinging into the beach the Americans edged away from the densest area of defensive fire.

Two Nazi Raids in Four Days.

Lt. Col. Force said there were only two air raids by the enemy in the first four days of the invasion as compared to 78 in a comparable time at Salerno. The Germans, he said, appeared to have evacuated this area hastily, taking only stripped field equipment with them and leaving much behind.

In a tour of the beachheads, I found the defenses consisted largely of early solid tire models of 88 millimeter guns mounted about every 150 yards in pillboxes built in the sod and sand bags with an occasional one of concrete. Part of the German static defenses consisted of a half mile of flooded area with water ankle to waist deep.

Land Loaded Vehicles.

One of the remarkable things abot the beachhead was the rapidity with which supplies moved inland. In anticipation of Nazi bombing and strafing, the Americans moved supplies inland the minute they hit the sand. Everything landed on wheels. All vehicles were loaded and waterproofed before embarkation in England. These vehicles, rolled off the landing craft into knee deep water and most of them churned thru the surf on to dry land.

A truck on which I rode was pulling a completely submerged anti-tank gun toward shore until it hit a hole and disappeared beneath the waves, throwing everybody into the sea. Blanket rolls and packs floated away as the troops took to their life belts and struggled to the shore. However, in a matter of minutes a bulldozer came along, attached a cable, and pulled the truck and gun out.

Damages 16 More; Bags 141 Planes.

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, June 13 (AP).—A United States carrier task force, operating for three days in the Marianas Islands within 1,500 miles of Tokyo, sank 13 Japanese ships, damaged 16 others and destroyed 141 planes with a loss of only 15 American aircraft, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced today.

The bulletin supplemented previous terse reports that the Marianas had been raided from Saturday to Monday.

Stealing into the southern Marianas, the force loosed carrier planes Saturday on Guam, Saipan and Tinian Islands. The enemy sent scores of fighter planes aloft to contest the strike.

11 U. S. Planes Lost.

Navy Hellcat fighters tied into the enemy all over the sky as other planes bombed and strafed ground objectives. A total of 124 Japanese planes was destroyed that day, mostly in aerial combat. Eleven Hellcat fighters and eight pilots were lost.

After nightfall a handful of enemy planes approached the task force. The enemy failed to press home an attack, however, and one was shot down by ship's anti-aircraft fire.

Aircraft struck again Sunday at the same islands, and extended the attack to Rota island. Sixteen more Nipponese planes were destroyed. Two small cargo ships were sunk at Saipan, largest enemy harbor in the Marianas, and a small oiler was sent to the bottom northwest of the island.

Destroyer Sent Down.

A formation of Japanese ships, attempting to flee from Saipan, was surprised and ten were sunk and another ten were damaged. Those sunk were a large oiler, a destroyer, three corvettes, one large cargo vessel, one medium cargo and three small cargoes. Damaged were five medium cargo and five escort vessels of unidentified type.

In the Sunday operations four American planes and seven men were lost, Nimitz reported.

A second formation of enemy ships was spotted Monday several hundred miles away. Again the navy aircraft swooped to the attack and heavily damaged six more vessels. They were a destroyer escort, three destroyers and two cargo craft.

Nimitz also reported a continuation of army and navy plane raids on enemy positions thruout the central Pacific Sunday and Monday. Truk and Ponape in the Carolines, Nauru and Ocean islands west of the Gilberts, and the Marshalls were bombed and strafed.

U. S. Uses Biak Field.

ADVANCED ALLIED HDQ., New Guinea, June 14 [Wednesday]—(AP).—Mokmer airdrome on Biak Island has been put into operation, Gen. MacArthur announced today. Infantry troops on Biak pushed westward toward Borokoe airstrip as airplanes started using Mokmer Tuesday.

Japanese raided Biak Sunday night with six planes, damaging an American destroyer and causing several casualties on land. Mitchell bombers sank four small Jap merchantmen off Manokwari, Dutch New Guinea, Monday.

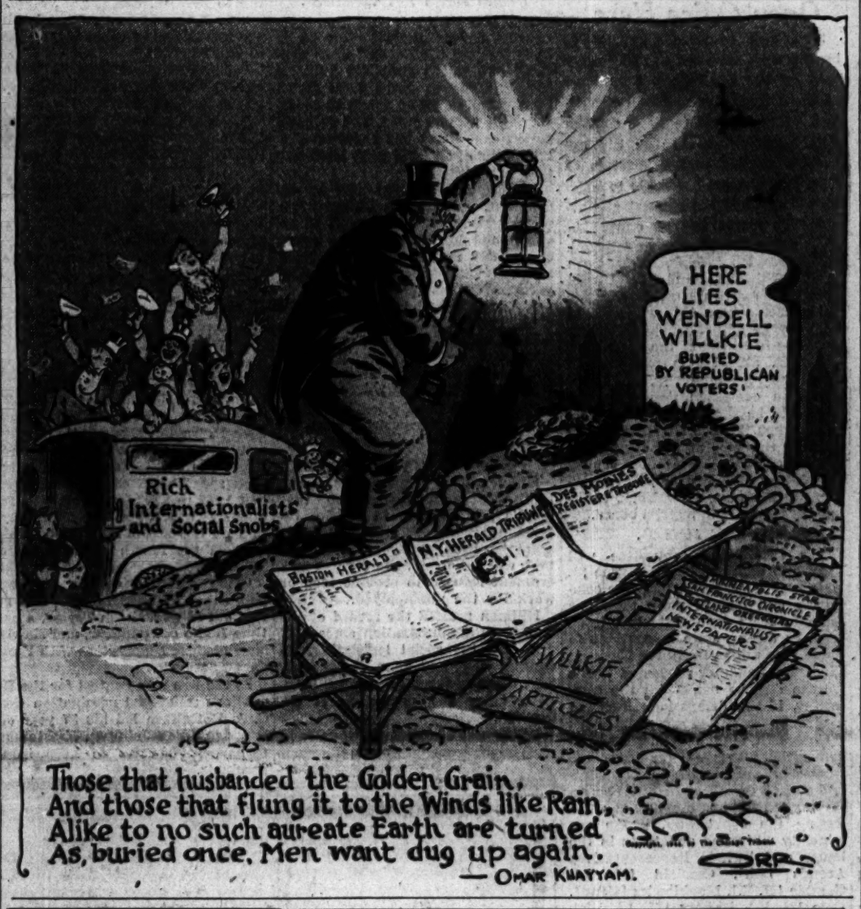

Liberators attacked Palau again Sunday and Monday, starting fires. They also heavily hit Truk.

American casualties on Biak up to June 6 were announced as 85 killed and 340 wounded.

LONDON PAPER GIVES ALL INVASION CREDIT TO BRITISH PLANNERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 14 [Wednesday].—Not a single American was mentioned in a column editorial in the Daily Telegraph this morning, entitled, "Architects of Victory." Gen. Charles de Gaulle, however, gets credit for being one of the planners. "Churchill's part in the planning is rather well known and nobody will begrudge him the intense satisfaction of revisiting in victory the shores which he left four years ago in defeat," it stated.

Chiefs of Staff Adm. Andrew B. Cunningham, Gen. Alan F. Brooks, and Air Chief Marshal Charles A. Portal are referred to as having played parts "less known but hardly less meritorious as architects of comeback."

PARISIANS MAY BE HUNGRY, BUT NORMANDY EATS

BY ROGER D. GREENE.

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN NORMANDY, June 11 [Delayed]—(AP).—I had heard that the French were slowly starving under the Nazi regime. Undoubtedly that is true in Paris and in other large cities. But here in Normandy there is an abundance of food—fresh fruit and vegetables such as artichokes, asparagus, lettuce, cabbage, and strawberries.

It is a land of fat brown cattle, lush green fields and well to do farms. There is plenty of butter and eggs.

Vitamins Used to Excess, Says Physicians' President

BY ROBERT HOWARD.

The "widespread indiscriminate promotion and use of vitamins" was condemned by Dr. Herman L. Kretschmer of Chicago last night as he took office as president of the American Medical association. Speaking in the Palmer House, at the association's 94th annual convention, he said that impressive advances have been made with vitamins, but added:

Dr. H. L. Kretschmer.

"Certainly the people in this country are not in such a state of malnutrition as to require the use of 250 million dollars worth of vitamins a year. The excessive claims made for vitamins are beyond any basic medical evidence."

Peak Health Conditions.

Dr. Kretschmer, declaring that the United States has never enjoyed better health conditions, added:

"I wish to disagree with the statement that one-third of our people are poorly nourished. . . . The death rate is the lowest in our history, except for a slight, not serious, rise last year. Fortunately there have been no major epidemics in the last war. The venereal diseases are almost completely controled, thanks to the sulfonamide drugs and penicillin, so that the medical schools have difficulty in obtaining enough patients for the teaching of students.

Tuberculosis at Lowest Point.

"Tuberculosis, which often shows a rise during a war, has now reached an all-time low. Pneumonia is no longer a danger as it was before the advent of the sulfonamide drugs. Cerebrospinal meningitis, which formerly had a death rate of 60 to 70 per cent, now has a mortality of about 5 per cent.

"During the last year more than 3,000,000 babies were born in this country, with the lowest maternal and infant death rate in our entire history, and this in the midst of the war effort."

Bullets are killing more fighting men than disease, the reverse of previous war time experience, Dr. Kretschmer added in declaring that never had the troops of any nation enjoyed such good health. Serving with the army and navy are 55,000 physicians.

Continue Blood Drives.

The blood bank campaign of the American Red Cross is furnishing sufficient plasma and must be depended upon to provide for future emergency treatment of battlefield casualties, an A. M. A. scientific meeting was told after a discussion of substitutes, including gelatine, pectin, isinglass, and glucose solution, which were classified as "distinctly second choice" by Lt. Comdr. Eugene L. Lozner of the national naval medical center, Bethesda, Md.

"We want the Red Cross to go ahead with blood collection," Lozner said.

A new method under which any hospital laboratory can make plasma at reduced expense, without the elaborate equipment now in use, was demonstrated by three doctors from Washington, D. C., Charles S. White, Jacob J. Weinstein, and J. Lloyd Collins. They coated bottle interiors with methyl cellulose, which caused the red corpuscles to flatten like coins and stack up in the bottom of the containers.

Psychological Treatment Told.

As the convention concentrated on war time problems, Lt. Col. Roy R. Grinker told another meeting that psychological war casualties are being restored by new techniques. One fighter pilot, afflicted with depression and anxiety after an European theater tour of duty, was restored to normal life by revealing his inner conflicts and experiences under the influence of pentothal sodium.

A movement sponsored by the California Medical association, asking the retirement of Dr. Olin West, secretary manager of the A. M. A., and Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of its Journal, was defeated by the house of delegates, 144 to 9. The California complaint was that Fishbein had failed to properly represent medicine to the American public.

Civilian Goods Lag Blamed on New Deal Ban

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 13.—Production of civilian goods by hundreds of small corporations is being blocked by the administration, Chairman Maury Maverick of the Smaller War Plants corporation charged today.

Maury Maverick.

Appearing before the special house committee on post-war economic planning, the Texan asserted that pools of idle labor and materials for certain types of manufacture are now available but permission has not been given to put them to use.

"Positive steps should be taken to put these materials and man power together and produce some things that meet civilian requirements," he said. "Hundreds of small plants exist that can do this without detriment to the war effort.

Suggestions Turned Down.

"I am bound to report that all suggestions by this corporation or by me, made on behalf of small business, and for the use of this surplus labor and materials, have been turned down."

There was a note of sarcasm in Maverick's voice as he remarked that the resumption of civilian production was not being stressed sufficiently because the military authorities believe "it might in some way weaken the invasion."

"So far as any long range plan or policy for releasing war controls and permitting resumption of the manufacture of civilian goods is concerned," he asserted, "it simply does not exist. Nor can I see any indication that such a policy will be developed and adopted by the war agencies until the emergency of reconversion actually hits us. In such a situation, as usual, small business will suffer."

Fears Future Opposition.

Committee members said later they read between the lines of Maverick's statement a fear that the administration is deliberately impeding the restoration of little business to its status as "the foundation stone of our American economy."

"Americans want no other system than the free enterprise system," Maverick said.

A credit insurance system is desirable for small business, Maverick said, but he condemned any plan for a government organization to make individual loans and guarantees. The 15,000 banks of America are the proper organizations to finance small business, he asserted.

"Small business must have a chance to get started by reasonable tax relief," he continued. "First, I believe the specific exemption under the excess profits tax should be increased from $10,000 to something like $50,000. In the second or third post-war year, it might be possible to abandon the excess profits tax completely."

Abuses of the patent system must be corrected, Maverick said, so that "small business can compete with big business on even terms."

HATCH EXCUSES F. D. R. VOW NOT TO JOIN IN WAR

'40 Pledge Subject of Bitter Row.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 13.—President Roosevelt's 1940 pre-election pledge to the mothers and fathers of America that their sons would not be sent into foreign wars brought one of the bitterest senate battles in history today.

Sen. Hatch.

It brought, in addition, an explanation from the Democrats that Mr. Roosevelt meant—altho he did not say it—"except in case of attack."

The explanation was offered by Sen. Hatch [D., N. M.], who presented this further qualification of the President's pledge:

That Mr. Roosevelt meant wars between foreign countries when he spoke of "foreign wars," and that the present global conflict is really "our war."

Denies Deception.

Hence, Hatch argued, those who took Mr. Roosevelt at his word and say he has not kept it are spreading "propaganda," when, as a matter of fact, he has not "deceived the fathers and mothers of America," but has kept his pledge.

The Democrats maneuvered themselves into a position where they were forced to defend themselves and the President by attempting to twit the Republicans about Wendell Willkie.

In the slugging match that followed, Sen. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] heaped unprecedented rebuke upon the Democrats for forcing him to discuss the President's pledge, for the first time in the Michigan senator's career, at a time when 10 million Americans "are marching into the valley of the shadow of death."

Charges a "Nomination."

Sen. Wherry [R., Neb.] sprang to his feet to charge Hatch had "nominated President Roosevelt for a fourth term."

Sen. Bridges [R., N. H.] turned the tables on the Democrats by opening up the whole question of Mr. Roosevelt's silence on the fourth term and his peace aims by demanding, regarding Mr. Roosevelt:

"Would he be willing to announce that he is thru with public office, that he would put peace aims above partisan politics, and would pass from the political picture in order to gain a uniform agreement concerning peace aims in this nation?"

Hatch began sniping at the Republicans yesterday about a series of newspaper articles Willkie is writing on his ideas for the Republican platform.

Grinning at the Republicans, Hatch said today he had given the Republicans opportunity to put the first of the articles in the Congressional Record. Since they had failed, he said, he was inserting the first two articles.

Other Democrats chuckled, unaware that Hatch was going on to toss rocks into the glass house they were enjoying.

Hatch told the senate it is time for men "who seek high office" to tell where they stand, and chided Republican Presidential possibilities for reticence.

Bridges Asks Questions.

"Will the senator," interrupted Bridges, "apply that saying and send it as a special message to Mr. Roosevelt in the White House—to say what he means and mean what he says? The President has been talking one way and has made speech after speech in which his position has varied.

"The ideals which he expressed a few months ago have simply gone with the wind. No one knows where he stands today. It is time he spoke out. He is the President of the United States. The country is waiting.

Cites Inconsistencies.

When Hatch promised to reply later in his speech, Bridges went on:

"Will the senator be sure to include in the record how Mr. Roosevelt, in 1932, repudiated the league of nations, for which Woodrow Wilson stood. . . . Will the senator tell us a few more of the inconsistencies of the man who sits in the White House?"

Despite Bridges' anticipation of his remarks, Hatch then went on to accuse the Republicans of scuttling the peace machinery after World War I. He praised Mr. Roosevelt as an advocate of international peace by law and justice and said:

"To provide the necessary machinery for the peaceful settlements among nations without recourse to war, I am sure Franklin D. Roosevelt is today ready to sacrifice, if necessary, his political life."

Democrats Won't Agree.

It was at this point Bridges demanded to know if Mr. Roosevelt were ready to "pass from the political picture" for unity.

Hatch said the President is, but hastily explained that the Democrats wouldn't permit it.

Vandenberg sprang to his feet to protest the Democratic "indictment" of the Republicans. Warning against "taking words from their places in history and giving them isolated interpretation today, Vandenberg recalled the President's pledge.

"I give you the example of the statement made by President Roosevelt on the eve of the 1940 election." Vandenberg said:

"'I tell you fathers and mothers of America again and again and again that your sons will not be sent into foreign war.'

Circumstances Alter Cases

"I have never thrown that statement back into the President's teeth. I am not doing it now. Circumstances alter cases. Pearl Harbor created a challenge which no president and no citizen could ignore.

"But it would be just as reasonable for me to devote an hour's excoriation to a presidential promise to the mothers of America in 1940, that their sons would never again be sent into a foregin war as it is for the senator from New Mexico to file the indictment against the Republicans which he has filed today.

"Mr. President, I want it clearly understood that I do not file that indictment. It is the first time I ever mentioned the matter in public."

Upholds Mackinac Pledge.

Replying to Democratic gibes about Republican silence, Vandenberg said the Republican declaration on foreign policy at the Mackinac Island conference was the most forthright that has yet been uttered.

"The able senator from New Mexico," Vandenberg went on, "is worried about where the possible Republican candidates for President may stand upon this issue. I do not know who the Republican nominee is to be.

"It is probably conservative to say that is one of at least two governors. Both those governors stood upon their feet when the roll call was called upon this declaration and gave it their faith."

Shuns Another Such Debate.

Gravely telling the senate that 10 million American sons are now marching into the valley of the shadow of death, Vandenberg then said he would not soon again be drawn into a discussion of American foreign policy "in terms of politics."

Hatch then said now is the time to discuss foreign policy, but Chairman Connally [D., Tex.] of the foreign relations committee said such discussions are "digging tank ditches and erecting barbed wire" in the way of settlement of international problems. He referred disparagingly to Sen. Bridges' "private crystal ball."

When Hatch got the floor again he read the official version of Mr. Roosevelt's pledge to parents, deleting one of Mr. Roosevelt's "agains" and refraining from giving it the Roosevelt pronunciation. Hatch then gave the pledge the Democratic qualifications and interpretation.

CLARK ADVISES 4 SUBURBS TO APPEAL ON TAX

Recommendations that hard hit taxpayers of four suburbs lying partly in Cook county and partly in other counties file complaints with the county assessor's office and the county board of tax appeals were made yesterday by Assessor Clark. Clark said that he and the board had power to adjust valuations of property downward where the tax bills were not equitable and promised he would coöperate with "these overtaxed property owners."

Inequities in the towns—Barrington, Elgin, Hinsdale, and Steger—were intensified when Clark adopted assessments on a full cash value instead of at 37 per cent of full value. Neighboring counties held to the old scheme of valuations at less than 100 per cent and the villages spread taxes at the same rates on the announced valuations.

Meanwhile, more than 200 of the 325 home owners in Palos Heights, an unincorporated community in Worth township agreed to pay the first instalment of their 1944 taxes under protest. Atty Joseph P. Toale was retained to present their protest.

Cook county taxpayers of Hinsdale will meet in Hinsdale community house tonight to plan action.

SOLDIERS' FIELD RALLY TO HEAR MORGENTHAU

As the fifth war loan drive to back the attack on the now crumbling fortress of Hitler in Europe gathered momentum yesterday, it was announced that Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau would address a massmeeting at Soldiers' field next Monday evening in tribute to the 35,000 Minute Men in the Chicago and Cook county bond selling campaign.

Already, on the second day of the drive, several blocks had exceeded their quotas in the house to house canvass. Philip R. Clarke, campaign chairman, announced. He said an army of 150,000, including the Minute Men who are selling in industrial establishments, and fellow workers who are purchasing extra war bonds, would attend the Soldiers' field meeting. The program there will include nationally known entertainers and returned heroes of the fighting forces.

Two winners of the congressional medal of honor will tell their combat experiences. They are Lt. Ernest Childers, 26, an American Indian, and Tech. Sgt. Charles E. [Commando] Kelly, heroes of the Italian campaign. Lt. Childers reorganized his leaderless battalion and led it forward in the inferno of Salerno. Sgt. Kelly, called the "one man army," has been credited with killing nearly 40 Germans.

VETERANS' 'BILL OF RIGHTS' SENT TO WHITE HOUSE

Washington, D. C., June 13 (AP).—With the unanimous backing of congress, the "G. I. bill of rights"—an over all war veterans' benefits measure—went to the White House today for President Roosevelt's approval.

A 379 to 0 record vote in the house completed action on the compromise approved yesterday by the senate. The bill is expected to cost between $3,000,000,000 and $6,500,000,000.

The bill provides for government-financed education, government-guaranteed loans, job-finding assistance, hospitalization, and unemployment compensation for veterans of the present war.

DEWEY'S FORCES BACK TAFT FOR PLATFORM HEAD

Doubt Governor Will Open Office Here.

Sen. Taft of Ohio appeared to have a clear field for the chairmanship of the resolutions committee at the Republican national convention when reports reached convention headquarters in the Stevens hotel yesterday that supporters of Gov. Dewey were favorable to Taft. He already had the support of Gov. Bricker's forces and no opposition from other groups was anticipated.

Edward F. Jaeckle, New York state chairman, and J. Russel Sprague, national committeeman, are expected here this week-end to take charge of pre-convention maneuvering in behalf of the New York governor, altho it is proposed to open no headquarters. Dewey's views on campaign issues are expected to be presented to the committee thru the two New York members of the resolutions committee, Kenneth MacAffer, Albany county Republican chairman, and Mary Donlon, 277 Park av., New York, chairman of the state industrial board.

To Meet June 21.

The resolutions committee will meet and organize here on June 21. This year for the first time the committee will include more than one member from each state and territory. In asking state delegations to name resolutions members National Chairman Spangler requested that a woman also be named on the committee, if the delegations included a woman.

Chairman Walter Hallanan of the convention arrangements committee yesterday announced the appointment of 15 members of congress to serve as assistant sergeants at arms during the convention. These are minority whip and assistants in the house and include Representatives Arends [Ill.], Canfield [N. J.], Gamble [N. Y.], Monklewicz [Conn], Cole [N. Y.], Powers [N. J.], Wolcott [Mich.], Rodgers [Pa.], Dondero [Mich.], McGreagor [O.], Schiffler [W. Va.], Carlson [Kas.], Holmes [Wash.], and Poulson [Cal.].

Final Meetings Set.

Hallanan said arrangements for the convention are proceeding satisfactorily and announced a final meeting of his committee will be held on June 20 to receive final reports from subcommittees and to attend to any last minute problems which may arise.

Spangler has called a meeting of the national committee for the next day.

Courtney Away on Tour Thru Southern Illinois

State's Atty. Courtney attended opening sessions of the Illinois Bar association's convention in Danville yesterday and announced he would go from there into southern Illinois on a "handshaking" tour to promote his candidacy for governor on the Democratic ticket. His campaign headquarters in Chicago said he had no definite itinerary, but probably would go into Jefferson, Perry, Randolph, Jackson, Union, Pulaski, Alexander, Johnson, Massac, Pope, and Hardin counties.

UNION POLITICAL SLUSH ILLEGAL, CIO AID ADMITS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 13.—Admitting the illegality of labor union contributions to the election of federal officers, Sidney Hillman, chairman of the CIO political action committee, told the senate campaign investigating committee today his organization would curtail some of its activities after the Presidential nominating conventions this summer.

Sidney Hillman.

Hillman insisted present activities of the CIO committee are within the law because the federal corrupt practices act, which forbids unions and corporations from helping finance campaigns of candidates for federal office, applies only to elections and not to primary and preconvention campaigns.

"After the nominations, of course, some activities of the political action committee will cease," Hillman told the senate committee. "I am quite satisfied the law doesn't apply until after nominations are made. We believe the prohibition on union political activity is unfair to labor, but will observe the law."

Denies Hatch Act Violations.

The CIO leader denied his group or the unions contributing to it have violated the Hatch "clean politics" act, which prohibits political contributions of more than $5,000 by any individual or group to candidates for federal office. The political action committee has reported contributions of $100,000 each from five CIO organizations.

"Those contributions were for educational purposes," Hillman asserted. "Our funds are used to acquaint our members with the issues of the day and to encourage them to vote. Our committee is a nonpartisan organization."

"There's nothing educational about this," declared Sen. Ball [R., Minn.], holding up a poster bearing President Roosevelt's photograph, which is being circulated by the CIO committee. "Your organization ought to join the Democratic party and get its contributions from individuals, not from union members."

Hillman Offers Statement.

Hillman in a prepared statement told the senate committee that labor's participation in politics became necessary during the Hoover administration, between 1929 and 1933, when, he said, the federal government refused to provide food or work for the unemployed.

Hillman praised the record of the New Deal administration since 1933 and said the social legislation, including wage and hour, social security, labor relations, and other laws, gave labor the protection it demanded.

Hillman said contributions and pledges of financial aid to the committee total $676,600. Actual receipts are $669,764, he said, and expenditures to May 31 totaled $189,112. Salaries, travel, office expenses, and publicity accounted for 85 per cent of the total spent, Hillman reported.

Admits Source of Funds.

During the questioning following presentation of his statement, Hillman acknowledged that all CIO political action funds come from union treasuries originally filled by the dues of union members, some of whom might not approve candidates selected by the CIO.

"That is the very principle that underlies the corrupt practices act," said Sen. Ferguson [R., Mich.] "Do you think it is wrong for corporations with thousands of stockholders—many of whom may not approve political candidates supported by the management—to contribute to political campaigns?"

"Yes," said Hillman, "but I think the law is wrong when it is applied to labor unions."

"How do corporations differ from unions with large memberships?" asked Ferguson.

"Stockholders vote by proxy, and unions have democratic elections," said Hillman.

SEN. CLARK RUNS THIRD IN IDAHO PRIMARY RACE

Boise, Idaho, June 13 (AP).—A spirited battle for the Democratic senatorial nomination developed tonight in the Idaho primary, with Sen. D. Worth Clark running third in early returns as a political neophyte, James H. Hawley, set the pace.

Hawley, Boise attorney, drew 1,274 votes in 60 of the state's 845 precincts. Glen H. Taylor, Democratic nominee of two years ago, who this year forswore the cowboy songs and horseback speeches of earlier campaigns, had 1,217 to 1,102 for Clark, who frequently has been anti-administration on important legislation. John Cornell, the fourth aspirant, polled 160 votes.

Clark declared during his campaign that he tried to keep this nation out of war. Both Taylor, a one-time Idaho cowpuncher, and Hawley have pledged coöperation with President Roosevelt.

In the two man contest for the Republican senatorial nomination Gov. C. A. Bottolfsen led his 37 year old opponent, Ben Johnson, Preston attorney, 2,580 votes to 1,539 in 60 precincts.

DEWEY BACKER RESIGNS G. O. P. POST IN INDIANA

Indianapolis, Ind., June 13 [Special].—Under fire as Indiana's Republican national committeeman-elect because he was an officer and organizer for the Ku Klux Klan 20 years ago, Robert W. Lyons, Indianapolis attorney, resigned today at a meeting of the state's delegates to the Republican national convention.

Before offering his resignation, however, a leader of the forces in the state backing Gov. Dewey of New York for the Presidency, asked for and obtained from the delegates a vote on their preferences for the Republican Presidential nomination.

Report 26 for Dewey.

Twenty-six of the state's 29 delegates voted for Gov. Dewey, it was made known after the meeting by Ralph W. Gates, former Republican state chairman and the party's nominee for governor. One delegate did not vote and two were absent, it was said. The absentees were reported to be Sen. Raymond F. Willis [R., Ind.] and Rep. Gerald W. Landis [R., Ind.].

Lyons was named by the delegates to succeed Ernest M. Morris of South Bend as national committeeman at a meeting June 2, after the close of the state convention. The action brought a storm of criticism from many Republicans, among them supporters of the candidacy of Gov. Bricker of Ohio.

Recants Klan Ties.

When Lyons met with the delegates today he read a long statement of resignation in which he recanted his former membership in the hooded order but said he had decided to step out because of widespread criticism. The Klan was politically powerful in Indiana in the 1920s.

J. Frank McDermond Jr., Attica publisher and president of the Indiana Bricker-for-President club, today issued a statement saying that Lyons "literally used a blackjack on the Republican party in Indiana" when he "stipulated that he would not resign unless 20 of the Indiana delegates voted for Dewey." McDermond added that "only three days ago we canvassed the delegates in Indiana and found that with few exceptions they favored Bricker."

Sen. Samuel D. Jackson arrived today in Indianapolis from Washington to open his campaign for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination and told a press conference he never had been affiliated with the Klan. He said he made the statement because he had learned rumors that he had been connected with the Klan were being circulated with the approach of Friday's Democratic state convention.

DEMPSEY OPENS CAMPAIGN AT N.U. LUNCHEON TODAY

John T. Dempsey, Republican nominee for state's attorney, begins to devote his full time to his campaign today with an appearance at a luncheon given for him in the Chicago Bar association quarters by a committee of Northwestern university alumni supporting him.

Attorneys George I. Haight and Vernon R. Loucks are co-chairmen of the committee. Dempsey went from the University of Notre Dame to Northwestern, where he completed his legal studies in 1924.

Tomorrow night Dempsey will be principal speaker at a meeting of the 19th ward Republican Women's club. On Friday he will address a luncheon of the Decalogue Society of Lawyers in the Covenant club. Here he will tell how he proposes to meet problems of the state's attorney's office.

BARRETT RULES STATE SOLDIER VOTE LAW BEST

Condemns Federal Ballot as 'Imitation.'

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

Atty. Gen. Barrett in an opinion requested by Gov. Green interpreted Illinois' soldier voting law so liberally yesterday that Republicans said the Democrats would find it "difficult to continue their sniping" at its provisions.

Barrett ruled that the Illinois law was practical. On the other hand, New Dealers sought to have congress impose federal control of state elections, he said. The federal bobtailed ballot, which cannot be used in Illinois and most other states, he termed an "imitation ballot."

Basic Rulings by Barrett.

Barrett's opinion held that:

1. Federal postcard applications for Illinois ballots may be acted upon by county clerks and other election officials.

2. Size and weight of the Illinois ballots may be reduced within statutory limitations so as not to impose any undue load upon mailing facilities.

3. Illinois ballots may be printed and mailed more than 45 days prior to the election so long as there is compliance with other provisions of the election law.

4. Application for ballots made more than 100 days prior to the election is legal, altho the statute mentions 100 days.

Democrats Wage Ballot War.

Sen. Lucas [D., Ill.], whose original federal voting bill was killed by congress, has mailed long letters to the 8,000 Democratic precinct captains and committeemen in an effort to make the Illinois law a major campaign issue. Last week Mayor Kelly, as Democratic national committeeman, mailed similar letters to Democratic workers thruout the state.

"This dastardly attempt to mislead the public for partisan political purposes fully discloses the lack of sincerity upon the part of these professional politicians," Barrett wrote.

"Their plan to force the use of a federal imitation ballot, which would have prevented those in the armed forces from exercising their voting franchise, except for national and congressional offices, was exposed before congress and defeated as an attempt to secure control of the election machinery to use it for selfish political ends."

Supreme Court Ruling Cited.

No objective observer can sincerely criticize the Illinois system, which will enable every voter in military service to cast a ballot identical with that cast by his neighbors in his home precinct, Barrett said.

The Illinois legislature made no provision for acceptance of federal bob-tailed ballots, the attorney general asserted, and the Illinois Supreme court repeatedly has held that ballots counted in this state must bear the facsimile of the signature of the official authorizing them to be printed.

The Chicago board of election commissioners will meet again today to discuss the soldier vote problem.

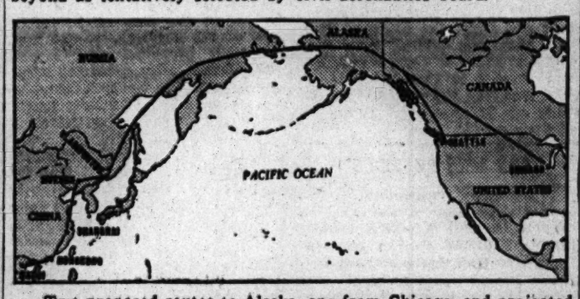

Already about 10,000 applications for the Illinois ballots have been received by the board. Three-fourths of these are the federal postal card forms. Carl Schroeder, in charge of absentee voting for the board, said he was working to perfect a system for handling an estimated 100,000 ballots.

Tentative Overseas Air Routes

(Story in adjoining column.)

Four proposed routes from New York to points in Europe and beyond as tentatively selected by civil aeronautics board.

U. S. CHARTS NEW GLOBE GIRDLING AIR LINE ROUTES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 13.—The civil aeronautics board today announced that it tentatively has selected approximately 140,000 miles of overseas routes that would be desirable for post-war operation by United States air carriers.

The proposed routes, many of which will depend upon concluding satisfactory arrangements with nations concerned, include air lanes to every part of the world.

They were announced by L. Welch Pogue, chairman of the CAB, at a press conference at which he said it is necessary for the CAB to begin outlining the proposed routes if the United States is not to be left at the post in the post-war scramble for air line business.

Speedy Action Planned.

The board said applications for authority to operate international air transport services would be brought to hearing and final decisions given as speedily as the circumstances of war permit. Pogue said all final decisions on award of specific certificates for individual companies on specified routes will be made by the President, as provided by law.

The proposed routes have been seen by President Roosevelt, he said, and have been studied by officials of the department of state, whose job it will be to work out arrangements with other nations for airways and landing permits.

An outline of the proposed routes and a map showing them were sent to foreign embassies and legations in Washington today for their information. Pogue said Great Britain and other nations, so far as he knows, have not submitted similar data to the United States on their post-war plans. Acquisition of landing rights is expected generally to be arranged thru intergovernmental negotiations.

100 Lines Apply.

No decisions as to what companies will be allocated routes will be made until full hearings have been held, the CAB said. There are approximately 100 applications for certificates to fly such routes.

Pogue said the CAB chose the proposed routes after a year of study. Some of the routes outlined by the board are being flown, in whole or in part, under temporary or permanent certificates as a means of expediting the war. The board did not indicate what routes it will consider for services from the United States and Alaska terminating in Canada and Mexico.

Four routes from New York to European points are proposed, one would run from New York to Newfoundland or Labrador and thence to Ireland, London, Berlin, Prague, Vienna, Instanbul, and Cairo. Another would follow the same route to Ireland and thence to Paris, Switzerland, Rome, Athens, Cairo, Basra in Iraq, and Karachi, and Calcutta, India, a third would run from New York to Newfoundland or Labrador, then to Greenland and Iceland, Oslo, Stockholm, Helsinki, Leningrad, Moscow, Teheran, and Basra. The fourth would be via Bermuda, the Azores, and Lisbon.

Chicago-Alaska Line Proposed.

Two routes to Alaska, one originating in Chicago and the other in Seattle, Wash., are proposed. One would be extended to Calcutta by way of Vladivostok, Mukden, Shanghai, Hongkong [or Canton] and Hanoi.

United States terminals for routes to South America and Central America would be in New York, New Orleans, Brownsville, Tex., and Tampa, and Miami, Fla.

San Francisco would be the terminal for Pacific routes. One of these routes would be flown to Sydney, Australia, and Auckland, New Zealand, on legs out of Noumea, with landings en route at Los Angeles, Honolulu, Canton Island and Suva. Another would run to Honolulu, Midway, and Wake, with legs from Wake to Tokyo and Shanghai and to Guam and Manila.

ANTI-NEW DEAL CAUCUS CALLED HERE MONDAY

Democrats in Revolt to Draft Platform.

Every member of the American Democratic national committee, each a Democratic party leader opposed to the New Deal, will be present next Monday for a pre-convention caucus, it was said yesterday at the committee's national headquarters, 105 S. La Salle st. The caucus, which will be in session two days in the Hamilton hotel, is intended to canvass Presidential possibilities and to frame a platform to "revive the Democratic party."

Outstanding among the state leaders on the committee is William A. Comstock, who was governor of Michigan in 1933 and 1934, Democratic state chairman for five years, national committeeman four years, and a member of the platform committee at the Democratic national convention in Chicago in 1932.

Michigan Leader Revolts.

Comstock left the New Deal party in 1936 because of objection to Roosevelt principles in general and to Washington domination of federal patronage in Michigan in particular.

Now he is organizing anti-New Deal Democrats in Michigan in a campaign extending to individuals; the results, said Dr. Gleason Archer, national chairman of the opposition group, have been surprising. Dr. Archer showed a printed signature form prepared by Comstock, headed "Are you a Democrat? Will you stand up and be counted?" Only Democrats who feel that the New Deal is a menace to the established party are invited to sign, said Dr. Archer.

New Deal Opposition Growing.

"I believe there are many other signs of a rapidly rising feeling among the people against a fourth term for President Roosevelt," said Dr. Archer. "When we first proposed to organize, we were told it was useless, that the New Deal could not be beaten. We don't hear that any more. Instead, we find many others believing with us that the opposition to the New Deal is growing rapidly.

"Only yesterday on the train coming from Boston I heard men talk anti-New Deal. One of them was a road contractor who was on the Alcan highway and had just come back from a government job in South America. He told me that what he had seen of waste and ill-advised interference in South America would make an anti-New Dealer of any one."

DELEGATE PLEDGED TO M'ARTHUR WILL SUPPORT BRICKER

Milwaukee, Wis., June 13 [Special].—Dr. John P. Koehler, MacArthur delegate at large to the Republican national convention, today announced he will support Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio for the G. O. P. Presidential nomination.

Dr. Koehler, Milwaukee's health commissioner for 20 years, described Gov. Bricker as possessing "the necessary courage, experience, character, and intelligence to keep America strong and free."

"After almost 12 years of New Dealism most of the people have lost faith in party platforms and campaign oratory," said Dr. Koehler. "They want a man for President whom they can trust. I believe Gov. Bricker is such a man."

He said he believed Gen. MacArthur's wish not to become involved in the Presidential contest must be respected.

Headquarters Enthusiastic.

Washington, D. C., June 13 (AP).—Bricker headquarters received enthusiastically today word that Dr. John Koehler, elected a Wisconsin delegate at large pledged to Gen. MacArthur, had announced he would vote for Gov. John W. Bricker at the Republican national convention.

Expressing appreciation, Roy D. Moore, chairman of the Bricker for President campaign committee, said: "We think there are a good many delegates not now pledged to any one who will vote at the convention for Gov. Bricker."

BROWDER GIVES U. S. CAPITALISM A PAT ON BACK

Earl Browder, former executive secretary of the Communist party in the United States and now president of the Communist Political association, said yesterday that he believed the problem of post-war employment and reconversion of industry from war time production "is soluble under the present capitalistic system."

Speaking at a symposium sponsored by the Abraham Lincoln school, 30 W. Washington st., in the Hamilton hotel, Browder said full employment may be accomplished by an expansion of peace time markets, increased wages and a higher standard of living. Loss of the government as a market, he believes, will be the principal problem of business in reconverting to civilian production.

The other speakers on the program, Guy E. Reed, vice president of the Harris Trust and Savings bank, and Dr. Earl D. Howard, former economics professor at Northwestern university, both said that reconversion planning should be left to free thinking rather than government subsidy. Dr. Howard suggested a super planning board of economic experts uncontrolled by the government as the best method of achieving reconversion.

PEACE RALLY VOTES TO URGE AN ARMISTICE

Congress and the state department were asked yesterday to transmit overtures for an immediate armistice in the Atlantic theater of war in one of five resolutions adopted by the Women's National Peace convention, called together in the Hamilton hotel by We, the Mothers, Mobilize for America.

This resolution also sought, said Mrs. Lyrl C. Van Hyning, president of We, the Mothers, a six month cooling off period during which the belligerents would list the grievances that led to war and their commitments. This would be followed, she said, by a peace conference in the United States open to congress and the press.

Other resolutions called for an immediate court martial for Rear Adm. H. S. Kimmel and Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short so that the full facts of the disaster at Pearl Harbor might be known; cessation of immigration for 10 years; amendment of the conspiracy statute, and repeal of the federal reserve act.

Gov. Bricker was indorsed for the G. O. P. Presidential nomination "on condition he goes on record for nationalism, as opposed to internationalism."

MILITARY RULE IN U.S. FORESEEN BY U. S. JUSTICE

Philadelphia, Pa., June 13 (AP).—Justice Owen J. Roberts of the United States Supreme court said tonight that "we shall soon have to substitute a military dictatorship for the individual liberties we have known" if the post-war world is composed of nations "who do as they please when powerful enough to impose their will."

"If we have the courage to cast our lot with men of other lands for world order," he said in a speech before the United Nation's council of Philadelphia, "let us do so wholeheartedly and in a way that will give some hope of success.

"If the United States is to live in a world of so-called sovereign nations, which means nations who do as they please when powerful enough to impose their will, then we must have a new kind of government. . . . We shall soon have to substitute a military dictatorship for the individual liberties we have known."

LIMBS FRACTURED IN 30 FOOT FALL.

YANKS BATTLE NAZI BLOWS AT 2 SEIZED TOWNS

were estimated at 2,000 and wounded at 1,200. American patrols reported to have reached Valognes were meeting increased resistances. Reënforcements from Brittany appeared to have reached the Germans in this area.

The American 4th division has secured a bridgehead beyond the flooded area west of Ste. Mere Eglise and at Pont l'Abbe was half way across the Cherbourg peninsula. There was more bitter fighting near Carentan and the Germans, according to one report had gained a foothold in that town.

It was admitted that Carentan might have been retaken in a counterattack. However, that was not regarded as particularly important in view of the developments of pincer movements around the town much farther inland. In other words, there was confidence that the allied forces now have sufficient strength to encircle the towns the Germans claim to have retaken.

The inundated areas between Carentan and the forest of Cerisy still present a complete vacuum in the allied front there. While the area itself was at the mercy of our bombers and guns, the gap in the front presents mutual flank support in the allied thrusts inland.

Driving Down on St. Lo.

CENTER [American and British troops].—American troops were driving down the road to the highway center of St. Lo. The Germans reported them six miles from the town which, a story from a reporter who viewed it from the air, said was a "shambles" and "in utter ruin."

On the east of the center sector there was fierce fighting around the ruins of Tilly-sur-Seulles. The ruins of the town changed hands several times.

EAST [British and Canadian troops].—Tanks and infantry battles ranged from Tilly-sur-Seulles to around Caen. Three German armored divisions were engaged. It was reported more German reserves were being thrown into the fight. The British 6th air borne division holding the Caen canal line, smashed a series of German counterattacks.

Troarn—6 miles inland, east of Caen—was captured, representing a flanking threat to the enemy's communications with the Seine river region. The Canadians reported 100 German tanks—nearly half a division—damaged on their part of the sector.

Americans 20 Miles Inland.

What was considered the best news of the day was the big penetration of the Americans from Balleroy to a point about 20 miles inland and the British push south from Bayeux, along with that on the extreme east of Troarn. The Americans were 5 miles south of Balleroy and just north of Caumont.

In discussing the phrase "according to plan" as it was used yesterday in connection with the present operations, it was learned at headquarters that the plans were drafted a year ago by the combined British and American general staffs both in London and in Washington, D. C.

The picture is not exactly that which had been drawn for the seventh day of the drive, but it was surprisingly close to it. It was said that on D-day, plus 7 days [today] the plan called for a beachhead in this area of 600 square miles, which compares almost exactly with that now held by the allies. The beachhead is estimated at present between 600 and 700 miles.

Out of Navy's Range.

The navy continued to pound targets far inland on a large scale at the direction of army observers. It was learned, however, that in the center of the bridgehead, the targets were getting out of range of the naval batteries.

For the most part, the naval fire has been of short range nature, but in some places the range has been as great as 20,000 yards and the battleships have given effective fire at a range of 30,000 yards, or approximately 17 miles in some instances. In the heavy armor battles at Tilly-sur-Seulles and Caen, naval guns have played a decisive role both in checking the enemy's counter-attack and making allied advances possible.

Still pouring equipment into Normandy, 11 big sky trains of gliders last night landed at advanced air strips of the United States 9th air force in France, unloading rations, ammunition, and other material. All the powered craft used returned to England safely early today.

A German broadcast said fresh allied troops had landed by air and from the sea near St. Vaast-la-Hougue under cover of the big guns of allied warships hammering Nazi coastal fortifications. St. Vaast is 15 miles east of Cherbourg.

German broadcasts said the Americans again had landed air borne troops during the night on the west side of the peninsula near Coutances. This would be at the rear of the axis troops fighting near Carentan, 20 miles to the northeast.

Weather Slows Air Action.

Bad weather slowed the allied air offensive but heavy day bombers continued their attacks on airfields west of Paris at Evreux-Fauville, Dreux and Illiers l'Eveque. Medium bombers slashed at the Rennes airfield and for 2½ hours strafed a vast area between the channel and Tours.

One heavy air attack knocked out a key bridge at Ponte-au-Bault, near Avranches, at the western foot of the Cherbourg peninsula, where it joins the Brittany peninsula. This bridge feeds the St. Lo area, as well as all the rest of the Cherbourg peninsula.

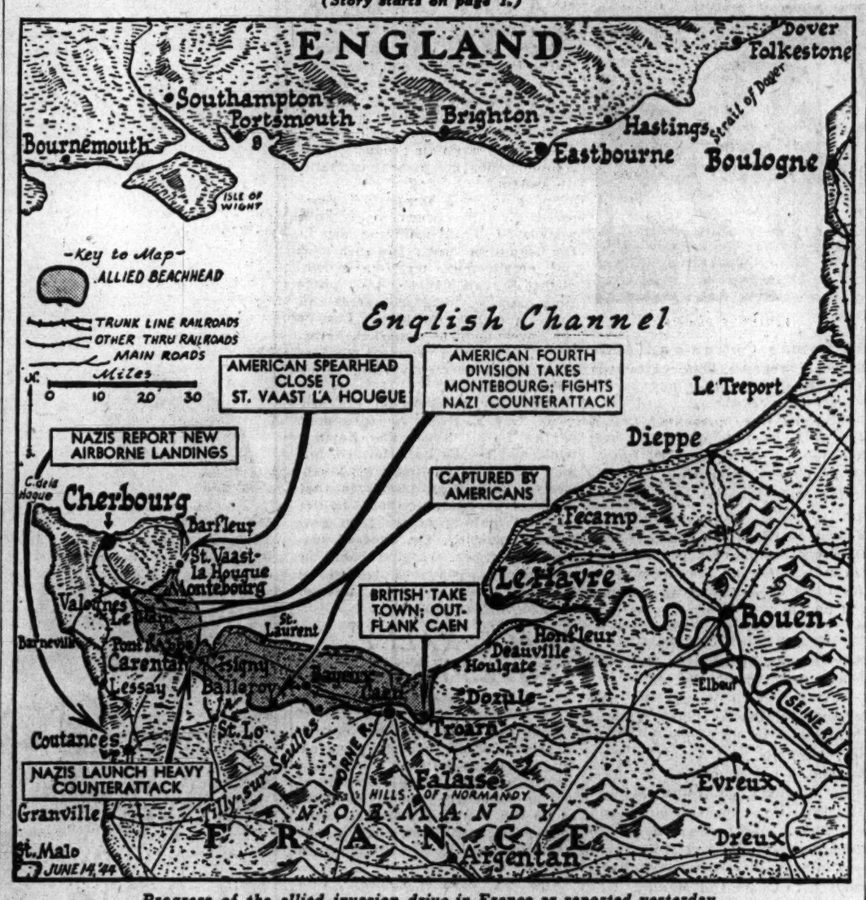

A German tank concentration in the Grimbosq forest, 10 miles southwest of Caen, was heavily bombed Monday. An enemy ammunition dump blew up in the forest.

A concentration of attacks upon German air fields already has caused the enemy to abandon some of them. There are 12 enemy fields within 100 miles of the invasion front and up to 15 more within 150 miles of the battle area.

The Germans announced officially that Gen. Marcks, in charge of the Cherbourg peninsula defense for the Nazis, had been killed in battle. The German bulletin described him as an army corps general and also referred to him as "the peninsula's gallant defender." There was also an unconfirmed report from France to the effect that Field Marshal Erwin Rommel had been dismissed as generalissimo of the Nazi defense.

GERMANS PUSH YANKS BACK IN CARENTAN FIGHT

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH U. S. FORCES IN NORMANDY, France, June 13.—In a desperate effort to retrieve the Carentan road net on the neck of the Cherbourg peninsula, the Germans made their first counter-attack this morning against American troops who had taken the town last night.

Latest reports tell of fierce fighting around the southern outskirts where our lines, which had been extended nearly two miles, were forced back about 1,000 yards.

The German attack apparently was aimed not only at recovering the strategic road net but also at driving thru the connecting link between the two American beachheads. If the Germans retake Carentan, they again would be in a position to shell the beachhead on the peninsula's east coast.

Hurl Elite Troops at Yanks.

As evidence of the importance of the Germans' attack, they threw in elements of one of their crack SS [elite guard] panzer grenadier divisions, sections of which the Americans had previously encountered in minor engagements.

Defending Carentan is the 101st air borne division, which so successfully demoralized German rear communications during D-day morning that the American 4th division landed and proceeded inland over marshes and lagoons against only minor interference.

The attack against Carentan was made with armored grenadiers and artillery. No Nazi tanks were in action.

Swamps Guard Flanks.

The terrain around Carentan and farther east along the Vire river estuary is unfavorable to tank maneuvers. It is low, swampy ground which effectively guards the flanks of one of our forces and prevents German armor from getting in there.

The best the enemy could hope for would be to install his guns there. But so far we have had a great preponderance of artillery—once our gunners were able to land—and should the Germans move guns into this area they would soon become targets for our air force, as well as field artillery and naval guns.

Paratroopers and glider men today helped defend Carentan and guns exploded periodically during the afternoon. Their targets presumably were troop concentrations and guns the Germans had moved up to shell Carentan.

Yank Paratroopers Better.

To blunt the edge of the German attack, which came from the south, the paratroopers put on their attack southwest, where high ground offers a dominating terrain feature.

The air borne warriors earlier had taken on some German paratroop regiments. These had been rushed in to hold the peninsula line. As in Sicily and Italy, the Germans find their paratroop trained men are their best shock soldiers, a development parallel to that in our own army. However, the particular units which our 101st met proved to be not their equal.

'VIRE LINE POSSIBLE'

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH U. S. FORCES NEAR CERISY FOREST, France, June 12 [Delayed].—On this the seventh day of our French invasion, American troops in the center force have pushed more than 15 miles south, still without meeting any except small local counter-attacks and a few strong delaying positions.

Yesterday the lead had been taken over by the famous 2d American division, the 1st division's rivals in the days of World War I. Today the 1st is again the spearhead. On our right flank, the 29th division also developed its positions.

Win "Elbow Room."

For the first time since landing we have penetrated deeply enough to get elbow room for the build-up of more divisions to follow. Knowing that the Germans will probably try to counter-attack, the official word along our supply lines over the beach is still "speed and still more speed."

To the surprise of the men, we have been fighting snipers and separate battalions, most of whom seem to have been thrown hastily into position to delay us while the Nazis attempt to extricate forces likely to be cut and gather them behind what may be prepared positions for their first real stand inland.

Where this line will be it is difficult to predict. But a study of the map would indicate the terrain favors the Vire river. There may be other switch lines utilizing hills ahead of us known as Collines de Normandy, with Mount Pincon as the highest point.

Artillery Horse Drawn.

Thruout this area it also seems apparent that the enemy has suffered from the lack of mobility. Most of his artillery, except for some self propelled and motor towed 88 millimeter guns, has been horse drawn. His vehicles, even before our invasion, said Frenchmen here, have been short of gasoline.

Both heavy and medium field artillery and allied bombers deserve accolades for their expert fire in softening up strong points and knocking out gun positions. In particular, our artillery again has proved itself most expert, pin pointing enemy batteries to such an extent that for the last four days no enemy shells have been able to register on the beaches.

THE BUTTER I MEAN is flecks of golden, honest-to-goodness butter dancing in the bottles of our Old-Style Churned Buttermilk. That's how you tell it's the real old-fashioned kind—just like grandma used to make in that heavy old wooden churn when you were a kid.

IT'S LIKE BEING DOWN ON THE FARM . . . to tilt back your head and let a stream of c-o-o-l, refreshing, thirst-quenching Bowman Buttermilk run down your throat. Makes you think of the cool, clean milkhouse in mid-summer . . . and cows calmly browsing in sunny meadows.

WAR BRINGS ITS STORIES RIGHT TO TRIBUNE WRITER

Nab Sharpshooter Few Feet from Thompson.

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH U. S. FORCES IN NORMANDY, France, June 13.—This war, which has had its moments of the toughest fighting imaginable, often goes strictly Gilbert and Sullivan. To wit:

Five minutes ago Capt. Robert Hughes of Greer, S. C., chief censor, shouted at me from one end of our orchard, where we correspondents were writing our dispatches beside a new press wireless radio station: "Jack. Come here quick."

On the other side of the hedge stood a trembling German soldier menaced by the guns of Lt. Ernest Gendreau of Providence, R. I., and Pvt. Anatole Kopp of New York City. They had been walking thru an adjacent orchard when the German stood up to surrender. Thru Paris-born Kopp, who speaks German, the soldier explained he had been hiding since losing his outfit a week ago.

Tells a Pathetic Story.

As a postscript two minutes ago came the sequel to the capture of the German. He had told a pathetic story of being abandoned by his pals and surrendering when he was hungry.

Kopp believed him until, like a good soldier, he searched the ditch near where the prisoner was taken. There lay the Nazi's beautiful Mauser rifle and the telescopic sights of a sharpshooter.

Kopp laughed as he said: "I knew how he felt when he gave himself up. He could only ask, 'Are you going to shoot me?' For two years I was in the French army until I was captured. Then I spent four months in a German prison camp as an interpreter before I could escape. I know how he felt as he stood there. But I felt much better."

Kopp again is an interpreter—for the American army this time.

"Our next act," announced Capt. Casey Dempsey of Urbana, Ill., a public relations officer, "will go on in exactly 30 minutes. Nothing ever happens to us. All we do is bring the story to your front yard."

2D DIVISION DRIVES ON

BY DON WHITEHEAD.

WITH U. S. FORCES NEAR CERISY FOREST, June 12 [Delayed] (AP).—The Germans pulled back so rapidly thru Cerisy forest before the United States 2d division that they had no time for demolitions and, in contrast, to Nazi withdrawals in Africa and Italy they left few mines behind.

[This was the first disclosure that the American 2d division was fighting in France.]

Keeping steady pressure on the enemy, the doughboys have made fast gains thru the green hedge-grown Norman countryside and, still pushing forward past Cerisy forest, have driven the Germans back to a point where only their long range guns can shell the landing beach.

Seize Big Ammunition Dump.

We had suspected Cerisy forest to be a hiding place for German armor, infantry and anti-tank defenses, but the American troops swept thru against only light opposition. East of Cerisy forest the doughboys captured a large ammunition dump.

The 2d division showed up exceptionally well. The troops were "trigger-happy" and nervous at the first shooting and at the slightest movement ahead of them, but after the first half day of guns, shells, and bullets, they settled down.

The division had its shakedown battle in capturing Trevieres, four and a half miles from the coast. The Germans had turned the town into a strongpoint. In bitter fighting the Americans left it a shambles of bullet and shell-pocked buildings.

After capturing the town the boys of the 2d division drove on and thru Cerisy forest, wiping out pockets of German resistance in a swift advance.

ADMIRAL HAILS GAINS

BY HANSON W. BALDWIN.
[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

ABOARD USS AUGUSTA IN THE BAY OF THE SEINE, June 13.—The invasion of Europe has been a great success, Rear Adm. Alan G. Kirk, commanding the western naval task force, said yesterday.

He reported all of the American front line except the Cherbourg flank now is beyond range of his guns. Giving high praise to the army and navy, he said that "power" properly applied was the answer to this success.

Ashore the littered beach has been considerably cleaned up; more obstacles have been removed; and supplies and troops are coming ashore more smoothly.

FRENCHWOMEN AID FOE

BY EDWARD V. ROBERTS.
[Representing the combined U. S. press; distributed by Associated Press.]

ALLIED ADVANCE COMMAND POST, England, June 13.—They tell you in France that some Frenchwomen will shoot Americans, altho most of them sobbingly arrange the bodies of American dead and place flowers on them.

When I rode thru the French beachhead yesterday in Gen. Eisenhower's caravan many Frenchwomen waved and shouted greetings. Some stared woodenly. Others turned their backs.

We were told of the capture of French women sharpshooters and of the discovery of women's clothing and toilet articles in German positions indicating some had lived with Nazi soldiers.

We were told that the Germans were popular with many young French girls and that several French maternity cases, in which the fathers admittedly were German, were receiving allied medical care.

Men Help Allies.

But we also were told of an old Frenchman who lives beside a road over which heavy American armor flows daily. Each day, the Frenchman comes out with a shovel and pick and repairs the stretch of road before his house.

A soldier told me the story about the mayor of a French village. For two years the Nazis forced the mayor to work for them for five francs [10 cents] a day. When the Americans came, the mayor slipped down to the beach and guided the invaders to his village.

As fighting for the village started, the mayor seized the rifle of a dead American and shot the Nazi commander who had been his boss.

LT. BERNARD FRYMAN, LIBERATOR PILOT, KILLED IN ACTION

Lt. Bernard Fryman.

Lt. Bernard Fryman, 24, pilot of a Liberator bomber stationed in England, was killed in action last April 29, the war department informed his mother, Mrs. Bertha Fryman, 4404 N. Rockwell st., yesterday.

Lt. Fryman was graduated from Roosevelt High school and attended Chicago Technical college. He worked as a bakery salesman before entering service in January, 1942.

Assigned to the tank corps, he was transferred to the air force and received his wings Aug. 30, 1943. Lt. Fryman went overseas early this year. He also is survived by a brother, Pvt. Sidney Fryman, attached to the 116th General hospital, Camp Ellis, Ill.

2 YANKS CAPTURE 12

BY LEWIS HAWKINS.

ABOARD A WARSHIP OFF THE FRENCH COAST, June 11 [Delayed]—(AP).—Being a naval scout is interesting work, but there are a few minutes today when big Phil Bucklew of Columbus, O., and Grand Andreasen of Shoshone, Idaho, would have preferred something else.

The two lieutenants, junior grade, were driving along a narrow road atop a dike leading from Isigny to the sea. They spotted an enemy pillbox astride the narrow road. There was not enough room to turn around. So they kept moving slowly, clutching automatic pistols, their only weapons.

A head suddenly popped up. Before they could shoot, the man raised a white flag and explained he was a German soldier and wanted to surrender on behalf of 11 others in the pillbox—all Russians. The Americans boldly accepted the surrender.

"I doubt if there ever were any more frightened victors in the world," Bucklew said. "Suppose they had decided to try just one shot before surrendering."

Blast Pockets of Germans.

A tour of the central beachhead indicated the Germans lost their chance to push us back into the sea during the first three days. Now our armies have landed in such strength that the most perilous period has passed.

The swiftness with which American troops, guns and supplies were put ashore this last week, despite many handicaps, is reassuring.

U. S. NAVY AIDS CANADIAN SHIP TO SINK U-BOAT

OTTAWA, Ont., June 13 (AP).—A United States destroyer and destroyer escort, and a Grumman Avenger plane from an American aircraft carrier assisted the Canadian frigate Prince Rupert in destroying a U-boat in a recent mid-Atlantic action, Canadian Navy Minister Angus Macdonald announced today.

Sent to the bottom by a barrage from the guns of the new frigate, the U-boat was the fourth victim of the Canadian navy in the last 10 weeks. Fourteen of the German crew were taken prisoners.

"This was an excellent example of combined operations," Macdonald commented, "not only between the sea and air power, but between ships of the Canadian and United States navies."

YANKS ADVISED TO HELP FRENCH WOMEN; DADS DID

LONDON, June 13 (AP).—The United States war department, looking ahead to the time when American troops may have leisure hours in France, advises them in a 36 page booklet distributed on the Normandy beachhead to give the women a hand with the housework.

"French women still talk about how your fathers did," it states.

The soldiers were advised also not to wink at the French girls and to keep hands off "if you want to keep out of trouble."

"Probably you won't get mixed up with a Mata Hari," the booklet said, "but keep your lips zipped just the same, and don't brag."

INDICATE BRITISH WILL BACK U. S. IN DE GAULLE STAND

Washington, D. C., June 13 (AP).—Great Britain has officially indicated that it will go along with United States policy toward Gen. Charles de Gaulle, it was learned today.

The notice, untangling a year-long diplomatic snarl, arrived shortly before an announcement in London that the exile governments of Poland, Czechoslovakia, Luxembourg and Belgium, are recognizing De Gaulle's French committee as a provisional government.

The United States has held out against such recognition for the Algiers committee before the French people can make their own views known. The contention here has been that Gen. Eisenhower should be free to choose officials for liberated French areas.

Expects to See F. D. R.

Britain had leaned a good deal further toward acceptance of De Gaulle's demands for recognition.

The British message presumably was a reply to President Roosevelt's formula for dealing with De Gaulle, sent to London three months ago. A less official indication of British disposition to accept the United States view was given by Prime Minister Churchill in a speech three weeks ago.

Gen. De Gaulle is expected to come here late this month or early next month to confer with President Roosevelt. It is believed that he will renew his request for at least an operative agreement, similar to those which have been made with Norway, Belgium, and Holland, if not for recognition as a provisional government.

French Name Leaders.

ALGIERS, June 13 (AP).—The French committee of national liberation, serving notice that it expects the allies to respect its authority within France, named civil and military administrators today for liberated regions of Normandy.

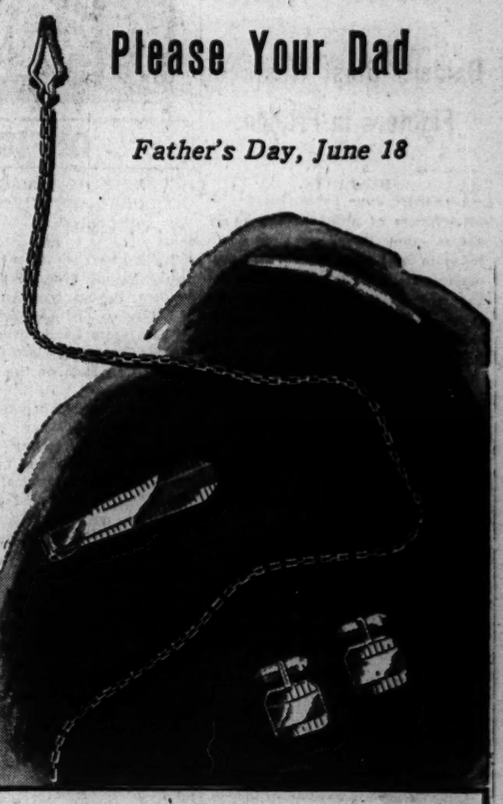

Francois Coulet was appointed "regional commissar of the republic for the region of Rouen" to handle civilian administration and Col. Pierre de Chevigne was named "commander of the third military region" [Normandy].

House Group O.K.'s Ships Transfer to S. America

Washington, D. C., June 13 (AP).—The house naval affairs committee, acting on a recommendation by Navy Secretary Forrestal, today approved legislation permitting the outright transfer of small naval craft to South American republics.

Raiders Blast Nests of Fighters in France.

BULLETIN.

LONDON, June 14 [Wednesday]—(AP).—Waves of allied planes swept across sunny Dover strait at dawn today in new offensive thrusts supporting the allied invasion armies and a short time later the Berlin radio announced that allied raiders had penetrated to western Germany.

LONDON, June 13 (AP).—American heavy bombers struck two heavy blows at the network of German air fields behind the Normandy battlefront today in an effort to rub out Nazi aerial resistance which had been bolstered by an estimated 300 enemy fighter planes.

Hundreds of Flying Fortresses and Liberators with fighter escorts took part in the double operation against tactical invasion targets while strong forces of Italy-based United States heavyweights hammered the Munich area in old Austria.

The number of allied landing strips on French soil was increased to five and lighter craft from these fields increased their support of the advancing ground forces.

Light Opposition from Nazis.

German fighter opposition in general was light.

The day's first mission for the United States heavy bombers striking from British bases was against air fields at Evreux-Fauville, Dreux and Illieres-L'Eveque. Late in the day they attacked two air fields north of Paris and railroad bridges south of the beachhead.

Targets in Battle Area.

United States medium, light, and fighter-bombers ranged over France from the beachhead to as far south as Tours, even firing at ground gunners in foxholes.

American Marauders and Havocs attacked twice before noon, striking at rail bridges, armored concentrations, ferries, an air field near Rennes, and intersections, vehicles, and supply dumps in the battle area.

A Thunderbolt group swept a 175 mile sector for 2½ hours, destroying 41 German trucks, 8 staff cars, 7 locomotives, and 15 flatcars carrying armored vehicles. They also shot up a German bivouac area, and three gun positions.

Innsbruck Raided.

More than 1,000 R. A. F. bombers poured 1,500 tons of bombs on the synthetic oil center of Gelsenkirchen last night, touching off great explosions and fires.

Then the American heavies from Italy followed up today and hit oil facilities, airdromes, factories, and rail yards around Munich, Innsbruck, and Porto Marghrera, near Venice. Flak was heavy.

WALLACE HAILS SIBERIA, URGES U. S.-RED UNITY

MOSCOW, June 13 (AP).—Vice President Henry Wallace, speaking in the Russian language, told an audience in Novosibirsk today that "our two great peoples" must work together in peace, as well as in war, for the reconstruction of devastated areas.

The people of the northwestern United States, he said, have much in common with those of Siberia, and the northwest "should understand how necessary it is to industrialize . . . as well as you have industrialized Siberia."

"We in the northwest," he said, referring to North Dakota, Montana, Washington, and Alaska, "think we have achieved good work in the realm of agriculture, but you have achieved a perfect work in agriculture and industry."

The Vice President, who is en route to China, pointed out that industrialization has increased Siberia's production ten times in 15 years.

OFFICIAL BULLETINS

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, June 13 (AP).—War bulletin No. 16 issued tonight said:

"Allied troops have advanced generally in all sectors, particularly south of Bayeux between the forest of Cerisy and Tilly-sur-Seulles.

"Two more towns have been liberated. They are Troarn, on the left, and Le Ham, in the Cherbourg peninsula.

"More than 10,000 prisoners have now been taken.

"Attempts by enemy light craft were made last night to approach our lines of communications. The enemy was intercepted and driven off by our naval patrols.

"Deteriorating weather today slowed down our air offensive. Nevertheless, escorted heavy day bombers continued their attacks on air fields to the west of Paris at Evreux-Fauville, Dreux, and Illiers l'Eveque. A fuel dump at Dreux was set afire.

"Medium bombers were also active and again attacked the Rennes air field. Ranging from the channel to Tours, fighter-bombers swept the area for two and a half hours, destroying seven locomotives and some 50 vehicles and strafing encampments.

"E-boats, which had been attacked off Boulogne early in the morning by coastal aircraft, were again hit later in the day by rocket and cannon firing fighters.

"In these engagements, at least three enemy ships were sunk and others were left on fire or badly damaged.

"Reconnaissance photographs show that severe damage was done to the railway centers of Orleans and Rennes, which were attacked by heavy bombers on the nights of June 10 and 11."

GERMAN WAR REPORT.

LONDON, June 13 (AP).—The German war bulletin broadcast from Berlin today and recorded here by the Associated Press, said:

"In Normandy yesterday [Monday] the enemy, very strongly and continuously supported by air force, at numerous points attempted to widen his bridgehead toward the south and the southwest. Fighting in the area west of Caen and south of Bayeux was particularly fierce. Numerous enemy tanks were destroyed in a successful defense against enemy attacks. The enemy suffered heavy casualties.

"German bombers fighting the enemy landing fleet scored full hits on two major freighters. Seventy-six enemy aircraft were downed over the invasion front and occupied western Europe, General of Artillery Marcks, commanding general of the army corps and gallant defender of the Cherbourg peninsula, was killed in heavy fighting in the foremost line."

BELGIANS TOLD GERMANS MOVE KING TO REICH

Premier Says Nazis Fear New Blow.

LONDON, June 13 (AP).—Belgian Premier Hubert Pierlot told his homeland tonight that the Germans had removed King Leopold in "captivity to Germany as part of the measures decided upon in expectation of the approaching arrival of the armies of liberation."

King Leopold.

Broadcasting over the Belgian national station in London, he declared the Germans, "feeling Belgium is about to escape them, hasten to put the finishing touch to their work of disorganization and destruction."

Belgian sources said the king, kept under heavy guard in his palace since Belgium's capitulation in 1940, was removed to Germany the day after invasion broke because the enemy feared he was a potential rallying point for Belgian resistance.

Railmen Sabotage Transport.

The Belgian news agency reported railway workers had joined in the spreading underground resistance in Europe by sabotaging German transport in spite of threats against their lives and those of their families.

Frenchmen and other travelers crossing the border into Spain said that Tarbes, the capital of the Upper Pyrenees department with a population of 35,000, was in the hands of French Maquis, who had taken 300 German prisoners.

They reported strong forces of mobile guards and gendarmes in the pay of Vichy had been dispatched by special train to Tarbes from Bayonne and Biarritz, but upon their arrival Saturday night the entire force joined the guerrillas.

Diplomats reaching Spain from Switzerland said the fortress of Bellegarde, dominating the road and rail links between Lyon and Geneva, had been stormed by guerrillas who overpowered the German garrison of 100 with the help of Vichy gendarmes and mobile guardsmen.

Resistance Intensified.

Reports from the continent tonight said French guerrillas had been working hand-in-hand with the invading allies since D-day, striking so effectively at enemy communications that the Germans were forced to multiply guards on rails and roads.

Intensified underground resistance was recounted by responsible French quarters, who said communications were paralyzed in Savoy and Jura while patriots harassed the enemy's rear in Brittany and in the Pyrenees and sabotaged rail lines in Cote d'Or.

The Moscow radio said that Vichy was gripped by fear and panic and that strong SS [elite] units had been sent by the Nazis to set up forbidden zones for civilians and to guard government offices and the homes of Vichy Chief of State Henri Petain and Chief of Government Pierre Laval.

500,000 IN ALLIED INVASION ARMY, GERMANS CLAIM

LONDON, June 13 (AP).—German broadcasts said tonight the allies had "half a million first class troops" in Normandy and that the battle for Cherbourg peninsula was entering the "decisive phase."

The Berlin radio said "everybody is waiting for the start of a great new tank battle" at Caen and acknowledged the allies had driven a narrow wedge into German positions in Bois de Bevant, about seven miles northeast of Caen on the east side of the Orne estuary.

Lt. Gen. Kurt Dittmar, DNB news agency commentator, said the continent was "in a crisis," the first landing "has succeeded," and "others will follow." He said the British and Americans had enormous forces and materials just off the continent. Ludwig Sertorius, the military commentator, said the Americans here were the toughest, most seasoned troops, "including some formations which fought the Japanese in the Solomons."

FREED IN DISORDERLY CASE.

Carl Brecht, 44, of 4510 Greenwood av., a motion picture operator employed by the Keep Chicago Safe committee, was freed yesterday of a charge of disorderly conduct by Judge Edward P. Lucsak of the Wabash av. court, who had taken the case under advisement.

FINNS TO PAY INSTALMENT ON DEBT TO U. S.

Washington, D. C., June 13—(AP).—The United States has decided to let Finland pay the June 15 instalment on her World War I debt to this country, government officials said today.

The treasury's foreign funds control division will grant the little European nation a license to tap her funds tied up in this country to meet the payment of $148,445.06 and so maintain her unique record of never defaulting.

Finland, maintaining diplomatic relations with this country altho at war with Russia and Britain, still owes the United States $9,000,000.

PRESS WIRELESS SENDS NEWS AT FRONT IN FRANCE

With an expert crew headed by a former W-G-N engineer, Press Wireless, Inc., world-wide communications system, began broadcasting news matter from the beachhead in Normandy to the United States Monday afternoon, Joseph Pierson, president, disclosed yesterday. Thus Press Wireless, which was the last American communications service to leave after the fall of France in 1940, became the first to get back in and send out the news directly from the western front. Press Wireless carried on for 14 days in June, 1940, first from Tours and finally from Bordeaux, after other services closed up.

Press Wireless is operating with a mobile transmitter mounted on a truck. The crew of eight men is headed by Myron J. Earl, 910 Lawrence av., for many years a technician with W-G-N.

Press Wireless was organized in 1929 by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and several associated papers.

People are talking about the NAVAL STRATEGY articles in the new Post

BRITISH OFFICIAL PHOTOS

NOW—from British Admiralty records—comes the almost unbelievable story of the blasting of the Nazi battleship, Tirpitz—most powerful ship in the world.

It's the amazing record of the surprise attack by tiny British submarines . . . of their penetration of a heavily mined and netted Norwegian fjord . . . of their unexpected arrival at the supposedly safe anchorage of the Tirpitz . . . and of the months of precision planning that brought these toy killers within a two-hundred-yard range of the 40,000-ton battle monster.

It's the thrilling story, too, of the follow-up attack—the sixty-second blitz by Barracuda Bombers—most modern and complete carrier-based plane in history.

Read this authoritative record of the naval and air strategy that put the Tirpitz out of commission for at least six months.

History before its time

WHEN peace has come finally, and a free historic recording of this war's battle strategies is possible—there will be many a story like these that come now from the pen of C. S. Forester.

For the present—we classify his work as history before its time. Mr. Forester is perhaps the outstanding historian of the sea. His la[st] epic account of a great sea battle—How the British Sank the Scharnhorst, will be long remembered by the millions who were first to read it in the Post, March 25, 1944.

Equally vivid and dramatic is this historic story told from British Admiralty records, of the search for the hidden Tirpitz.

"How the Midgets Hit the Tirpitz" proves again the undeniable fact millions know—that in Naval Strategy Articles as in Fiction, Mystery, Romance, Business, Politics, Humor, the great things naturally come first to the new Post.

GERMANS DIG IN; BATTLE 60 MILES NORTH OF ROME

Make Stand Near Vital Highway Town.

ROME, June 13 (AP).—Remnants of the German 14th army fleeing northwestward from Rome have dug in before the road junction town of Bolsena, on the northeastern tip of the lake of that name, and for the past 48 hours have been offering stiff resistance to the allied 5th army, a front dispatch said tonight.

Bolsena is 60 miles from Rome and eight miles from the important center of Orvieto. The Nazis have been pouring anti-tank and machine gun fire at the American tanks and infantry since Sunday. The enemy's position commands the only approach to Bolsena by highway.

"Until we ran into this fire," reported Associated Press Correspondent Sid Feder, "we had traveled 17 miles from Viterbo in slightly more than 24 hours along a road littered with German transport and dead horses.

Smash Thru on West Shore.

"Altho the allies have suffered some casualties in this stand of the Germans to protect the vital highway 74 miles beyond Bolsena—the route connecting eastern and western enemy forces—the stand also is proving costly to the Nazis. About 50 prisoners have been brought in, in the past 24 hours."

Allied forces driving up the western shore of Lake Bolsena smashed thru a makeshift enemy defense line and again threw the Germans into retreat.

The allies captured Valentano, highway junction on the western shore of the lake, and pressed on toward Latera, four miles north. In a sharp engagement east of Orbetello, on the Tyrrhenian coast 71 miles from Rome, Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's forces captured 142 prisoners from the German 162d Turcoman division and killed 100.

Clark Thanks Troops.

Clark told his troops they had broken the German armies opposing them in Italy and said "I want to thank you from the bottom of my heart."

East of Rome the 8th army had virtually cleared highway No. 5 leading from the capital to the port of Pescara on the Adriatic sea. Two more cities on the highway, Popoli and Carsoli, were captured yesterday, and allied troops crossed the Saline river, five miles north of captured Pescara, at several places.

Nazis Flee Along Adriatic.

Opening of the highway from Pescara to Rome would greatly facilitate the supply of Lt. Gen. Oliver Leese's 8th army, just as it once formed the backbone of the Nazis' communications across Italy.

Front dispatches said German forces in the Adriatic sector now were in almost precipitate retreat as those along the west coast, fleeing thru many towns and villages without putting up a fight. British troops who occupied Popoli yesterday advanced 10 miles in less than 24 hours.

PORTER AND $425 MISSING.

Thomas Brown, 1120 Granville av., reported to police yesterday that a Negro porter in Brown's tavern had disappeared with $425.

PRINCE BECOMES ROME'S MAYOR IN COLORFUL RITES

Yank Band Plays; Throngs Attend.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Italy, June 13.—Prince Filippo Andrea Doria Pamphili took office this evening as mayor of Rome in a ceremony mingling the ancient, the medieval, and the modern in the Piazza del Campidoglio atop Capitoline hill.

The prince, who is the present head of an old Italian family, was welcomed to his new post by Brig. Gen. Edgar Erskine Hume, allied military government [AMG] chief, and Gen. Roberto Bencivenga, who had held the mayoralty post for a week since the allies' arrival.

Gathered on the hill top, where the temples to Juno and Jupiter rose 24 centuries ago, stood a crowd of several thousand American soldiers, Italian civilians, and monks. A Yank army unit band played Italian, American, British, and French marches.

Speak from Palace.

The prince, Hume and Bencivenga spoke from the porch of the senatorial palace, which dates to the 12th century and is the seat of the city government. The prince wore civilian clothes, Hume and Bencivenga were in dress uniform. In attendance were the city guards clad in colorful red and gold costumes and carrying banners of medieval Roman houses of nobility.

Hume said that as Rome belongs to the ages even a brief page in its history is important. He said the allies have two objectives in Italy—to drive the enemy from the country and to do what we can to assist Italy in returning to her normal way of life. He added:

"We are being mindful of the immemorial custom of entrusting to a Roman prince the direction of the city's affairs and therefore we [the Rome area command] invited such a leader to assume office. There will be giunta [city council] members to be announced shortly."

Sees Rome as Model City.

Bencivenga said he was giving the heartfelt gratitude of the population of Rome for the allies' liberation and sparing of the city, and anticipated under the prince's guidance that "Rome will become the model of what a free city should be in the healthy regime of democracy and liberty."

Prince Doria also offered thanks for the sparing of Rome.

"My appeal is for civic and brotherly love," he said, "for the sincere wish for mutual understanding and harmony of minds, to which I am sure the memory of so many of our dead pledges us." He concluded in the words of a Roman to the Romans: "'We will it if it is for the good'."

PALATINE CORPORAL'S GERMAN GIVES HIM AN INSIGHT INTO GERMANS

ABOARD A HOSPITAL SHIP OFF BRITAIN, June 13 (AP).—Corp. George Fiene of 428 N. Plum Grove av., Palatine, Ill., who learned a smattering of German from his parents, made these observations today about Germans after several trips to Normandy bringing back wounded prisoners:

Corp. George Fiene.

They denounce Hitler and say they were forced to fight. Most believe the war will end by fall. The prisoners either are very young or quite old. They would like to be sent to the United States. Some were surprised by the invasion. Not all churches in Germany are closed; most prisoners had some sort of religion.

[Corp. Fiene, 21, who was born in Palatine, was graduated from Palatine High school and entered the army on March 4, 1943. After basic training he was assigned to the medical corps. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Fiene, and a sister, Alice, live in Palatine.

F. D. R. Declines to Tell Italian Armistice Terms

Washington, D. C., June 13 (AP).—President Roosevelt said today that reasons of military security forbid publication of the terms of the armistice which took Italy out of the war. Last week he said there appeared to be no reason to keep the terms secret after the fall of Rome, but today he said further inquiry showed the military considers it unsafe to make the document public.

REDS SAY ARMY DRIVES WITHIN 30 MI. OF VIIPURI

LONDON, June 14 [Wednesday] —(AP).—The spearhead of the Red army's northward drive into Finland plunged to within 30 miles of the important port of Viipuri during fierce fighting Tuesday, Moscow reported early today.

Finnish and German radio reports said the Russians were attacking in the Lisa sector between Murmansk and Petsamo and that there was strong reconnaissance activity in the Kandalaksha and Loukhi sectors 250 miles to the south. Berlin also asserted the Russians were striking southwest of Narva.

Kandalaksha is on the shore of the White sea and Loukhi is farther south on the railway from Archangel across Finland to the Gulf of Bothnia.

Win New Strongpoints.

Moscow's midnight supplement to the regular nightly war bulletin concerned itself only with the fighting on the Karelian isthmus. It announced that the Russians had captured several strongpoints Tuesday and listed five in the area of Kivennapa, which they had taken Monday. These were Stekiyannaya, Kelrola, Ronnukjula, Vehmajnen, and Tijranmjaki.

The Russians, already thru the second belt of fortifications guarding the approaches to the Mannerheim line, now are within 20 miles of this main defense barrier across the isthmus, the Moscow bulletins indicated.

[The Finnish radio warned civilians in Helsinki to leave the capital and ordered those already evacuated not to return during the present state of emergency, said a British broadcast heard in New York.]

Finns Report Stout Defense.

Finnish sources reported thru Stockholm that a stout defense was being thrown against the soviet forces in the Kivennapa sector. They said the Vammelsuu river front still was intact.

Behind Kivennapa there is hilly country with elevations up to 300 feet and many small lakes, and on the eastern side of the isthmus a natural obstacle to the Red army's advance is presented by marsh land about 20 miles long and three to four miles wide.

Other Moscow accounts of the northward drive by Col. Gen. Leonid A. Govorov called the attack by artillery, tanks, infantry and planes one of the mightiest commined operations the soviets have yet attempted.

Report Finns Flee.

Finnish troops were fleeing so fast before the Red army's advance that the Moscow radio said towns were being abandoned intact and there were predictions that Finland would be knocked out of the war by July 1.

Russian troops were reported moving down two main roads toward Viipuri. Sections of the road running along the Gulf of Finland from Terijoki to Viipuri were said to be under fire of Russian artillery.

Fighting was in progress in almost continuous daylight, the long, white summer nights offering hardly any dark hours. The Russians were blasting thru deep fortifications, which included German self-propelled guns dug into the earth, and now were reaching the core of the Finnish defenses.

TWO SCIENTISTS HAIL NEW DRUG AS GOITER CURE

Use of a synthetic drug called thiouracil may reduce generally the need for operations for toxic goiters, it was predicted yesterday at a session of the Association for the Study of Internal Secretions. The group, which held its final session last night in the Stevens hotel, met in conjunction with the annual convention of the American Medical association.

The prediction was made by Dr. E. B. Astwood of Harvard university medical school, who has conducted extensive research on thiouracil, and who was presented the Ciba award in recognition of his efforts. Another thiouracil expert, Dr. Robert H. Williams of Thorndyke Memorial laboratory, Boston, Mass., said that thiouracil has been used successfully on 152 goiter sufferers. The drug, made of sulphur and urea, is not on the market.

Sulfa Drugs Discussed.

In the Drake hotel, another medical group, the American Gastroenterological association, heard expert reports on the use of sulfa drugs for the treatment of inflammation of the intestines and the biliary tract. Dr. J. A. Bargen of Rochester, N. Y., said that sulfas are important in the treatment of infections, but that their use in dysentery and various forms of colitis is limited.

The Gastroenterological association also heard a report on underwater blast waves by Capt. R. H. Draeger of the naval medical research institute in Bethesda, Md. These waves may sometimes be fatal, he said, but the actual death rate is low.

Jeep Disease Described.

A war created ailment known as "jeep disease" was described to the American Proctologic society in the Stevens. This is, literally, a pain in the seat and comes from long riding on the bouncing jeep. The medicos call it pilonidal cyst.

OLD FASHIONED Favorites

A "syllabub under the cow" is the quaint yet expressive name of a delicacy highly esteemed at Mount Vernon. This is the recipe from Martha Washington's cook-book: "Put a bottle of either red or white wine, ale or cyder into a china bowl. Sweeten with sugar and grate in some nutmeg, then hold it under the cow and milk into it until it has a fine froth at the top; strew over it currants plumped before the fire."

We can't vouch for the flavor of the curious old recipe described above . . . but we do know that many of the old-fashioned recipes for Martha Washington Candies have been favorites through generations of families all over the nation. Perhaps it's because we lay such emphasis upon the good old-fashioned virtues of wholesome purity, choicest ingredients and just-out-of-the-kitchen freshness . . . and because our proud traditions of quality have always remained exactly the same.

GEN. IKE HINTS THERE WILL BE NEW INVASIONS

Armed Flood to Pour on Europe, He Says.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 13.—Hints of forthcoming additional allied invasions of continental Europe, possibly from the north as well as in southern France and the Balkans, were contained in a report by Gen. Eisenhower, supreme allied commander in Europe, which President Roosevelt read to his press conference today.

The President also read a message from Averell Harriman, American ambassador to Moscow, quoting soviet Dictator Stalin on the invasion.

"The history of war," said Stalin, "never has witnessed such a grandiose operation—an operation that Napoleon himself never even attempted."

Napoleon planned an invasion of England and assembled a fleet and an army for the purpose, but abandoned the scheme as impracticable.

Report from Eisenhower.

Gen. Eisenhower's report to the President follows:

"On June 6 we initiated the first vital step leading to the decisive battle of Europe. The first great obstacle has been surmounted—that is the breaching of the beach defenses that the enemy by lavish employment of enslaved labor had installed in forestlike density along the entire lateral of northwest Europe.

"Gallantry, fortitude, and skill were called for and these, in abundant measure, the entire allied force has displayed since the opening day of the battle. A particularly satisfying feature of the fighting has been the fine performance of troops—American, British, and Canadian—committed to battle for the first time.

Army of Three Arms.

"Just as they did and are still doing in the Mediterranean, these untried allied units have conducted themselves in a manner worthy of their more experienced comrades who conquered the Germans in Africa, Sicily, and Italy.

"What is more important, complete unity between the air, ground, and naval services has prevailed.

"Satisfactory as is the progress of this battle to date, in magnitude it is but a mere beginning to the tremendous struggles that must follow before final victory is achieved. Altho the cross-channel landing operation was attended by hazards and difficulties greater, I believe, than have ever before faced an invading army, this initial success has given us only a foothold upon northwestern France.

"Thru the opening thus made, and thru others yet to come, the flood of our fighting strength must be poured.

Other Assaults to Come.

"Our operations, vast and important as they are, are only part of the far larger pattern of a combined assault against the fortress of Germany by the great Russian armies from the east and our forces from the Mediterranean.

"The Nazis will be forced to fight thruout the perimeter of their stronghold, daily expending their dwindling resources until overwhelmed by the hopelessness of their position. To this end we need every man, every weapon, and all the courage and fortitude of our respective peoples. The allied soldier will do his duty."

New Money in France.

Mr. Roosevelt described at some length the "invasion money" being issued jointly by the British and American governments for the use of the allied forces in France. He said that money is as essential to an invading army as are guns and shells. The current French money is of German issue. After conference with the French national committee the combined allied chiefs of staff authorized the issue of paper money called "supplemental currency" in eight denominations ranging from two francs to 5,000 francs at the rate of 50 francs to the American dollar and 200 francs to the British pound.

The notes, printed in the French language, carry a declaration that the currency is the obligation of Great Britain and the United States. This was done to oblige the French committee of liberation which objected to the use of regular British and American money.

Used to Pay Troops.

The money is being used to pay allied troops and for local purchase of supplies by quartermasters.

As soon as a stable government shall be established in France there will be a due accounting of the currency issue and the French will not be cheated. To guard against inflation it is necessary to curb spending by soldiers in invaded territory. Soldiers are being encouraged to send a large part of their pay home and to buy war bonds.

U.S. SET TO USE GAS IF ENEMY RESORTS TO IT

Chemical Troops Show Off New Weapons.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Bayway, N. J., June 13.—The United States army stands ready to use poison gas against axis forces should a brutal and indiscriminate enemy resort to this lethal weapon to repel the allied victory drives toward Berlin and Tokyo, Brig. Gen. Allen H. Waitt, assistant chief of chemical warfare service in charge of field operations, declared here today.

"The duty of the chemical warfare service is to provide defense against poison gas, and we are fully prepared to meet any enemy assault," he said. "But should the enemy resort to this weapon, the army is fully prepared to retaliate in kind."

The general disclosed that American forces are ready to meet gas attacks and reply in kind at a demonstration of invasion chemical warfare weapons here. The weapons, developed and perfected by the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, included oil incendiary bombs which spread burning gasoline jelly, flame throwers which shoot the sticky gobs, and smoke generators.

Oil Incendiary Effective.

The oil bomb resembles a piece of hexagonal pipe about two feet long. It is packed with two and a half pounds of jellied gasoline, which is ejected from the bomb's tail. Demonstrations by the chemical warfare service showed that it burns with greater destructive force than the German magnesium bomb, which burns briefly at a flame temperature of 3,000 degrees. The oil incendiary has an advantage of wider combustion because it splatters a mass of burning agent against a target, which would spread into a pancake mass three feet in circumference and a quarter of an inch thick.

The bomb has a fuse which ignites on impact. It is released from clusters which cover a wide area. In demonstrations it was employed with terrific effect against substantial construction such as might be found in Europe and slight structures such as might be found in Asia.

Superior to Liquid Fuel.

The flame thrower employs a jelled gasoline similar to that used in the bomb. This is superior to liquid fuel for the torches because it burns longer and with heavy intensity. The liquid petroleum flame thrower shoots a brief burst of billowing flame effective up to only 60 feet.

The thickened fuel flame thrower can fire effectively up to 180 feet. It has a longer duration of burning with far less hazard to the operator. The two types of throwers were demonstrated on pill box targets by chemical warfare troops. It was agreed that the new fuel is far superior in effectiveness and ease of handling to the liquid type.

The third weapon, which is purely defensive, has been employed in Europe and Asia with equal effect. It is the smoke generator. In the demonstration this was used to blanket a valley. The smoke mixture, which has a petroleum base, is ejected from the generator at a speed of 1,100 feet a second and quickly puts a concealing pall over areas or equipment to be concealed.

Used at Anzio.

Gen. Waitt disclosed that the smoke generators have been used at Anzio beachhead and in Africa. In Italy, he said, they concealed from the enemy artillery installations, the harbor and the road by which the allied forces were supplied. Without this weapon, he indicated the beachhead would have been lost.

Two quarts of liquid diffused by the generator will conceal an entire city block, it was demonstrated. The generator was developed at the order of the chemical warfare service with the coöperation of the national defense research committee.

ALLIES WIN TWO HILLS PERILING KOHIMA IN INDIA

SOUTHEAST ASIA HDQ., Kandy, Ceylon, June 13 (AP).—The allies have won a two months' battle for control of heights above and below their east India base of Kohima with the capture of Aradura on the south and Japanese withdrawal from Naga village on the north, it was announced today.

The removal of the Japanese menace to Kohima was described officially as "of vital importance to operations thruout the whole of the eastern theater."

A bulletin from Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's forces said Chinese troops, with mortar and artillery support, occupied a strong point in the northwest section of Myitkyina, main Japanese base in north Burma, while Americans took a strong position in the south part of the town.

4 MILLION AUTOS SENT TO SCRAP HEAP IN 2 YEARS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 13.—Nearly 4 million of the 34,461,018 motor vehicles that were on the roads in 1941 went out of use in 1942 and 1943 and have not been replaced, the public roads administration of the federal works agency reported today. In Illinois, where 1,803,570 cars were registered in 1943, the decline from the number registered in 1942 was 8.5 per cent.

The nationwide decrease in 1943 was 6.4 per cent with the greatest decrease in cars reported in Washington, D. C., New York, and New Hampshire. Utah was the only state that showed an increase.

State registrations in 1943 and the per cent of decrease they represent from 1942 figures include: Indiana, 987,877 or 5.4 per cent; Iowa, 713,177 or 6.3; Michigan, 1,514,742 or 5.4; Minnesota, 778,744 or 7.8; Wisconsin, 840,291 or 4.7.

CHINESE KILL 300 JAPS IN FIGHT TO HOLD CHANGSHA

CHUNGKING, China, June 13 (AP).—The Chinese announced that heavy fighting raged on the outer defenses of the Hunan capital of Changsha today after the defenders beat off a Japanese attempt to cross the Liuyang river east of the city in what may have been an attempt to take it from the south.

The high command announced 300 Japanese were killed in one sector and severe fighting proceeded. One Japanese force shifted to the Siang river, which runs north and south thru Changsha, to attack Wusha, 12 miles northwest.

While the battle for the rice bowl continued. Japanese forces to the north in Honan province threatened the Shensi province gateway city of Tungkwan, advancing along the Lunghai railway on the town of Wensiang, 20 miles east of Tungkwan. Chinese and American air forces raided Loyang and Sikung, in a blow apparently aimed at the base of this striking force, starting fires in enemy barracks.

OUT OF GAS AND LOST AT SEA—IT ISN'T EVEN FUNNY

Liberator Sights Land Just in Time.

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ADVANCED NEW GUINEA AIR BASE, June 13.—Imagine being in a plane lost in a storm at sea and suddenly discovering you are almost out of gas.

Arthur Veysey.

That's what happened to plane 333 today and it wasn't funny. I know. I happened to be on the plane.

Plane 333 is a brand new Liberator, so new that she hasn't yet got a name or a picture painted on her nose. She got kicked about in three storms in quick succession on a raid on Palau Islands, and as a result we were still wandering about at sea at dawn when we were supposed to be landing.

We didn't know where we were, but nobody worried because we had 400 gallons of gas untouched in the bomb bay, and that was sufficient to do three hours of hunting. In addition there was two more hours of gas in the wings.

At about 6:30 a. m. the skipper, Lt. Jack Rosch, Tulsa, Okla., asked Engineer Sgt. William Hogle, Kentland, Ind., to cut in the bomb bay tank. In 10 minutes Bill came back to the flight deck looking worried. "It won't work," he said. "The line must be clogged."

He's Going to Church.

Jack turned the controls over to Co-Pilot Clark Wenke, Pender, Neb., and crawled into the bay. "Twice in one week this happens to me," said Clark. "Last Sunday after bombing a task force off Halmahera bay my plane ran short of gas. Just as we landed all three remaining motors went dead. "I'm going to give up this Sunday flying and go to church."

Jack came back and shook his head. "Better try to get a bearing" he told the radioman, Sgt. Thomas Dean, Emmett, Idaho. One by one the rest of us went into the bomb bay, shook the things, slapped them, took the lines apart, but still no gas would flow.

"We've got about enough until 8:30," said Jack. It was 7 a. m.

Thoughts of Rickenbacker.

It was time for thinking. What were you doing way out here anyway? How long would the plane keep afloat? Any rations aboard? And water? Above all, water; remember Rickenbacker? Suppose the rescue plane didn't find us for three weeks—that would be a story. Suppose it never found us? Hey, don't think of such things.

And time for prayer, altho none of the 11 aboard was strictly a religious man. "Please dear God, You got me in to a field last week. Can't You give us just a little more time so we can set her down? Okay, this time?" That's what Clark's lips formed.

Only Clouds and Water.

Then it was 7:30 and only clouds and water. "Cut in the emergency radio and see if you can't get somebody," said Jack to Tom. Tom pulled the switches marked, "To Be Used in Emergency Only."

7:45—Everybody got headaches staring at the horizon. 7:50—The minutes went by like lightning. "Suppose we'd better set the ship down before the engines stall?" asked Clark. "That's the very last thing," said Jack.

7:55—"Can't you raise anybody?" Jack asked Tom. Tom shook his head.

8 o'clock—"Land, look, land, mountains," Navigator Lt. Lloyal Zander, Harlem, Mont., shouted. Every one looked. For an hour we had been seeing dark spots, which might be land, but always they turned out to be only a mirage.

A Beautiful Sight.

Then another storm closed in, but it was only a coastal disturbance and in 10 minutes we were thru it. Land was only 10 miles off. It was the most beautiful sight in the world. "Can you make out any landmarks?" Jack asked. Lloyal studied the map. "It could be Hollandia," he said.

Minute by minute rushed by. We came up to the coast. "It is Hollandia," Lloyal shouted. "Look, over there to the left, ships."

"The engines will cut out any time now," said Bill, the engineer. Jack sent the big plane roaring across the end of Cyclops range. "We will go straight in. Tell the tower," Jack said. "Tell, not ask."

The wheels screamed on the runway. Dust rose as we taxied to a stop. It was 8:28 a. m. Every one jumped to the ground. "We can now offer a silent prayer," said Clark. But he was too late. Every one already had.

Ottawa, Ont., June 13.—"Losses of Canadian naval personnel in the invasion of France have been almost negligible," Navy Minister MacDonald told the house of commons today. Only a few landing craft have been lost, he said. More than 100 Canadian ships and almost 10,000 Canadian naval officers and men are in the invasion operations now.

QUISLINGS CLOSE RANKS IN FRANCE, BRITISH LEARN

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, June 13.—Reports from France indicate that the Germans have more French collaborators than Gen. Charles de Gaulle and the underground movement pretended. That the allies were not entirely unaware of this situation was evident by the cautioning of correspondents on D-day "not to expect too much aid from the people of France."

The London Times today devoted a two column article to "Hitler's Servants in France" and referred to the collaboration as a "second defense system."

"Cause Delay and Confusion."

Altho the Times said active French collaborators are not numerous, it warned that "these fortifications may yet serve well enough to cause delay and confusion."

The article did not refer to the effect of American and British bombings, in which French civilians were killed, on the attitude of the French people. But German propaganda has made much of this.

The Times centered its attention on what it called the three French Quislings—Joseph Darnand, secretary of state for the maintenance of order, Marcel Deat, minister of labor and secretary of state for national solidarity, and Philippe Henriot, in charge of propaganda.

"Closed Their Ranks."

"The collaborators," it said, "have closed their ranks to form a front unique and have brought forces of police and public administration exclusively under their control. Their reluctant assistants number many more than their willing colleagues, and they are important because they control all the levers of power and repression."

Darnand's chief weapon isn't the much vaunted militia but the "machinery for organized starvation," the Times writer said. Darnand's chief concern was said to be to tighten control of food supplies and prevent any from reaching the men of the maquis [guerrillas].

His second weapon of terror, the article said, is the preventive arrest and the taking of hostages. During April the prefecture of police in Paris announced 2,865 arrests were made and at the end of the month Darnand announced in reprisal for the trials of collaborators in Algiers that he had ordered the arrests of relatives of leading Frenchmen now in Algiers.

"Enemy" of Trusts.

Deat, as the avowed enemy of big business and trusts, said the Times, "is more active against employers who evade labor regulations." He attempted to get labor support by explaining and acknowledging grievances and undertaking to improve conditions. His task was defined as "achieving national solidarity," which includes care for the family, allowances of food supply, and evacuation as well as control of wages and prices.

Henriot and his propaganda machine boost the concerted policy of collaboration by pointing out the advantages of the "social order" and "national solidarity." His attendance at "funerals of air raid casualties is made the occasion for shrewd and violent anti-allied propaganda."

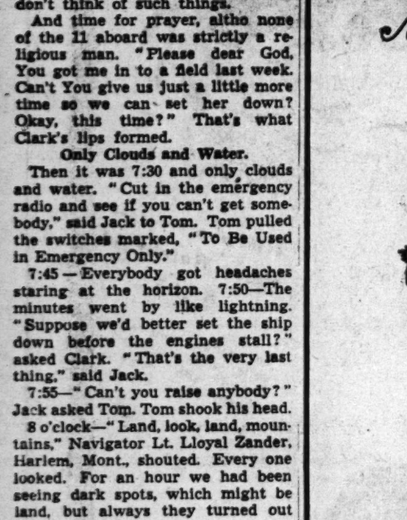

All emphasize the dangers of bolshevism.

M. P. DENOUNCES BRITAIN'S MILK BILL AS FASCIST

Loses Fight to Curb Rule Over Industry.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 13.—Efforts by members of parliament to change the so-called cleaner milk bill, which was denounced as the first one "incorporating a fascist doctrine," failed in the house of commons today.

Conservative Herbert Williams' amendment, which would limit the authority of the minister of agriculture, was defeated. He asked that the word "licensing" to be used in the place of "registration," which in his opinion gave the minister of agriculture the power to deprive a dairyman of his livelihood by condemning his plant and storage facilities and equipment and the quality of his product on health grounds without the right to appeal to a designated authority.

Debate British Liberties.

A heated debate on British liberties flared and the storm over the milk scheme ended in a vote in which the government received 76 adverse votes, marking the third largest revolt it has weathered since the coalition was formed.

An amendment protesting against the power to "appropriate to a fascist state" was rejected.

"This is the first bill to introduce into this country the conception of the corporative state," Williams asserted. "The whole principle of the corporative state is that you're not entitled to go into any industry without permission of the state. When we get the first bill incorporating the fascist doctrine attention ought to be drawn to it in the most precise manner." When the minister of agriculture smiled, Williams continued:

"It's no good for the minister of agriculture to smile amiably. Some of us don't like fascism. We not only regard it as a term of abuse but something to be resisted whenever it comes along. Here, under this bill, the minister is going to take the power to refuse a license to a man because he doesn't like him. It's 18-B all over again."

[Regulation 18-B empowers the home secretary to detain any man without trial who is suspected of having had association with the enemy or being subject to foreign influence or control so as to be a threat to national security.]

"Inroads by Burocracy."

Conservative Archibald Southby complained the proposals in the bill represented further inroads by burocracy, adding: "If we have many more regulations and controls it would take a hero to remain in the country at all."

Independent Laborite John McGovern, altho expressing sympathy with the ministry of agriculture's efforts to improve the milk supply, agreed with his Conservative opponents that this should not mean the government should "ride roughshod over the rights of the community."

VOTES TRANSFER OF LEND-LEASE FUNDS TO UNRRA

Washington, D. C., June 13. (AP).—The senate today voted President Roosevelt authority to transfer $350,000,000 in lend-lease funds to the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration to meet war emergencies.

The action, restoring a house cut, preceded senate passage of legislation appropriating $3,920,570,000 to finance lend-lease, the foreign economic administration, and UNRRA during the fiscal year starting July 1.

The measure now goes back to the house.

DAY BY DAY ON THE FARM

The FARM by Gail Compton

June 13, 1944.

WHEAT is heading out. The tall heads of grain are filling out and gradually changing from their spring green to a harvest time brown. The field looks exceptionally well, and will be ready to combine in about three weeks. Wheat will add importantly to the farm's stock of feed grains, for it is excellent for fattening cattle and hogs.

The last hard rainstorm beat down much of the wheat. The grain still can recover, however, and most of it should be upright again in a few days.

The field south of the machine shed, where the alfalfa has been battling quack grass unsuccessfully for three years, finally has been cut. Altho the hay was not quite ready for harvesting, the field was mowed to prevent the quack grass from going to seed. This pesky weed gradually has engulfed the field until at present it has choked out more than 60 per cent of the alfalfa.

Quack Grass Triumphs.

In the past, the farm has been able to smother quack grass with a good stand of alfalfa. This time, however, the quack won the fight, and the field will be plowed under and fallowed for the rest of the summer. There is no chance for the second growth of hay to whip the weeds, for they are too well established.

At the Fox river farm, the men have cultivated the corn fields twice already and the grain is in good condition. Much of it is rapidly approaching knee height and by the fourth of July should be well past the traditional stage for that period. With the corn fields out of the way temporarily, the men are turning attention to the hay fields. On Friday, they plan to start cutting a field of timothy and alfalfa with the hope that by Monday it will be ready to go to the barn.

The first attempt at cutting the hay field was made a week ago. Since that time the mown forage has been drenched repeatedly and it has been impossible to cure it for barn storage. Now new grass has grown up in the mown hay and it will be difficult to rake.

Cattle Problem Pops Up.

At the Wheaton farm, the men have watched with interest the results of pasturing cattle in woodlots where the undergrowth is rather heavy. In one lot that had been untouched for several years, the cattle did a good job of cleaning up the brush. Weeds, undesirable shoots, and grass were consumed, leaving the woods cleaner, better looking, and healthier.

In another woodlot, however, the cattle remained too long and some harm was done. When the animals ran out of normal grazing, they began to destroy saplings, wild flowers, and trees. It requires good judgment to determine when a herd has effectively cleaned up a piece of woods and when it begins to do harm. Cattle will do a good job in a woodlot, if left there for a short time. A week or two, however, will see the turning point, and the cattle should be removed.

The GARDEN by Ben Markland

THIS is the final week for planting late potatoes in northern Illinois. Because the maturity period for this crop varies from 100 to 115 days, potatoes planted after June 15 may be frosted before reaching full size. This crop should not be attempted in small gardens, and should not be planted in heavy clay soils.

Potato rows should be three feet apart, and plants in the row should be 14 to 16 inches apart. If the soil is of light, sandy texture, the seed stock can be planted as deep as six inches; in heavier soils, four inches is a better planting depth.

Many gardeners cover their late potato plantings with straw. If this is done, the seed stock can be planted two to three inches in the ground, then the straw added immediately. Clean wheat straw is best; it should be applied in a loose blanket of about 10 inch depth. The potato plants grow up thru the straw, which tends to conserve moisture in the ground and eliminate weed growth.

TWO GREAT DECISIONS.

The decisions of the United States Supreme court in the Hartzel and Baumgartner cases cannot be commended too warmly. The opinions, handed down on Monday, confirm the fact that the United States is today the only belligerent country in the world whose citizens retain the right to speak and write freely on public questions. Americans can hold their heads high. Once again the proud claim that our country is the only country of free men has been proved to be no idle boast.

To be sure, the victory in the Hartzel case was by the narrowest of margins, 5 to 4, but the precedent has been established and will stand. In this connection it is well to remember that the famous decision in Near vs. Minnesota, which has become a bulwark of civil liberties in America, was also by a vote of 5 to 4. Since THE TRIBUNE carried that appeal against censorship to the Supreme court there has been little deviation from the principles of freedom which the court announced in 1931.

The people of this land for generations to come will remember with gratitude the names of the five justices—Murphy [who wrote the Hartzel opinion], Stone, Roberts, Black, and Rutledge—who reaffirmed the doctrine that the Constitution, even in the midst of war, protects the citizen's right to express his views. It was a hard case. Hartzel had written and distributed three pamphlets which, in the words of the court, "depict the war as a gross betrayal of America, denounce our English allies and the Jews, and assail in reckless terms the integrity and patriotism of the President of the United States." More than that, Hartzel had sent copies of his pamphlets to army officers. He was convicted and sentenced to five years' imprisonment on the charge that he had attempted to cause insubordination and disloyalty in the army.

Hartzel is a free man today because the majority of the court insisted that there was insufficient evidence of intent to commit the crime of which he was convicted. Causing insubordination in the military services is, of course, one of the gravest of crimes. The court recognizes it as such, but the judges were not swept by war hysteria. They read the first amendment as the men who wrote it intended it should be read, as an unqualified declaration of the right of men and women in America to discuss public questions at all times without fear of being punished for the expression of their opinions.

Accordingly, the court held that before a valid conviction could be obtained the government must prove far more clearly than it did in this case that the defendant had willfully sought to create insubordination. It cannot be a crime merely to publish opinions, however wrong-headed they may be and however intemperate in language.

This is a liberal decision in the true sense of the word, for it frees the citizen from fear of a tyrannous government. The same can be said, of course, of the companion finding in the Baumgartner case. Baumgartner was a naturalized citizen who had renounced his allegiance to Germany a decade ago. His American citizenship was taken from him recently on a showing that he had compared President Roosevelt unfavorably to Hitler, had called American democracy a farce, and had expressed anti-Semitic prejudices. The Supreme court held unanimously that the right of opinion belongs to the citizen and that the expression of opinion on public questions cannot be punished by revocation of naturalization.

Mr. Roosevelt and his New Dealers like to call themselves liberals, but the word doesn't belong to them. These decisions owe nothing to Mr. Roosevelt. On the contrary, it was his department of justice that defended tyranny and was defeated.

The country does owe a great debt to the late Justices Holmes and Brandeis, whose dissenting opinions in a number of civil rights cases growing out of the last war have now become the law of the land. More than to any man or men, however, we are indebted to the institution of a written Constitution. There it stands as a protection to the citizen against the ambitions and designs of government officials filled with self-righteousness and thirsting for power.

RUSSIAN LULLABY.

In celebration of the opening of the Russian campaign in Finland, Marshal Stalin ordered a salute in Moscow. His order of the day reads as follows:

"Tonight, June 11, at 11 p. m. Moscow time, the capital of the motherland, Moscow, in the name of the motherland, will salute with 20 artillery salvos from 224 guns the gallant troops of the Leningrad front who broke thru the enemy defenses."

This was no doubt entirely satisfactory to the fathers and other small boys of the motherland but we can only wonder how the mothers of the motherland took it. Perhaps in the soviet Utopia children once put to sleep stay asleep. For the sake of political stability in the house of our great ally, we profoundly hope so.

NOMENCLATURE.

A couple of months ago the principal news services of the country got together on the spelling of the names of cities, rivers, and other geographical features all over the world.

The system followed was that of the National Geographic society, which accepts the native spellings rather than the Anglicized versions. The newspapers made exceptions of a few of the painful affectations that the geographic society has sought, without success, to popularize. We are spared Wien and Roma, but have swallowed, so to say, the Dnepr river.

This useful reform in nomenclature does not seem to have extended to personal names, however. We notice that the new king of Italy is the native Umberto in some newspapers, while in others he is the Anglicized Humbert. If we are going to give way to the Europeans on place names, consistency would seem to require that we also let them call themselves what they want.

No one has yet appeared hardy enough to devise, let alone enforce, a uniform system of pronunciation for the radio commentators. One of our readers gave an extended report the other day in the Voice of the People of the radio's struggles with Caen.

Inasmuch as these gentlemen can hardly display their tortoise shell cigaret cases over the air waves, it may be only kindness to allow them their exotic pronunciations as evidence of their travels abroad. Some day, however, we hope to corner a commentator and put him over the jumps on the names of some of the middle western communities whose citizens have definite ideas on what their towns are called. Just as a starter, we'll make him pronounce Berlin, Wis.; Madrid, Ia.; La Salle and Athens, Ill.; Beatrice, Neb.; Lead, S. D., and the notable Ohio trio, Piqua, Lima, and Gallipolis. Then watch the letters roll in.

THE FIFTH COLUMNISTS.

Republicans may be sure that when their convention meets in Chicago there will be an element represented in the convention, and in its committees, working to make the party's stand in opposition to Mr. Roosevelt as ineffective as possible.

We have the warning of the Willkie episode. Mr. Willkie is a political dead duck, but the people who encouraged and financed his treacherous collaboration with the New Dealers, because it served their purposes, are still politically alive and will be here in Chicago. They were temporarily dismayed but not permanently discouraged by the fate that his candidacy met.

They are a small element, but determined, highly organized, and fabulously financed. The wealth at their command is such that a few silly professional politicians, who cannot see beyond campaign funds, are willing to sacrifice the party's integrity in order to win the financial support of this element, whose real purpose is to prevent, not assist, the Republican victory.

This alien minded group has prepared its campaign carefully, as carefully as the campaign that foisted Mr. Willkie on the party at Philadelphia four years ago. It is their hope that they can dominate the great majority of the delegates from all over the country, because the latter are unorganized, with no central office or command and staff, and are, to a large extent, unknown to one another.

It is not only the nomination that these fifth columnists hope to influence. It is certain that a vigorous effort will be made to poison and corrupt the committee on resolutions. This must be resisted with the utmost vigor. A namby-pamby platform will be equivalent to defeat.

The Republican party must remember that its hope of victory depends fully as much on the people who will be voting against Mr. Roosevelt as upon the people who will be voting for the Republican nominee. This is always true of an opposition party. It is particularly true in the coming election, because of the long tenure of Mr. Roosevelt and his followers, whose abuses have continued unchecked for a longer period than any other in modern American political history.

The people who are tired of those abuses, who are disgusted with the incompetence of the New Dealers and their efforts over 12 years to use first domestic distress and then a foreign war for partisan political advantage must turn to the Republican party for leadership. But they will not look there for relief if they find the Republican platform condoning Mr. Roosevelt's multitude of errors, or promising to continue the same distasteful policies but to do the same things more efficiently. The party had its candidate who promised to do it better, and he didn't get anywhere with the voters.

A craven course by the resolutions committee can lose the campaign before it is started. Strength must be found to avoid it and defeat the element within the party which is seeking to weaken it for the benefit of Mr. Roosevelt.

Editorial of the Day

THE YEARS CAN BRING CHANGES.

[Little Rock, Ark., Gazette.]

President Eric Johnston of the United States Chamber of Commerce was addressing a Russian audience at Moscow when he said:

"In economic ideology, the practice of my country is different from yours. You are state-minded, collective-minded. We are most private-minded, most individual-minded, and gentlemen, make no mistake, we are determined to remain so or even to become more so."

There was a time when an American addressing a gathering in some foreign land might have said:

In political ideology, the practice of my country is different from yours. You believe in entrusting the headship of your government to a continuous ruler. Our Constitution says that every four years a new head of the American government must be elected. Custom forbids any single individual to serve in that high office for more than eight years. And make no mistake, we are not only determined to preserve that custom unbroken, but are determined that if any change is made it shall be in the direction of a period of eligibility still less than the eight years now permitted by custom.

Are the people of the United States going to remain most private-minded and individual-minded, or are they going to become, under the overpowering influence of the federal government, collective-minded, which means socialist-minded?

Conditions will not be normal until a hog can go to market whenever he has the urge to travel.—Indianapolis News.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Reg. U. S. Pat. Office

ON THE TALKING LINE.

In spite of anything you may have read in the newspapers or heard by radio, the city of Caen is pronounced as a monosyllable with the "c" as "k" and the "an" in the French nasal sound. Try to say "kah" as if you had a severe cold in the head. However, this column has no desire to be meticulous about such matters, and any one who calls it "Cain" in blissful ignorance will not see us twitch an eyebrow.

* * *

We are chuckling a bit, however, over the way in which the invasion has embarrassed the National Geographic society. That organization recently undertook to reform the newspaper spelling of place names, insisting that the correct usage was the style of the natives. It changed Dnieper into Dnepr, Jassy into Iasi, Lemberg into Lwow, Roumania into Romania, etc. Under the magic wand of this helpful institute of popular instruction the familiar often became the unfamiliar, and proofreaders groaned under a new burden. Then came the invasion. . . .

* * *

Well, we're talking about that peninsula where the tides of invasion are flowing inland. Every one on the scene, from war correspondents to brass hats of the high command, has been calling it the Cherbourg peninsula. This column offers no objection; it's an appropriate and pronounceable name. But the French for it happens to be Cotentin, and the Geographic society is probably having fits of frustration.

* * *

Ashton Stevens postcards from his favorite spa in Minnesota to remind us that Beau Brummell, a character still remembered among the haberdashers and tailors, is buried at Caen. He was British consul there for two years. Poor Beau, he came to a bad end and turned sloppy.

* * *

In addition to fine examples of ecclesiastical architecture Caen, reported to be "burning like a torch," contains a full-fledged university of ancient and honorable reputation. The city's atmosphere of learning has caused it to be called "the Athens of Normandy."

D-DAY AT HOME.

This is the way it was: close, sultry days
Turned sudden cool, and as we woke to hear
The first brief news we felt the channel sprays
Chill on our minds; the flaming coast as near
As our own hearths, for at the battle's front
Each breast is hostage for an anxious heart
That hopes and waits, and of the tumult's brunt
Shares pain and anguish in an equal part.
The hours passed in tasks all days must keep;
Unchanged, yet somehow strangely seen anew;
Some sought an inner room, to pray or weep,
But all were tranquil, in a calm that grew
As faith came down, and softly seemed to tell
All would be well for us; all would be well.

Quizzicus.

Footnote to Trajan's Column.

Trajan's column in Rome [June 6] is an authority on the classic Roman capital letters as well as on costume and military equipment, and thereby hangs a tale.

To begin with, Franklin Goudy, the typographer, produced a book on the Roman alphabet with which every serious student of lettering is familiar. He based his construction of the letters on an inscription cut on the base of the Trajan column. A cast of the inscription hangs in the Victoria and Albert museum in London and from it Goudy took measurements.

Now the story takes us to Davenport, Ia., and St. Ambrose college, and a Catholic priest by the name of Ned Cadish. Some 10 years ago Cadish attended a Catholic college in Rome. He is quite a student of art. Among his books was a copy of Goudy's "Roman Alphabet" and he often visited Trajan's column, taking the book along. One day he thought he discovered some slight differences in the book and the inscription, particularly in the letters R, C, P, E, and S. He couldn't be sure because the inscription was out of reach and careful inspection. Finally, he secured permission to erect a ladder and climb up where he could make rubbings of the entire inscription. The differences between the original letters and those in Goudy's book were now more marked.

Cadish was naturally puzzled. On his way home he stopped in London and examined the cast in the museum. He discovered that the cast had been made in sections and where they were joined there were letters which were what an artist would call "out of drawing." His theory is that the workmen who assembled the cast tampered with the vertical seam, and being obliged to repair certain letters they unknowingly made some errors.

Here am I in Dobson's dwelling,
Stealing rimes as I stole of yore!
Sneaking in thru the unlocked door,
And boasting of it, my bosom swelling,
All honest impulses repelling,
Copying words he wrote before.

Here am I in Dobson's dwelling,
Stealing rimes as I stole of yore!
Changing not even a single spelling—
His the form and his the lore;
And if I could I'd steal much more—
Steal his talent, rich, upwelling.

Here am I in Dobson's dwelling,
Stealing rimes as I stole of yore!

A NEW PLAN FOR TREATING ALLERGY.

THERE are so many cases of food allergy [sensitivity] that we must be on the alert to detect the offenders. But in order to avoid the irritant we must know what it is. If we can eliminate it, health usually returns speedily. In fact, the result may be spectacular.

But now and then, try as we may, the noxious agent will elude identification. What then can be done? The older methods provided for innumerable skin or patch tests, followed by injections of minute quantities of the objectionable material. This was done to enable the body to get used to the troublemaker—to acquire tolerance.

Many physicians have been successful with elimination diets. Starting only with sugar and water or rice, one food at a time is added until the guilty item is disclosed. This is not difficult to attempt with children who are older but we must be prepared for some loss of weight.

Within recent years the suggestion has been made that many youngsters will respond satisfactorily if partly digested protein [propeptans] are administered. Numerous cases of hives have yielded to this program. Curiously enough, however, if the little one is allergic to milk, this same material may have no effect. In consequence, other products have been employed. For example, if the sufferer is asthmatic due to egg white, exposing the albumen to the action of hydrochloric acid and various digestive ferments will render it innocuous.

Propeptans have been prepared from a large number of edibles including meats, dairy products, cereals, vegetables, and fruits. They are prescribed in capsule form and are given 45 minutes before each meal. In other words, they must be taken on an empty stomach. The patient is fed every four hours. Small children are served nourishment every three hours.

It is wise to test the reaction of the patient to this partially digested substance by feeding an extremely small amount. Thereafter, only nutriments which are protected are offered. As an illustration, for a menu that contains roast beef, mashed potatoes, rye bread, cocoa, and apple sauce, the propeptans will be beef, wheat, rye, potatoes, apples, and milk. For a dinner which consists of pea soup, lamb chop, carrots, rice, white bread and butter, chocolate pudding, and milk—they will be peas, lamb, carrots, rice, wheat, milk, cocoa, and corn. This latter item is demanded because the chocolate pudding was made of cornstarch.

Perhaps this plan will mark another milestone in our conquest of those intractable allergies which cause so much suffering among children. In one youngster who was influenced unfavorably by eggs and peas, the dose of propeptan which was necessary was five to 10 capsules before going to the table. Under such a schedule, complete freedom from asthma was achieved.

The predigested preparations help to spot the dishes to which the individual is sensitive. In addition, they aid in neutralizing the effects of articles which bring on reactions. In some cases, propeptans of many varieties of foods may be mixed together. Under this management it is not necessary to find the specific irritant.

H. S. S. says that regardless of the proclamations about the President's sound health, it must be remembered from as far back as 1940 that he is very susceptible to a draft.

Mairzy Hokku?

From the 117th Seabee Review, published on Island X in the Pacific, comes the Japanese version of Mairzy Doates:

O, waresi boats, o waresi boats,
What's happened to our navy?
Our army's hiding, too, wouldn't you?

Travel Note.

It happened last week. Robert Devitt, a Chicago attorney, was sworn into the navy as an ensign, went home to South Dakota for a few days, and got on the train on his way to a naval indoctrination center wearing his civilian clothes. Ordered to report in uniform, he put it on for the first time the next morning and went into the diner for breakfast, where he was seated at a table with a civilian and a naval officer dripping gold braid. After grapefruit the civilian said they might as well get acquainted and introduced himself. Devitt told who he was, and the civilian then introduced his friend as Admiral Leahy, Roosevelt's personal aide, former ambassador to Moscow and reputedly the only man who can deal with the French. He probably is the oldest officer in the navy, a four star admiral, and Devitt no doubt then was the newest, greenest ensign in the navy, yet to be indoctrinated. However, he said the admiral was pleasant and talkative and didn't once ask how he liked the navy.

Wifely Sympathy.

The wife listened sympathetically [our scout, Roberta, relates] as her husband described a pain which began in his ankle, crept to his knee, then to his hip, and finally to his shoulder. Apparently overcome with mirth at the diagnosis she reached, she said shyly, "Creeping Bent, no doubt."

Unity.

The conversation varies according to the state in which the soldier is stationed, but the soldier on this particular train had just put in what he described as some brutal months at the Aberdeen proving ground in Maryland. He was on his way home for a brief furlough before going overseas. "Don't misunderstand me," he began. "I want to go. I want to fight. But don't misunderstand me. I'm fighting for only 47 states. I'm not fighting for Maryland."

Weather Note.

Monday's tropical rain flooded the streets near the I. C. suburban tracks at 77th street. Waiting for passengers to disembark and be stranded were four little urchins in high rubber boots. Behind them were their red wagons. "Want a ride, lady?" they asked each female passenger. "We'll tow you thru the flood for 5 cents."

Ingenuity.

A Chicago matron possesses a set of fine Haviland china from which a few pieces are missing. The other day she went to a large department store here to inquire whether she could replace the missing dishes. A young clerk waited on her, and after querying several more experienced clerks told the lady the china was not being made at present. "O, dear," said the disconsolate lady, "what will I do?" "Well," the clerk said brightly, "I suggest you use the dishes you have for every day and buy a good set."

Solicitude.

A friend of a friend of a friend went into a counter restaurant for breakfast one Sunday recently and was astounded to hear the gentleman on his left, a portly fellow, order a dozen fried eggs. "O," the attendant said quickly, "you can't eat a dozen fried eggs. They're not good for you." With that he gave him six.

One World.

A piano teacher in Key West sent an order to a New York music publishing house. Ten days later came the reply: "We are sorry, but we do not ship to foreign countries."

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Address Voice of the People, THE TRIBUNE.

F. D. R. ON SWAPPING HORSES.

Alton, Ill., June 8.—In an address at St. Paul, Minn., on April 18, 1932, Mr. Roosevelt made the following, really sensible, observation regarding midstream horse trading:

"There will be many in this nation during the coming months who will implore you not to swap horses crossing a stream; there will be others who will laughingly tell you that the appeal should have been worded, 'Do not swap toboggans while you are sliding down hill.' But it seems to me that the more truthful, the more accurate plea to the people of the nation should be this: 'If the old car, in spite of frequent emergency repairs, has been bumping along down hill on only two cylinders for three long years, it is time to get another car that will start up hill on all four.'

"As a matter of course, there has never been any sound basis for the 'Don't change horses' argument. Were it sound in its relation to politics, it would mean that no public official could ever be replaced."

Inasmuch as Bob Hannegan [the ex-political boss who tried to steal the Missouri governorship for Fatty McDaniel] and his fourth term pluggers are singing the old horse swapping lullaby "again and again and again," Maestro Roosevelt should call a special rehearsal and give the boys a reading of the above excerpt from his St. Paul recital.

Not even the most rabid fourth term advocate can deny that a change in leadership saved Britain in 1940. A thoro house cleaning of the "District of Confusion" will save our Constitution and Bill of Rights, and restore the America we have known for our posterity.

JIM MACK.

THE RED CROSS DRIVE.

Chicago, June 5.—On behalf of the American Red Cross I wish to express our sincere appreciation for the splendid coöperation of the Chicago newspapers, which were most helpful in the successful completion of the 1944 Red Cross war fund campaign for 12 million dollars.

The generous allocation of space in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE was of incalculable help in impressing the greater Red Cross need on the public, and was therefore a most important factor in the success of the drive.

MARTIN H. KENNELLY,
War Fund Chairman.

STREET CORNER SHOWER.

Chicago, June 9. — Well, I got a shower with my clothes on again this morning. The meanest motorist must have had a lot of fun this morning, going thru puddles, fast, where people were waiting for buses. I was standing on the corner of Addison and Sheridan, and I got it all the way up to my chin, right thru a thick woolen suit.

M. F. L.

WRONG ADJECTIVE.

Chicago, June 10.—My whole hearted approval goes to Oline Halfley for her letter regarding a certain commentator's statement about Gen. Eisenhower talking to the "lowliest" soldier before going into battle. Our commentators have a bad habit of coloring up their news items with too many unsuitable adjectives.

MILDRED A. ROSENTRETER.

BIRTHDAY CARD.

Wilmette, Ill., June 8.—Please accept my congratulations and good wishes on your 97th birthday!

HARRY C. KINNE.

THE MILITIA MIGHT INVADE.

Paris, Ill., June 7.—The Indiana-Illinois division line as laid down in the constitutional act creating the Northwest territory and repeated in every subsequent act, including the constitutional ones creating the states of Indiana and Illinois, is described in plain language which admits of no other construction, as following the Wabash river as far north as Post Vincennes then a line direct north to Lake Michigan.

Now look at a map of Illinois and you will see that the line instead of following the river only as far as Vincennes continues to do so for about 50 miles farther north. You will also note that the river a few miles above Vincennes makes a turn to the west, thus about 100 square miles of valuable lands that, as I see it, properly belong to Illinois are now included in Indiana.

Years after we became a state, the Wabash, at a point near Old York, shifted its channel to the west. Indiana immediately claimed all the lands involved, so thousands of acres that were entered as Illinois are now paying taxes in Indiana. I have consulted some of the best legal talent in the state and submitted the question to Atty. Gen. Barrett, who in turn passed it on to Gov. Green. They all agree that the law should prevail, but no one seems to want to do anything about it.

FLOYD M. DAVIS.

ANOTHER GIFT OF THE FOUR FREEDOMS.

Chicago, June 7.—Becoming an American citizen seems to have gone to ex-Yugoslav's head. If he will refer to President Roosevelt's message to congress on Jan. 6, 1941, he will learn that the four freedoms guarantee that "no nation will be in a position to commit an act of physical aggression against any neighbor—anywhere in the world." America having appointed herself as champion of "the honor and rights of every oppressed country in the old world," the Polish-Americans are justified in imploring F. D. R. to save their homeland.

Incidentally, when one acquires a new loyalty, he is under no obligation to throw overboard all the old loyalties. A man doesn't kick his mother into the gutter when he acquires a mother-in-law. The term "pseudo-citizenry" is an insult when applied to a people of heart and feeling.

SELMA WALDEN LINCOLN.

SYNTHETIC ACCENTS.

Chicago, June 10.—If a radio announcer mispronounces a French name it isn't so strange, but when he takes a plain everyday name like Gustaf and calls it "Goosetaff," then I think he is due for a laugh.

If he wants to talk foreign, why doesn't he ask the janitor how to pronounce it, instead of giving words a peculiar twist which no one but himself understands. Otherwise—stick to English!

CHARLEY, THE JANITOR.

GARNISHMENT.

Chicago, June 12.—1. Has a loan company the legal right to garnishee wages for an unpaid loan made [2] 10 years ago?

M. A.

1. Garnishment is not in order until they have taken judgment against the debtor.
2. The limitation period is 10 years from the maturity date but a part payment or a new promise would extend the period.

Defense Is Accused of Stalling Tactics.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 13.—Enlivened only by occasional tiffs between defense and prosecution attorneys, the mass sedition trial dragged along in its ninth week in federal District court here today.

Three federal bureau of investigation agents took turns on the witness stand identifying their translations of 165 documents the prosecution expects to offer in evidence at a later date. Defense efforts to discredit these witnesses' interpretations of the documents took most of the day.

Joseph W. Burns, associated with O. John Rogge in the prosecution of the 29 persons charged with conspiring with the Nazis to cause insubordination and disloyalty among American soldiers and sailors, accused the defense today of taking excessive time to examine witnesses and documents "only to prolong the trial until enough people are incapacitated so that a mistrial must be declared."

St. George Wants Trial.

This brought the majority of the defense attorneys to their feet, demanding a mistrial be declared immediately. But Maximillian St. George of Chicago, attorney for defendant Joseph E. McWilliams, took exception to this, calling out to the surprise of other attorneys, "We don't want a mistrial—on with the proceedings."

Chief Justice Edward C. Eicher of the federal court for the District of Columbia, who is presiding, overruled demands for a mistrial but ordered Burns' remarks stricken from the record and urged the jury to disregard them.

Burns and Laughlin Clash.

Burns and James J. Laughlin, a defense attorney, clashed briefly. Annoyed by Burns' steady objections to his line of questioning, Laughlin asked the court to remind Burns that an attorney was supposed to rise when he addressed the court. As he was objecting to almost every question Laughlin was asking, Burns had neglected to rise in making these objections. Laughlin said he always stood when he addressed the court and Burns should do likewise, to which Burns retorted:

"You just like to stand up, Mr. Laughlin."

The judge heard an hour of argument on a motion to exclude from the evidence the 14 bulky volumes of customs service records of persons to whom allegedly subversive foreign literature was addressed in 1941. The volumes were admitted provisionally yesterday. The court reserved decision.

ROOMMATES LOSE $88.

Miss Lorraine Mode and Mrs. Rosamond Pantser, both solderers employed by the Western Electric company, told police yesterday that thieves who picked the lock of the door to their room at 5656 Race av. took $5 and jewelry valued at $83.

Miss Hazel Andresen and Sgt. Richard L. Kelly at marriage license bureau yesterday.

Sgt. Richard L. Kelly, 21, of Saginaw, Mich., an air forces radio operator and gunner who won the Silver Star, the distinguished flying cross, and the air medal in the Southwest Pacific, obtained a marriage license in the county building yesterday to marry Miss Hazel L. Andresen, 23, of 2350 Ridge av., Evanston. He said he was too happy that Miss Andresen had said yes to spend much time talking about his war experiences. He received the silver star after a raid on Rabaul, in April, 1943, in which three of his bomber's four engines were set on fire.

Besides the son, other survivors are a sister, Mrs. Seton Henry, and a niece, Mrs. Reginald Townsend.

Allman Suspends M'Gurn of North Avenue.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Police Commissioner Allman's answer yesterday to reports that syndicate gambling is gradually being resumed in Chicago was the suspension of Capt. Charles G. McGurn of the W. North av. district. Nineteen men with police records, eight of them ex-convicts, were found in a gambling house in that district a week ago by a raiding squad from Allman's office.

Allman would not say the suspension resulted from the raid, but it was known he was making inquiries as to how long the place had been in operation. It was run by "Tough Tony" Capezio, long a Capone-Nitti-Guzik syndicate lieutenant.

Located in 28th Ward.

The gamblers were found in a first floor casino guarded by steel doors in a store front building at 2349 Chicago av. It was in the 28th ward, of which George Kells, chairman of the Democratic state committee, is alderman.

Capt. McGurn, 61 and a veteran of the department, long has been considered one of its most efficient captains. He was in charge of headquarters raiding squads under a previous demonstration. He has five creditable mentions in his civil service record. He was suspended once previously after another gambling house was discovered in his district in 1941.

No Decisions in Other Cases.

No decisions have been announced to date regarding the eight captains and one lieutenant against whom charges were preferred last fall after a grand jury investigation of syndicate gambling.

City hall rumors were that the decisions are due late this week. Meanwhile, politicians asserted, hundreds of gambling house workers are preparing for a land office business during the Republican and Democratic national conventions.

Louis J. McCarty, 46, of 18 E. Elm st., was charged with being the keeper and cashier of a handbook raided on the second floor of a rooming house at 1246 N. Clark st. yesterday by detectives from the commissioner's office. Three others were arrested as employes.

TRIPLE SLAYER CAPTURED; FLED 20 YEARS AGO

Word was received in Chicago last night of the arrest in Denver, Colo., of Herman Coppes, who as a 14 year old boy in 1913 confessed three murders on a farm near Elgin and was sentenced to life imprisonment. He escaped from Stateville prison farm Aug. 17, 1924, and until yesterday Illinois authorities heard no more of him. Now known as Alfred Smith, he is married and has six children.

Coppes killed Mrs. Maud Sleep, wife of a prosperous farmer, and her two children, Sarah, 3, and Orville, 2. He had been raised on a farm near Plato, Ill., and was known as a mental defective. He was committed to the Illinois State Training School for Boys near St. Charles and later was paroled to the Sleep family.

John D. Rockefeller Jr. and others thruout the country interested themselves in his behalf and numerous pleas were made to save him from prison and to get him a pardon afterward.

INSTALMENT XXXIX.

SIMILARITY OF VOICES.

They glanced at Frederica uneasily, and then at Woody's face. Out of a friendly, idle discussion, in mutual confidence, something sharp and ugly had suddenly raised its head. Somebody had committed these crimes, and Gervase had just illustrated that it could be none of the others. A look of incredulous pain crossed Woody's lined face, and was replaced by one of defiant pride. She said, harshly: "And since you all seem so ready to believe that it was me, I'd better give you the motive, too."

Eden flung out a hand. He said, sharply: "No Woody!"

She hesitated for a moment, and said, loudly and crudely: "Higgins and William . . . when they were buried under the debris, during the air raid—what was the last thing they heard?"

Esther roused herself from a sort of terrified stupor. "Of course we don't believe it was you. . . . Don't say anything you'll be sorry for afterward——"

But Woods repeated violently: "What was the last thing they heard?"

"The radio," said Freddio.

"The German radio," said Woody. "Don't forget that! The German radio, telling them Goebbel's lies. And Higgins, when he was going under the anesthetic heard my voice, he heard me say something about 'Churchill' as I daresay the radio did then . . . and what did he do? What did he say?"

"He called out that he had heard it somewhere before," said Esther, deliberately quiet and calm.

"William did the same thing afterwards. I passed his bed in the ward and stopped and said something to the inspector, sitting by his side; I had just brought a case back from the theater, I was probably smelling of ether. It may have been association of ideas, it may have taken him back to his own operation in the theater on the night of the blitz when they did his leg, and so back to the time when he lay under the debris listening to the voice . . . it may have been just my voice; but William sat up in bed and called out, 'Where have I heard it before?'"

"Well, don't be silly, Woody," said Frederica, impatiently. "He hadn't heard you giving out the German broadcasts, I suppose?"

"She once had a very favorite brother," said Maj. Moon, softly, and Woody burst into tears.

Esther was up from her bed in a flash, and Frederica off the arm chair. Maj. Moon broke into their affectionate twitterings, pointing out in his resonable voice, "This is tragic for you, Woody, my dear; but it needn't have been—your brother—that was talking that night. It might have been Lord Haw-Haw. In fact William said it was Lord Haw-Haw. You told us so outside the theater, last night."

"I asked William to say it," said Woods, not looking up: "I went and talked to him. I told him—all this; and I asked him not to give me away."

"You talk as tho you had done something discreditable, child," said Maj. Moon.

"Your eye black's all running, Woody, and you look most peculiar," said Freddi into the ensuing silence.

Woody got up without a word and blundered out into the kitchen. Eden gave her two minutes and then followed her and said:

"You shouldn't have borne this burden all by yourself, my dear; you should have told your friends."

"Told you?" cried Woody. "I'd have done anything to keep it secret!"

"Except murder," suggested Eden, his head on one side.

"That was silly of me," she confessed abruptly. "But for a moment you all looked as tho you really thought I had done it. Of course I didn't murder Higgins; he could have given me away and it would all have been horrible and unpleasant and I'd probably have had to leave here. . . . But it wasn't a motive for murder. And even supposing I had killed him, and tried to kill William for the same reason—why Freddi?"

"And why Marion Bates?" said Eden.

"Ah, well, Bates was different," said Woody, honestly. "Of course, I could have got hold of the gown any time without having to kill her for that; but I couldn't get rid of the knowledge in her head."

"Yes, but—well, all right, pretend you had to kill her that night. What would you have done then? Just put the gown back in the linen basket; picked off the worst of the paint, perhaps, and put it in with the rest. Only you know how many gowns had been used, how many were to come back clean and all that kind of thing. Was it likely that you were going to spend dangerous minutes dressing her up in the gown, laying her out on the table, adding the boots and the mask to draw attention from the gown; and stabbing the poor girl a second time, when all you had to do was to dispose of the gown in some other way which you could easily account for—you being the only person, especially now that Bates was dead, who knew anything about the routine. No, no, Woody; you were the very last person of any of us who could be suspected of having killed Bates." He added, curiously: "All the same—I would like to know what the devil you went to the theater for that night."

"I thought you killed Higgins."

"I?" he said, incredulously.

She turned away her eyes. "Well, Gervase, I didn't know. I couldn't make up my mind. But if you didn't—why was Marion Bates protecting you?"

"Protecting me?"

"Surely you must have known that she'd only hidden her precious proof because she thought it was implicating you?"

"I don't know what you're talking about, Woody," said Eden.

"My dear, that night of the party—she said she knew who'd done the murder; and that she had proof. Well, so she had. Then why hadn't she told the detective? Who was she protecting? Not me, for example! And not Frederica—she had no love for our Freddi! And not Esther, you can bet your life; and why should she go out of her way, make herself accessory after the fact or whatever it's called, to shield Maj. Moon or Barney?

| Do you feel tired—listless? | ☐ | ☐ |

Now everyone knows that to get the good out of the food you eat—you must digest it properly. But what most people don't know is that Nature must produce about two pints of the digestive juice—liver bile—each day to help digest your food. If Nature fails, your food may remain undigested, lie sour and heavy within you.

Thus, it is simple to see that one way to aid digestion is to increase the flow of liver bile. Now, Carter's Little Liver Pills start to increase this flow quickly for thousands—often in as little as thirty minutes. When bile flow increases, your digestion may improve. And, soon you're on the road to feeling better—which is what you're after.

Don't depend on artificial aids to counteract indigestion—when Carter's, taken as directed, aid digestion after Nature's own order. Get Carter's Little Liver Pills today—only 25¢. You'll be glad you did.

URGE CONGRESS TO INVESTIGATE DELAYS IN MAIL

Railway Clerks Charge Neglect of Service.

Congressional investigation of charges that the railway mail service has been allowed to deteriorate is demanded in resolutions announced yesterday by two regional affiliates of the Railway Mail Clerks association.

The resolutions declared that little has been done to increase the efficiency of the service altho the volume of mail has increased more than 10 per cent in the last two years.

Spokesmen for the clerks said additional train space and competent extra employes are available, but that requests for improving the service have been turned down by J. S. Hardy, general superintendent of the service in Washington, for economy reasons.

Extra Handling Necessary.

The clerks said mail is being delayed in some instances as long as 24 to 48 hours because they are unable to sort all the mail so it can be dispatched to another train or the postoffice of its destination. The unsorted mail, it was explained, must undergo additional handling at railway and postoffice terminals, accounting for the delay.

Delays are marked, the clerks said, in areas where there are large army camps and naval stations. Increases in mail volume in such areas, the clerks said, are larger than the average for the country, the amount handled having doubled or trebled.

The resolutions asking an investigation were adopted by the Illinois branch of the Railway Mail Clerks' association, embracing more than 1,000 clerks employed in Illinois and Iowa, and by the Watertown-Portage branch, which has 800 members employed in Wisconsin, Minnesota, and North and South Dakota.

Other Expenditures Cited.

The clerks challenged the economy reasons given for not expanding the service, pointing out that the postoffice department has been spending millions of dollars for building new postoffices in small towns.

It was disclosed that the postoffice has directed that mail lacking local zone numbers be given sorting priority in railway mail cars over zoned mail. The reason given is that inexperienced clerks at the destinations can sort the zoned mail easier. The result, the railway mail clerks said, is that the unzoned mail goes thru while the zoned mail is delayed.

Arthur G. Cross, superintendent of the railway mail service in Illinois and Iowa, admitted that mail not sorted on trains is delayed, but said every effort is being made to sort it as fast as possible at terminals. He said the war has caused a shortage of efficient employes.

'I LOVED ALICE AT FIRST SIGHT,' SAYS McINTOSH

It was love at first sight, Pvt. Charles L. F. McIntosh, 31, testified yesterday in Circuit court. He appeared for his wife, Alice Rand de Tarnowsky McIntosh, in the suit brought by her former husband, Capt. Alexis de Tarnowsky, for the custody of the three De Tarnowsky children.

Under cross-questioning by Norman Becker, attorney for De Tarnowsky, who is overseas with the army engineers, McIntosh recalled his first meeting with the then Mrs. De Tarnowsky in a railroad car last July, saying: "I went A. W. O. L. to be with her. I had finally met a woman with whom I wanted to spend every waking moment."

The six weeks' cross-country tour which the couple began a few days after that first meeting resulted in a seven year sentence for McIntosh growing out of his absence without leave.

Testimony will be concluded today. Closing arguments were set for June 20 at the request of Benjamin Davis, attorney for Mrs. McIntosh.

THE QUESTION.

WHERE ASKED.
Insurance Exchange building.

THE ANSWERS.

J. J. Smith, rate clerk, 910 Lawrence av.—Some one called me from Racine and said, "I'm sorry but your wife can't get home tonight because there isn't any transportation." I blew up. Then the caller said, "Well, I'm sorry but Nadine just won't be home." That solved it. My wife's name is Frances.

Eleanor Herbst, typist, 1831 Bissell st.—The phone rang and a man asked, "Fitzel?" I thought he said, "Is this El?" so I replied, "Yes." Then he told me he was calling from a fraternity house and that I had been there the night before. I was confused until I learned he thought he was calling a radio shop.

Mrs. David Feldman, housewife, 1100 E. 53d st.—A woman called and wanted to speak to my husband. When I told her he was out, she asked if I would take a message. She recited the details of a case that was coming up in court. I told her my husband wasn't a lawyer and that she must have the wrong David Feldman.

Mrs. Julius Wien, cosmetician, 3161 Pine Grove av.—My brother, Harry, is always joking and when I received a phone call from a man with a foreign accent I thought it was my brother. Every time he'd say something I'd laugh and say, "Stop kidding me." The man had the wrong number and I apologized.

Moe Kaplan, clerk, 1917 S. Harding av.—Once I received an amusing phone call by mistake. A woman with a pleasant voice said she was Alice and wanted me to come to a party. I knew a woman named Alice and thought I was talking to her. I told her I'd be glad to come. Then I learned she was another Alice.

George Johnson Jr., clerk, 3135 N. Paulina st.—Getting wrong numbers is an every day occurrence with me. Often when I call my girl friend I get the last two numbers turned around. Once I said, "Hello, darling," and the woman who answered thought I was her son. She wanted to know how I liked the army.

"My gosh, Maw, can't you wait until I've finished my Wheaties?"

Maw's a short cut expert. And that includes an easy to get breakfast—starting with lots of milk, fruit, and Wheaties, "Breakfast of Champions." Plenty of important whole grain nourishment and delicious "second helping" flavor in Wheaties. Serve 'em often!

F. D. R. BUTTONS ROLL OUT WITH WPB APPROVAL

With the approval of the war production board the Greenduck company, an advertising specialty firm at 1800 Roscoe st., is manufacturing Democratic campaign buttons bearing the slogan "I want F. D. R. again," it was disclosed yesterday.

The war production board at Washington took the position about two months ago that there would be no restriction on steel for button manufacture, provided surplus materials were available and could be purchased in the open market.

51 HANDICAPPED CHILDREN SEE 300 BECOME CITIZENS

Interested spectators at naturalization proceedings in federal District court yesterday were 51 handicapped children, some in wheelchairs, who were brought into court from the Spalding School for Handicapped Children by their principal, Miss Celestine Igoe, sister of Judge Michael L. Igoe, who delivered the oath of allegiance to 300 aliens. Judge Igoe remarked, "These children have the opportunity to attend a school, when probably in the countries where their parents came from such opportunities are rare."

BALLOONS SENT UP AFTER DATA ON COSMIC RAYS

A cluster of 31 balloons bearing an appartus for detection of cosmic rays was released yesterday at the University of Chicago, under the direction of Marcel Schein, assistant professor of the physics department. The flight was the 19th in a series. Schein explained that the cluster rises to about 16 miles, when the decrease in atmospheric pressure causes some balloons to rupture. The lessened lifting power thus permits a gradual descent of the remaining balloons and equipment.

●WILL YOU HELP? Waste paper of all kinds is desperately needed for war. Mills are shutting down for lack of it. Help America meet the crisis by saving a bundle a week and turning it in regularly.

Is there a shortage of children's shoes?

Yes, there is very definitely a shortage! This is particularly true of dependable brands of medium and better quality children's shoes.

Parents today are demanding better quality. Rationing has brought about a keen appreciation of the difference between shoes that are good, and those that merely look good.

Why is there a shortage of children's shoes?

The nation's military demands and the needs of our allies have caused a decrease in the supply of leather available for civilian use and thus fewer leather shoes are being made for men and women, as well as for children. However, there is a sufficient quantity of good, serviceable shoe material available to meet essential civilian requirements.

While fewer pairs of children's shoes have been made since the war started, the demand has actually been greater and the shortage is felt more acutely for the following reasons:

1. Children wear out their shoes more quickly than do adults. And because children also outgrow their shoes, they seldom have extra pairs in reserve.
2. The rubber shortage has severely limited the number of tennis shoes available to boys and girls . . . this has added to the demand for leather shoes.
3. A sharp increase in the birth rate each year for the past three years has also put a heavier demand on leather required for additional babies' shoes.

Has the Government taken steps to make possible an increase in children's shoe production?

Yes . . . the Government has recently effected ways and means to increase the allocation and production of leather for children's shoes. This will make more leather available and enough shoes should be produced to cover necessary replacements for children. However, to provide substantial increases in the leather supply will take time.

What should I do to make my children's shoes last longer?

1. Always clean shoes thoroughly and treat them frequently with a good polish to preserve the uppers.
2. When shoes get wet, stuff the toes with cloth or paper to preserve their shape, and dry them away from excessive heat. After they're thoroughly dry, apply polish or other leather preservative.
3. At the earliest indication of needed repairs, take shoes (if still the correct size) to the repairman. Don't wait until it's too late and the shoes are beyond repair.
4. Alternate the wearing of new shoes and older ones . . . provided the older pair is still large enough.
5. See that rubbers or galoshes are worn (when available) in wet weather.

How can I be sure my children's feet are properly fitted?

Good shoes are made in the correct shapes for growing feet . . . built to stay that way . . . but your dealer does the actual fitting . . . so be sure you go to a reliable dealer.

The range of sizes and widths your dealer has in this emergency may not be as complete as he would like . . . so if he is unable to furnish the exact size in the style you prefer, we suggest that you select another pattern in the correct size that will serve your purpose. Never buy shoes too small . . . remember they must give longer service now . . . so allow ample room for feet to grow.

What are shoe manufacturers doing to produce more children's shoes?

In some instances production is being diverted from men's and women's shoes into children's shoes. Some manufacturers who in the past have made only adult shoes are now devoting part of their facilities to the production of shoes for children.

What is the International Shoe Company doing about this children's shoe problem?

As America's largest manufacturer of children's shoes, we are now producing a great many more pairs than we did a year ago. We expect to maintain this higher rate of production and, if possible, increase it.

But*... in our endeavor to make more children's shoes we will not disregard quality... we are determined not to use present conditions as an excuse for lowering the moral standards of our product . . . standards that we have maintained for more than forty years.

We shall continue to make shoes that are worthy of your complete trust . . . that are constructed, inside and out, to give your children real protection during the vital years while their feet are developing.

2D PAYMENT DUE TOMORROW ON INCOME TAXES

Amended Estimate Also May Be Filed.

Second quarterly payment on the income estimates filed by many tax payers on April 15 is due tomorrow. The quarterly payments are designed to place on a pay-as-you-go tax basis those individuals not fully covered by pay roll tax deductions withheld.

The individual income tax act of 1944, which became law a short time ago, embodies provisions that may change the tax liability of many individuals. No one is obliged to file an amended estimate to take into account the changes effected by the new law, however, and there will be no penalty if, because of this law, the tax payer's final 1944 return next March shows that he underestimated his liability.

Estimates May Be Amended.

Every tax payer is entitled to file an amended declaration of estimated 1944 income tax liability tomorrow, and again each succeeding quarter. Those wishing to amend their estimates can get the necessary form from the bureau of internal revenue.

Principal beneficiaries of the individual income tax act of 1944 are couples with two or more dependents. The credit for a dependent is raised to $500 from $350, while the personal exemption for married couples is reduced to $1,000 from $1,200.

Dependent Rule Liberalized.

Definition of "dependent" has been liberalized so that it now includes any close relative receiving more than half of his or her support from the tax payer, provided the dependent's income is less than $500. As a result, children 18 or over may now be classed as dependents.

A declaration of estimated income tax must be filed by single persons who expect to receive in 1944 more than $2,700 of wages subject to withholding of income tax at the source or more than $100 of income not subject to withholding, and by every married person who, either alone or with his wife, expects to receive more than $3,500 of wages subject to withholding or more than $100 of income from other sources.

Tax payers who were not required to file a declaration on April 15 but have since become subject to this obligation because of increased salary, change in marital status, etc., must file by tomorrow.

COUNCIL GROUP TO INVESTIGATE OCD PRINT BILL

Expenses of printing for the office of civilian defense caused surprise yesterday when City Controler Upham submitted four OCD bills to the city council finance committee for approval.

The bills were: Printing Alert, the OCD paper, for January, $1,498; printing Alert for April, $773; purchase of 400 memorial plaques, $2,000; purchase of mimeograph paper, $700. Ald. Bowler [25th], committee chairman, said the bills "seem excessive," and he named Ald. Grealis [44th] chairman of a subcommittee to look into them.

"I'm going to make a motion before the subcommittee to eliminate this OCD paper," said Ald. Hilburn [47th]. "It is not necessary."

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and by mail, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the queries.]

A. J. T. writes: "A soldier 36 years of age, having served in the army for 23 months in limited service due to defective vision in one eye, which cannot be corrected by glasses, was very recently placed in class C and later reclassified to class A. He was then assigned to a combat regiment to be shipped overseas in spite of the fact that all the basic training he has had consisted of but a total of 108 hours. Can you explain this and tell me what steps can be taken to have a review or recheck of his physical condition made to determine if some mistake has not been made?"

ANSWER: There has been no mistake unless the soldier has mistakenly assumed that he could not be reclassified and sent overseas. It appears he has been so reclassified and probably will shortly be shipped overseas to service with a combat regiment, probably in a headquarters company or in clerical, administrative, or noncombat activity in his company.

M. M. W. writes: "Some one tells us that these young boys, 18 and 19, can not be sent overseas until they have had at least one full year's training. He was also told this when he enlisted and now he is overseas already, in the air force ground crew."

ANSWER: Such a restriction was attempted when the selective service law was amended to include 18 year olds, but this restriction was defeated by the army and the administration. Men who enter the service can be sent immediately overseas—and without any training so far as anything to the contrary is concerned.

K. R. writes: "My husband holds a first lieutenant's commission in the army dental corps. He is 42 years of age and limited service and has been on active duty for 14 months. I have been told that officers over 38 years of age who are limited service may be discharged on request. Is this true?"

ANSWER: The statement appeared alright, but it did not mean what everybody took it to mean. Your husband can, of course, request a retirement to inactive duty status. His request, if recommended by his commanding officer, is forwarded a couple of steps up the line and if approved there he would be assigned to a "pool" and every installation in the army then could request his services. If no such requests were made, then, and only then, would serious consideration be given to his request. In most cases his commanding officer's comment on the request would read, "Cannot be spared."

SENTENCE FLYER TO 30 YEARS FOR RAPE OF DANCER

Santa Ana, Cal., June 13 (AP).—Capt. Morrison J. Wilkinson, 28, of Washington, D. C., a former Flying Tiger, tonight was convicted by an army general court martial on morals charges involving a number of women and was sentenced to 30 years' imprisonment at hard labor.

The flyer was convicted on six specifications and acquitted on four. He also was dismissed from the army.

Wilkinson was found guilty of statutory rape charges made by Caprice Capron, 17, a night club dancer. He was acquitted on a specification of lewd and lascivious conduct in connection with her accusations.

He was declared innocent by the 10 officer board on two specifications of forcible rape against a woman whose name was not disclosed. A conviction also was voted on a charge of assault with intent to rape Dean Stull, 16, another dancer. In addition to morals offenses, Wilkinson was found guilty of bigamy and larceny.

Like a kindly nature, the smoothness of Walker's DeLuxe is "bred in the bone"—for this whiskey is smoothed from the start by a special distilling refinement. Then it is cask-smoothed four full years. These days it is scarce, for we are making war alcohol and pre-war stocks must last longer than originally intended. But—come peace—we believe America will recognize Walker's DeLuxe as the two-word synonym for whiskey smoothness.

Interest Grows as Conclave of G. O. P. Nears

BY JUDITH CASS.

KEEPING one eye on the progress of the invasion and the other on the approaching Republican national convention June 26 at the Stadium has local politicos on the tips of their toes. The early birds who reserved hotel rooms months ago for visiting friends are resting somewhat easy, but the mad scramble for tickets and box seats still goes on.

One of the first of the social events on the convention calendar will be an open house which the women's division of the Dwight Green courtesy committee will give from 2 to 5 p. m. Saturday, June 24, in the committee's headquarters in the upper ballroom of the Stevens hotel. Mrs. Green is honorary chairman of the committee, of which Mrs. Jacob Baur and Mrs. Helen Griffin serve as co-chairmen. Mrs. William E. Ragland [Edith Mason] will sing the national anthem, accompanied by Rhea Shelters, and wives of state officials will assist in receiving the wives of senators and delegates who will be here for the convention. The headquarters will remain open thru the week.

Convention Notes.

The Alfred O'Garas have no worries about seeing as much of the convention as they like, for they will sit in Mr. and Mrs. Will H. Hays' box. Mr. Hays, a former chairman of the Republican national committee, and his wife and Mrs. O. O. McIntyre, widow of the famed columnist, are arriving from New York on the 25th and will have supper quietly with the O'Garas that night.

The next morning, before the opening session of the convention, Mrs. O'Gara will entertain at breakfast at the Racquet club for Mrs. Lucile Leimert of Los Angeles, who will be staying at the club during the convention. Mrs. O'Gara's sister-in-law, Mrs. Frederick Weyerhaeuser of St. Paul, Minn., also will be a breakfast guest, as will possibly Mrs. Harold E. Stassen, whose husband resigned as governor of Minnesota to enter the navy as a lieutenant commander.

Mrs. Weyerhaeuser, the former Vivian O'Gara, is a former president of the Chicago Junior league, a post, coincidentally, that was held some years ago by Mrs. Leimert in the Los Angeles league. Mrs. O'Gara will entertain at tea later during convention week for other friends who will be here for the Republican gathering, among them Mrs. Edward Van Vleck of New York, who will be at the Ambassador hotel.

The Blackstone hotel will be the headquarters of Ruth Hanna McCormick Simms [Mrs. Albert Simms] thru the convention, at which she will be a delegate from New Mexico. Mrs. Simms arrived last Thursday. Her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Miller, are busy moving into the Lake Shore dr. apartment formerly occupied by Mrs. Ernest A. Hamill II., who has joined Lt. Hamill in Charleston, S. C. The Millers, who had been in Tucson, Ariz., for some time, will live in Chicago while Mr. Miller is serving with the army ordnance here in a civilian capacity.

Here and There.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward L. Johnson, new principals of the Farmington School for Girls, will arrive June 20 to visit Mr. and Mrs. R. Douglas Stuart in Lake Forest. Mrs. John P. Wilson Jr., who heads the Chicago alumnae group, and Mr. Wilson will entertain at cocktails that day so that parents of prospective students may meet the Johnsons. The next day Mrs. Stuart, whose daughter, Harriet, attends the school, will give a luncheon at the Onwentsia for the visitors, to which all alumnae are being invited. Mrs. Frank Priebe, whose daughter, Barbara, also is a student at the school, will entertain the Johnsons at dinner on the 21st. Mrs. Stewart Johnson is vice president of the local alumnae; other officers are Miss Mary Jane Ellis and Mrs. Milton Wilson Jr.

The junior Rush Butlers' daughter, Blair, who just has returned from Farmington, gave a luncheon yesterday at the Indian Hill club. She and her parents and sister, Judy, will go to their Castle Park, Mich., home soon.

On the Calendar.

The Chicago Junior league has two parties on its calendar for this week, a swimming and buffet supper party Friday evening at the Saddle and Cycle club and a luncheon at which this year's and last year's provisional members will meet the board of directors today at the Indian Hill club. Miss Helen M. Bennett, who will direct the provisional training course which opens next Monday, will be the special guest at the luncheon. Among this year's provisionals who will meet her and Mrs. Richard M. Lamport, league president, and other board members are Mrs. Preston K. Alshton, Mrs. Harris B. Burrows III., Miss Irina Cantacuzene, Miss Janet Carr, Miss Angeline Johnson, and Miss Barbara McClurg.

Camp Ready; Children, Too; Now for Funds

Cottages have been scrubbed, new curtains hung, and canoes freshly painted in preparation for the arrival on June 26 of 162 underprivileged children and mothers at Camp Algonquin, located northwest of Chicago on the beautiful Fox river. That date will mark opening of the camp's 35th season.

Algonquin is operated by the United Charities with the generous assistance of Tribune readers. Last year the 43 acre camp offered a vacation spot for more than 1,500 needy boys and girls, many of whom had never been outside the city limits of Chicago.

By June 27, when a second group of 103 mothers and children arrives, boys and girls who arrived on the opening day will have the situation well in hand and be ready to pass on information to newcomers. They will have made the acquaintance of the two tiny kittens born recently to "Lucy," feline pet of the camp. They will know where the sheep and pigs are housed and where the peonies bloom most profusely. The mysteries of handicraft already will have been explored.

For several weeks, camp staff members and workers, led by Mrs. Astrid Save, camp director, have been repairing toys, hanging swings, filling sand boxes, and tending the gardens that are prepared to yield a bumper crop of fresh vegetables to build up undernourished little bodies. The swimming pool has been cleaned and soon will be filled and there, in the healthful rays of the sun, children will regain the health they lost during a winter in tenement flats.

Mrs. Save said the cost per week for each camper will be approximately $8. The cost will be defrayed by contributions addressed to the Camp Algonquin fund, The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., Tribune Tower, Chicago, Ill. Will you help to send a child to camp?

Warn Hospitals Face Curtailments Due to Lack of Nurses' Aids

Because thousands of registered nurses have joined the army, navy, and marines, at least six and possibly a score of Chicago hospitals will have to close off floors in the near future unless an "unlimited" number of nurses' aids are recruited, the Red Cross announced yesterday.

Mrs. Arthur H. Spiegel, chairman of the Red Cross volunteer nurses' aid corps, named St. Luke's, Lying-In, Michael Reese, County, Hines, and Mercy as the hospitals facing immediate danger of curtailing facilities.

On June 1, Mrs. Spiegel said, there were 2,098 aids registered with the Chicago Red Cross, with at least 1,000 more needed and the situation growing more acute every week.

Gay Ginghams Finally Hit the Fashion Parade

BY REA SEEGER.

Gay gingham in strong color combinations and contrasts has finally made the fashion lineup. It's to be found in costume accessories—short sleeved blouses, trick sun-back vestees and dickeys, waistcoats without sleeves, and bolero tops. Unusual plaids are featured, some big and bold, others reminiscent of Tattersall check waistcoats, and some of authentic Scotch colors.

Snappy black and white and gray, criscrossed with lines of vivid scarlet, are combinations in summer vestees and dickeys for wear with summer suit jackets. These are very feminine because there are scalloped edges around the arm holes and down the center panel.

The sun-tan vests are knockout in bright plaids. You can wear them with separate skirts to make a summer costume or under a skirt and jacket duet. Some have flirtatious bows of the same gingham, one tied at each side at the base of the narrow shoulder straps where they join the brief camisole. Stunning deep blues, combined with bright green, make unusual plaid designs, so do red, yellow, and black. All the plaids are vibrant pick-ups for dark or dun colored suits of wool or summer cotton.

Sensational finds in the neckwear collections are the floral printed bra-tops of glazed cotton chintz. These are considerably deeper and wider than the beach bra-tops. They're fancy enough to wear for color contrast with any town suit, cool enough to be comfortable no matter what the temperature, and wide enough to pass the strictest censor board.

Women's Value in Navy Told to Doctors' Wives

Women in navy uniforms who enviously watch their WAC sisters embark for duty overseas soon may get their chance to do likewise, and the navy girls who have fallen in love with their jobs and dread the moment of parting at war's close yet may be able to keep those jobs.

"I am going to ask the navy department to get us legislation so that there will be a permanent place for women in the navy," Vice Adm. Ross T. McIntire, surgeon general of the navy, told 600 members of the woman's auxiliary of the American Medical society at luncheon yesterday in the Grand ballroom of the Knickerbocker hotel. "And I see no reason why we should coddle women too much and not let them into combat areas," he added.

The navy girls won high praise from Adm. McIntire, who is President Roosevelt's personal physician. He said their work in the navy hospital corps was so useful and of such high morale value that its permanence must be assured. Navy nurses in the Pacific area and on air transport planes carrying wounded demonstrate, he said, that women have "just as much courage as men, perhaps more, and face danger readily."

"You, as doctors' wives, can be proud of our handling of the wounded," Adm. McIntire continued. "Men who would have been maimed are saved for useful lives." Out of 100 wounded men, he said, more than 97 men live. It is rare for a wounded man, he added, to be without help for more than 5 or 10 minutes. In the months ahead, he warned, this country will know casualties such as "we have never known."

Mrs. Eben J. Carey of Milwaukee, Wis., president of the auxiliary, presided at the post-luncheon program, and introduced the president elect, Mrs. David W. Thomas, Lock Haven, Pa., who will give her inaugural address at 2:30 p. m. today. At 5 p. m. members will view the medical exhibits at the Museum of Science and Industry, Jackson park, and, after buffet supper, hear a presentation of "Aviation Calls the Doctor," by Dr. Andrew C. Ivy, Northwestern university physiologist.

Movie Is Story of Entertaining Boys Overseas

"FOLLOW THE BOYS."

Good Morning!

This opus gives deserved credit to the stars of the amusement world who have been so grand about entertaining service men overseas.

The intention behind the production is laudable, but the piece itself is cumbersome. It has nothing particularly original to offer in the way of a story and is overloaded with talent. . . . Its list of guest stars is staggering. It has bands and bands and songs and songs and dances and dances, thru all of which is threaded the romance of Miss Zorina and Mr. Raft.

Action starts with the death of vaudeville and the descent on Hollywood of "The Three Wests," George Raft, Grace MacDonald, and Charley Grapewin—after they have tried burlesque with no success. . . . Here Tony [Raft] meets Gloria [Zorina], the dancing star. . . . He becomes her partner and later her husband. . . .

Comes Pearl Harbor. . . . Tony is rejected for service because of a bum knee. For some reason, he doesn't tell the wife of his bosom the reason he remains out of uniform. . . . She doesn't tell him she's going to have a baby. . . . Estrangement follows. . . . Tony conceives the idea which grows into the Hollywood victory committee and swells into the great overseas entertainment movement.

Practically everything and everybody is in the movie—and if that's the way you like your screen fare—it's for you.

U. of Chicago Professor to Head Beloit College

Beloit, Wis., June 13 (AP).—Dr. Carey Croneis, professor of geology at the University of Chicago, will become the fifth president of Beloit college on Sept. 1, trustees announced today. Dr. Croneis succeeds the late Irving Maurer. Dr. Croneis, 43, has degrees from Denison college in Ohio, the University of Kansas, and Harvard. He is a consultant to the national defense research committee and served as a civilian adviser for the war department on a foreign military mission.

Thru the Looking Glass

In a somewhat devious but ultimately effective way the speedy disappearance of the flexible supporting garment is a serious deterrent to war production and essential civilian industries in which women are engaged. Mary Anderson, director of the women's bureau, United States department of labor, said this yesterday in a statement on the necessity, especially among the older working women, for wearing a good supporting girdle and a plea to all working women to make what garments they are fortunate enough to own serve them well and last a long time.

"Women who have been accustomed to wear corsets, girdles, or other supporting garments in normal times cannot get along without them in war jobs which demand increased physical exertion," Miss Anderson said.

"It is vitally important to the success of the war effort that women be kept in their jobs. Nevertheless, in many war plants women workers are leaving almost as fast as new ones are being hired. . . . Fatigue is one of the most usual causes of women quitting their jobs. It is a well known fact that good posture helps to prevent fatigue, and one of the most effective means for mature and older women to achieve healthful posture is to wear the right kind of supporting garments. These women cannot grow their own muscular girdles."

According to Miss Anderson every woman, war worker or otherwise, who owns a rubber garment owes it to her own energy supply and the war's needs to take good care of it, and NO woman should buy a new one unless she really needs it.

We would like to add this note to the younger women: Good posture, practiced until it becomes a habit, is health and job insurance of a sort. Learn it, practice it.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., June 13.—Elizabeth Taylor, being starred in "National Velvet" with Mickey Rooney, is already set for "Hold High the Torch," in which Lassie again will be with her. Freddie Wilcox, who made "Lassie Come Home," will direct this, too. I wonder if Metro didn't overlook a good bet by not doing a series of the Lassie pictures, with Roddy McDowall and Elizabeth. They were unexpectedly successful. . . . Agnes Moorehead goes into "Tomorrow the World" with Betty Field. . . . Since beating Johnny Dawson last week at golf, Johnny Weissmuller may get out of the water and into the rough next season and do a golf tour. . . . Claudette Colbert will go to New York for the "Since You Went Away" opening—if she feels up to it. . . . Charlie Bickford, whose stock soared after he played a priest in "Bernadette," is wanted by Billy Rose for lead opposite Fay Bainter in the new play, "Emily Brown," but Twentieth Century has four big parts for him and can't spare him.

No Belittling in that Family.

Joan Fontaine, after lunching an attractive British wing commander, Peter Thompson, adopted him as a cousin, introduced him to sister Olivia as Peter de Havilland Thomas. Livvy looked him over and said, "We certainly are a most attractive family." . . . At Ernst Lubitsch's luncheon the guests were discussing the possibility of a picture co-starring Mae West and Mickey Rooney. A star said, "I've never seen Rooney, but isn't he physically unattractive?" And at that moment Ava Gardner [ex Mrs. Rooney] walked in with Mervyn Leroy. . . . Judith Evelyn, who gave 1,051 performances of "Angel Street" on Broadway, is now vacationing with Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Paddleford in Pasadena—and I'll bet she'll be flooded with picture offers. There is an actress. . . . Michael Arlen hopes his friends won't worry about his automobile accident. He expects to be out and about in two or three days.

Bedazzled and Befuddled Us.

Mrs. Charles Mendl's dinner party for Elsa Maxwell brought 50 top stars, including Judy Garland, Mary Pickford, Joan Fontaine, Sister Olivia, Maria Montez, Janet Gaynor, Anita Colby, and more extra males than I've seen in one room since the war started. But the real star was William McCaffery, magician. He's something to shout about. Magic is his hobby; he's comptroller of American fruit industry. After he told the name Jack Warner had written on a slip of paper, Jack cracked, "Maybe you'd better come over to my studio and read my scripts." . . . Jinx Falkenburg tells me Maj. Tex McCrary is in Russia, and her boss, Harry Cohn, finally has consented to her going overseas with Al Jolson.

His Health Comes First.

It's not true that Dore Schary is leaving Selznick after only one picture. He's leaving everything for three months to clear up a bad case of blood poisoning. On his return he'll do "Houdini." What a natural for Cary Grant! Then Schary has one to do with Jennifer Jones. . . . Brian Aherne and Jean Negulesco were having a wonderful time at Larue's. Negulesco had just finished a picture and Aherne a marriage, so they decided to celebrate. . . . Alexis Smith and Craig Stevens have chosen July 18 as the wedding day. He's out of uniform and back at Warner's. . . . Billie Burke and Frank Craven are touring the east coast in "Mrs. January and Mr. Ex."

Much Fun with Small Fry.

Don't Expect 'Good Night' to Save Evening

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

On the Solid Side

Here's a typical query from a wide eyed doll who wants a few practical pointers on doorstep technique. After a tactful buildup she phrases the question this way: ". . . and how can I say good night so he'll come back again?"

Unless you tie him to the doorknob with your kerchief or lock him in the basement for the night, there is no way of being sure he will be there when you want him in the morning but here is something you can put down in black and white: If you can't convince him during the evening that you're worth seeing again, don't depend on any last minute doorstep amours to put the idea across!

The main idea behind any date is that a fellow and girl who enjoy each other's company can get together for an evening of fun. If joe blow likes you and finds you interesting date-bait, he'll realize it long before you two have headed home and are standing on the doorstep with the key in the lock. Of course, you can let him know that you would like a second date by saying, "I haven't had so much fun in a long time," or "Thanks for a wonderful evening," or whatever other words you choose to express your appreciation verbally.

Your attitude during the evening will determine whether or not the parting will be such sweet sorrow or just a smooth and casual sendoff for the boy. If it's your habit to go thru the limpid eyed "You'd be so nice to come home to" routine the last few blocks of every date, your boy may catch the mood and think you will be disappointed if he leaves you without at least an attempt at a peck on the cheek.

But that kind of doorstep doodling—saying good night with gestures—never insures a re-date.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1944: By Ely Culbertson.]

In today's deal the declarer chose a complicated line of play rather than depend on a three-three trump break, and the result backed up his judgment.

The bidding:

| North | East | South | West |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 spade | Pass | 3 diamonds | Pass |
| 3 spades | Pass | 5 diamonds | Pass |
| 5 spades | Pass | 6 diamonds | Pass |
| Pass | Pass | | |

North's opening bid, the light, was all right, but he certainly should have passed to five diamonds.

West opened the club queen, and declarer won. Now, with communications bad between the North-South hands, it was tempting to lay down the ace, king, queen of diamonds in hope of a three-three break, which would then allow declarer to discard at least a club and a heart on the top spades, and finally to concede, at worst, one heart trick. Declarer knew, however, that it was roughly two to one against a perfect break of trumps, so he decided to try a different line. He led to the trump jack, cashed two spades, discarding his low club, then ruffed a club and drew trumps. East immediately had trouble with his discarding. To hold a guard for the spade suit he had to let go a heart. Now declarer led low toward the queen-jack of hearts. West put up the king and returned a club. Now East had to give up another heart, and when declarer ruffed the club he read the situation perfectly and laid down the heart ace, dropping dummy's queen and East's ten, and setting up the nine and seven for the fulfilling tricks.

"How I really do Stop Underarm Perspiration and Odor (and save up to 50%)"

says allúring PAT BOYD "We must be glamourous"

"Even under photographers' 1000-watt lights I have to look exquisite!" Pat Boyd says. "What's more, I simply can't risk injury to the expensive clothes I model in. So it was a load off my mind when I found a deodorant that really did the job—Odorono Cream!

"Odorono Cream is safe, too. Even after shaving it is non-irritating—it actually contains soothing emollients. Also, I've proved that it won't rot fabrics. I just follow directions and use it as often as I like. And think of it! Odorono Cream gives you up to 21 more applications for 39¢ than other leading deodorant creams. What a saving!

"So to every girl who'd like to be 'Cover-Girl glamourous'... here's my advice: use Odorono Cream!"

Ballet Group Puts On a Truly Brilliant Show

BY ALBERT GOLDBERG.

There was a shower of star dust at the Eighth Street theater last night when Ballet Repertory company emerged from the shadow of its arguable debut last November with a show that was brilliant, exciting, and worth anybody's money. It could hardly have been otherwise with two world premieres, one of them by the already historic Massine, who had such dancing tools to work with as Rosella Hightower, Marina Svetlova, Marie-Jeanne, George Zoritch, Alexis Dolinoff, and Andre Eglevsky, and with Bronislava Nijinska's "Hitch Your Wagon to a Star" come to belated justice by the twinkling feet of Hightower and Eglevsky.

Massine is to the ballet repertoire what Chopin is to that of the pianist—its heart and soul.. The two indispensables came together in delightful conjunction in the new ballet called "Fantasie Poetique," tho any other name would have served as well. It is not a revolutionary affair, being simply a series of divertissements to the Preludes, Waltzes, Mazurkas, and other miniatures of Chopin—sometimes tastefully, sometimes unrecognizably orchestrated, but always played with a danceable lift by a group of good musicians under Nicolai Malko.

"Fantasie Poetique" is not unrelated to Fokine's earlier Chopin classic, "Les Sylphides." Curiously, like Fokine, Massine was less moved by the dramatic and urgent qualities of Chopin's music than by its power to invoke mood and movement. "Fantasie Poetique" is purely decorative.

Its patterns are those summoned by a virtuoso with every artifice at his finger's ends. It is technical display pure and simple, concealed beneath the play of a continuously active imagination. It was beautifully danced thruout, all the gifted dancers at his command yielding themselves to Massine's modeling like pliable clay under a sculptor's fingers. Your choice of episodes depended on your individual taste. There was not much to choose between Svetlova's dainty "Maiden's Wish" and flickering "Butterfly" etude, or between Marie-Jeanne's "Fantasie Impromptu," Eglevsky's virile Prelude in G minor—one of the more atrocious orchestrations—or the soaring Prelude No. 19 of Marilyn Bebber, Clarice Daley, Barbara Cox, and Marie Kuhlman.

Vitalized by the presence of Eglevsky and Hightower, Nijinska's "Hitch Your Wagon to a Star" realized what had been only sketchily suggested at its premiere last November. Both star dancers fell into parts tailor made to their capabilities. Eglevsky's athletic proclivities are somewhat hampered by a stage so small, but the handicap served only to put him on his mettle, and there was humor and romance besides a dashing display of technical prowess in his characterization of the lovelorn fiddler. Miss Hightower matched her partner with charm and skill, and there was a neat characterization of the dancing maestro by Stanley Herbertt and outstanding bits by Carole Layden and Marilyn Bebber.

Too late for report in a morning newspaper a second premiere was listed, "Spanish Rhapsody," choreographed and danced by Vela Montoya, and a repetition from last fall of Carla Bradley's "Debutante's Ball."

'Let's Face It' Is Moderately Amusing Piece

"LET'S FACE IT."

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

"Let's Face It" came into the Selwyn last night, almed straight at the convention trade. This is the Danny Kaye show without Danny Kaye [who opened it in New York in October, 1941], and the best thing in it is Mary Jane Walsh, the sole holdover from the Kaye cast. Miss Walsh is as trim and taut as a little yacht under full sail, and she makes Cole Porter's songs sound almost as fresh as when he and they were younger. Her flawless sense of rhythm sends the lyrics riding high on the crest of the music, and her timing is something persuasive no audience would want to resist. When she takes over, "Let's Face It" rolls, however briefly, into high.

Most of the time it is just another musical, moderately amusing, on the rowdy side, based on the play, "Cradle Snatchers." This time the three raddled matrons invite three soldiers to their house party to get even with husbands whose sidetracked fishing trip ends with bringing a night club floor show to the same house for their own party. Miss Walsh is the chaperon and the main soldier is Benny Rubin, there to make enough money to marry Miss Walsh. All the things happen you would expect to happen, except that the inferences are broader than they were in "Cradle Snatchers," and the scenes between the matrons and the soldiers range from baby games with variations to Cynda Glenn's specialty, a kind of double jointed vaudeville specialty the audience liked better than I did.

Myself, I didn't like Miss Glenn, specialty or otherwise, at all. She hit comedy with a sledgehammer and flattened its every hope. The only one of the cradle snatching females who had a glimmer of what might be done with the situation was Brenda Forbes, who was a kind of Edna May Oliver to music.

Casting Mr. Rubin for Mr. Kaye was not quite fair to the show, or to Mr. Rubin. In his own way he is a good comic, but it is not the way of the man who gets the girl. Miss Walsh might as well be singing her torch songs to Sgt. Irving Engelman, and I hope you haven't forgotten him as the forlorn little rookie of "The Army Play by Play." Come to think of it, Mr. Rubin isn't even that disarming. You know perfectly well that he can take care of himself, in or out of Southampton.

In general, the cast hasn't very much to offer. The White Guards sing well, and Betty Brewer and Tom Powers do a respectable job with a love song called "You Irritate Me So." There are some pretty girls and the costumes are nice and clean, but you could find a better dance team than Zarco and Beryl by even a quick look around the supper clubs. I'd really like to know what Danny Kaye did to that show to make it last out a full season. He must have been dynamite.

Women in War Work

By Dorothy Johnson

The thousands of Chicago women engaged in manufacturing the materials of war in plants thruout the city and suburbs are represented by seven attractive young women at the War Products exhibit, sponsored by the United States treasury in coöperation with THE TRIBUNE and important manufacturers, in Tribune Tower and on the exhibition grounds adjoining it on the south.

Clad in the dark blue, jeep-suit style uniforms worn by women employees of the Dow Chemical company, Midland, Mich., and Chicago, Gloria Hawk and Elaine Olsson, two pretty demonstrators, explain daily to the visitors tr the tent display the process by which metal parts for war machines are covered with a temperature and moisture proof coating, called "strip coat." The covering makes it possible for gears and other metal parts to be shipped to either cold or tropical climates and eliminates both a grease coating, difficult for service men to remove, and bulky paper wrappings.

Five women war workers, representing four Chicago area plants of the Western Electric company, working in shifts in the company's installation in the tent, demonstrate the army signal corps equipment which bond buyers' investments purchase.

The maze of the portable switchboard and its related cords and other devices is no mystery to Mary Ann Harvey, Thelma Shelton, Leona Hughes, Fay Verrill, and Alice Konopasek, who have helped to manufacture the army operations centers in the Western Electric factories.

At 4:15 p. m. today, between shifts at the Illinois division of the Bendix Aviation corporation, 505 N. Sacramento blvd., hundreds of workers will assemble for a war bond rally, the first phase of the employes' campaign to raise the company's quota of $350,000 in bonds to be sold within the plant in the fifth war loan.

During the program several women workers who have hung gold stars in their windows because of the loss of husbands or close relatives in the present war, or whose family men have been wounded or are missing in action, will tell their fellow employes of the importance of additional bond purchases.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Elaine Olsson demonstrating weatherproof coating for machine parts at War Products exhibit.

The women will be presented by Mrs. Clara Higgins, women's counselor, who will give brief personal histories of the feminine workers, all of whom hold important jobs in the production of aviation engines.

Lolita Twardos' husband, Victor, is missing in Italy; Irene Post's was killed in a bomber crash, and Laura Hart's husband is a prisoner of the Japanese in Burma.

Marie Kalamaras, Lena Bierman, Edna M. Davis, Bobbie Oberlin, Charlotte Braun, June Gore, Loretta and Lena Prindville, Mildred Herman, and Frances Kusek all have brothers who have played major and tragic roles in the war.

Numerous other Bendix women have cousins, nephews, and fiances on the casualty lists.

Understanding Child Vital to Management

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Of course if you suddenly realize, when your children are 8 or 18, that they have been misunderstood and mismanaged, and you make up your mind to do better, that is infinitely preferable to continuing to let things go awry. But much, much better than that is understanding your 8 year old from babyhood, and managing your 18 year old from the time she was 8. For understanding at one age paves the way for understanding at the next, and if you're close to your son or daughter during the earlier years, the chances are better for your being friends and confidants later on.

All this applies rather specially to adolescence, I think. Surely most parents find that a difficult time, altho that their boys and girls do, too, they sometimes overlook. But if, when their children were in the rather distracting in-between period, from about 6 to 12, they remained good friends and enjoyed each other, there would certainly not be as many hurdles and hazards between parents and children when the latter reach their teens.

A mother has this to say, "I think more children between the ages of 8 and 11 are misunderstood and mismanaged than at any other time in their lives. I wish you would keep writing and writing to help parents of boys and girls of these ages. The latter part of this time, which you call the in-between period, comes so close to adolescence that I believe better handling then would prevent a lot of the trouble parents have with their children when they get into their teens."

Two Cents.

May I put in my 2 cents regarding switchboard operators' manners? I work for an advertising agency in the Board of Trade building and when I began there I was assigned to the switchboard. We always have made a practice of answering our calls by saying "Good morning" or "Good afternoon" and then we give the name of the company.

By doing this we feel we have let the person on the line know whether he has the right number and also we've given a cheery greeting.

I might also add that after the person on the wire has given his request we say "Thank you." The caller then knows we understand him and acknowledge his call in a courteous way.

"Seven Steps Toward Simplified Office Procedure" is the name of the book. Not just off the press, but written last year by A. H. Stricker, manager of the statistical department of the General Electric company.

It's the kind of book a secretary would like to give the boss if she had the courage. And certainly it's the kind of book the boss might sneak off and buy for himself some noon hour. Published by the Maple Free Press, New York, it sells for $1.75.

The author indulges in no flights of oratory—he doesn't even try to envision the coming economic world! He simply sets down in a businesslike manner the method well tested in his own company for improving office work.

With an increase of paper work and a shortage of help confronting most companies today, Mr. Stricker's book should not need to plead for a hearing.

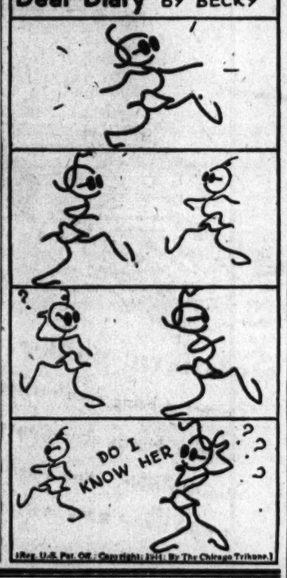

File clerks are going to like what he says about filing: "There is no doubt that a great deal of filing space has been and still is being used as a burial ground for unnecessary records and reports, many of which have outlived their functions."

To which the white collar girls may well say "Amen" and the boss, perhaps, "Ahem!"

SCHURZ AND TILDEN WIN TRACK TITLES

WINNING PREP RELAY

Tom Cara (right) of Schurz High school crosses the finish line as winner in the 880 yard relay in the senior division of the City league track meet at Key Branch stadium yesterday. Jim Fuchs (left) was the anchor man on the Hyde Park quartet which was second. Cara won the 440 yard run and Fuchs was first in the 100 yard dash. Schurz also won the senior division team title, with Hyde Park second.

Schurz High school successfully defended its City league senior track championship by outclassing the field in the 32d annual meet held yesterday in Key Branch stadium. Schurz scored 52½ points and Hyde Park was second with 22, one-half of a point ahead of Crane and Lane which tied for third place.

Six points scored by Hyde Park in the final senior event, the 880 yard relay, gave the south siders runner-up honors. Crane and Lane did not score in the race, prior to which Hyde Park had been in fourth place with 16 points.

Tilden Juniors Win.

Tilden replaced Hyde Park as junior division champion by scoring 28 points. Amundsen had 23½ for second place and Steinmetz was third with 12½.

One of the most surprising races was the junior 880 yard relay in which Tilden, which had made the slowest time to qualify for the finals, won the race while Senn, which had the fastest qualifying time, finished in fifth place.

Lively Wins Two Events.

Gerald Lively of Amundsen won the 100 and 220 yard dashes for the best individual performance in the junior division, being the only two event winner of the day.

Schurz seniors won four individual titles in addition to taking the 880 yard relay. The Schurz victors were Tom Cara in the 440 yard dash, Herb Barton in the mile run, Dick Lally in the high hurdles, and Norm Wilson in the 200 yard low hurdles.

Finals in the field events were held last week. Yesterday's summaries:

Seen in a War Bond.

I see our boys go off to training camps,
Equipped with what it takes to make them champs,
All bought with bonds and little saving stamps.

I see the guns and planes and ships and tanks,
Come streaming from our mills for fighting Yanks,

The wounds of war bound up and pain relieved,
And full security for those bereaved.

Sustained and spirited in mind and brawn,
Until the last of tyranny is gone.

I see an earlier date for war to cease,
And then I see our Uncle Sam release
Our boys, and they return to home and peace.

I see more soldiers come back to the arms
Of loved ones in our towns and on our farms,
Who otherwise would not return—it charms!

I see the flag of freedom sweep the sky,
With all it stands for, safe and flying high,
While future generations sally by.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The eager White Sox, who always do the silliest things when Lefty Ed Lopat pitches, yesterday perpetrated a series of misadventures before they could pick a spot to lose the ball game. The last of these stumbles led to three runs for the St. Louis Browns in the ninth and a 5 to 3 victory for the league leaders in Comiskey park.

Mike Kreevich.

The Sox were ahead, 1 to 0, in the first inning; 2 to 1 in the second, and 3 to 2 in the eighth. While all this see-sawing was going on it was apparent the Sox defense was not choking, perhaps—just trying too hard, let us say.

And Then It Happens!

In the third Wally Moses caught Don Gutteridge's lead off fly, then dropped the ball as he tried to return it to the infield. In the eighth with the score tied Ralph Hodgin and Thurman Tucker saluted each other as Mark Christman's fly plunked for a spurious double.

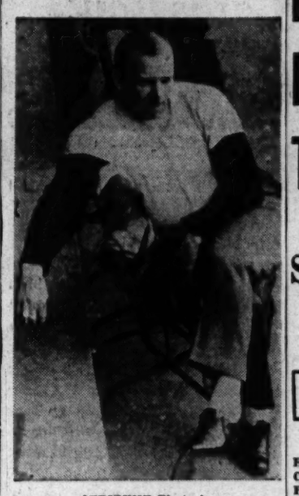

Lopat got by these strange doings and was feeling pretty fine as the Sox went ahead 3 to 2 in the eighth. Ellis Clary batted for Jack Kramer, the St. Louis pitcher, at the start of the ninth. He lifted a pop fly to the edge of the grass near second. Leroy Schalk got under the ball and started to whirl and stagger a bit. But just as he prepared to grab the ball Moses charged in from right field and knocked the ball to the ground. Clary reached second on the bobble, which was charged to Schalk.

Christman Breaks It Up.

Then Gutteridge bunted to Lopat who threw to Grey Clarke at third. Clarke got Clary in a chase back toward second, but the rapid Gutteridge was on first. Mike Kreevich, who had tied the score at 2 to 2 with a homer after two were out in the seventh, came thru with his third safe one, a single to left. George McQuinn singled to right,

Just a Spectator

Jimmy Dykes, manager of the White Sox, was just a spectator after the second inning of yesterday's game with the Browns in Comiskey park. He was chased off the field following a brief debate with Umpire Cal Hubbard. The fact that the Browns beat the Sox, 5 to 3, was not exactly ointment to Dykes' troubled brow.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., June 13.—The eighth place Cubs weren't able to do anything this evening about shaking off their role of cousins to the pacemaking Cardinals. The Chicagoans did a fair amount of hitting but their chronic weakness—pitching—broke out again and they were subdued, 8 to 3, before 14,655 cash patrons. It was the seventh time the Champions have subjected the Cubs to the same treatment and they've played only seven games.

Altho unable to break out of the cousin role, the basement dwellers made at least some progress. They managed to give the K. O. punch to Max [Lefty] Lanier, a long standing tormentor. However, they didn't drive him out of the party until the eighth inning which wasn't soon enough to prevent him from being credited with his third success of the season over them.

Passeau Retires in 5th.

The unpleasant developments of the evening involved the services of Claude Passeau who slipped in arrears by 2 to 1 as early as the second inning and then continued to slip toward the bath house. He was sent away in the fifth just after Danny Litwhiler's third two bagger had rounded out a three run incident that gave the champions a 6 to 1 bulge. Hy Vandenberg and Dale Alderson then did short turns successfully but when Bill Fleming showed up in the eighth the Cards broke out with their last two counts, part of this assault being due to Stan Musial's third hit of the night.

The Cubs' first inning run can be credited more to a slight bit of luck than to a display of power. Roy Hughes opened the evening's entertainment with a single to right and was forced on what Phil Cavarretta intended to be a sacrifice. Andy Pafko grounded to Martin Marion and a double play appeared to be in the making, but the ball struck the shortstop's glove so Pafko profited to the extent of a hit. Bill Nicholson then walked, filling the bases and Dom Dalessandro fashioned a long fly on which Cavarretta scored.

Litwhiler Opens Big Evening.

The Cards had the above run and

BANKRUPT WINS; BACKERS BILKED; BOOKIES BROKE

New York, June 13 (AP).—The horses won—but the bettors lost. The street corner bookies were unable to pay off today on yesterday's races.

But New Jersey turned the heat on operating there and the small timers decided to book bets at their own risk.

Their misfortune was that many players these days are betting on the mounts of Jockey Ted Atkinson at Aqueduct and he brought home winners at prices of $25.70, $8.50, and $6.60.

To top it off, two other horses heavily played outside the tracks came in at substantial prices.

One appropriately was named Bankrupt—and that represented the circumstances of small time bookies at that point.

Golfers Appear Tonight on Ward Sports Preview

Tonight will be golf night on Arch Ward's Sports Preview. Chick Evans, one of the nation's most widely known competitors, will head an array of guest speakers that includes Eddie Bush, professional at Oak Park Country club, and Claud S. Gordon and Frank Ogrin, officials of the Industrial Amateur Golf Tournament association. The program will be heard over W-G-N from 9 to 9:15 o'clock.

Coast Teams Okay Pro Rule on Pass Plays

Hood River, Ore., June 13 (AP).—Pacific coast conference football coaches voted today to permit forward passes from anywhere behind the line of scrimmage and to eliminate the intentional kick-off out of bounds, beginning with the 1944 schedule.

The abrupt departure from rule book practice had no time limit attached and met with quick approval of faculty representatives. The changes also were adopted by representatives of nonconference and service teams embracing virtually all far western football playing areas.

In case kick-offs go out of bounds unintentionally the rule book provisions will be followed, coaches said, but every effort will be made to instruct players to kick down field in a way that will preserve one of the "most colorful, vital plays in the game."

The 1944 schedule for the four playing members of the league, California, Washington, U. S. C., and U. C. L. A., calls for the same double round robin played by the three southern schools last year plus an invasion of Trojan and Bear camps by the Huskies.

First Elected Techawk 1944 Baseball Captain

Warren Furst, 5641 S. Troy st., has been elected captain of Illinois Institute of Technology's baseball team for 1944, Coach Bernard Weissman announced yesterday. Furst, a senior, has been active in Techawk sports for three years, winning letters in both baseball and basketball.

STEWARDS STOP JACK MARTIN'S VICTORY STREAK

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN.

They stopped Apprentice Jack Wesley Martin's headlong rush for Lincoln Field riding honors yesterday, something that the veteran Otto Grohs was having a hard time doing.

The little lad from Kalamazoo felt the wrath of the stewards and was set down for the remainder of the meeting at Hawthorne and faces further time off on the recommendation to the Illinois racing board that he be given an additional seven days of inactivity.

Move Him Back to Third.

It all came about in the third race when Martin, riding C. U. Yaeger's Hit It, was driving for the finish line with Mrs. E. E. Robbins' Anthem and Mrs. R. J. Doyle's Ever Flying running neck and neck. Hit It crossed the line in front with Anthem second and Ever Flying third, but the stewards agreed that Martin had permitted his mount to impede the progress of the other two horses. They dropped Hit It down to third and moved Anthem into the winner's spot, with Ever Flying getting the place.

The disqualification was the third of the Lincoln Fields meeting and the suspension was Martin's second of the season as the officials at Sportsman's Park put him on the ground for five days shortly before racing moved to Hawthorne. Not only that, it cost Martin his 24th victory and a chance to tie Grohs.

Daily Double Yields $121.40.

Grohs had started off the afternoon with triumph on a 25 to 1 shot, Mrs. Martha Specht's Cincinnatus, a 4 year old maiden, which sloshed by the judges' stand two lengths in front of the favored Perplex in a mile and 70 yard affair for 3 year olds and upward. The mutuel return to the winner was $56.80, $18.40 and $9.

The choice players, who have been running in bad luck all during the meeting, got even in the second with the Indian Rocks stable's Darien, which romped over seven other maiden colts and geldings to win by seven lengths. Its price was $4.80 and as a result the daily double return was $121.40.

Bob Westfall Is to Play for Detroit Lions

Bob Westfall.

Bob Westfall, former Michigan full back, will play with the Detroit Lions next fall, Owner Fred Mandel Jr. indicated yesterday at a luncheon for Chicago football writers which served to introduce the club's new publicity director, William D. Schilling.

Owner Mandel was optimistic over the 1944 season, even if the Lions have only eight veterans. He said his organization has had success in rounding up several players, 4-F's and former service men. The Lions will start training Aug. 26 at Grosse Ile, a suburb of Detroit. He believes the Lions will make a better showing than in 1943 when they won three games.

Cards Rout Cubs, 8 to 3, Under Lights

one other back in their possession before an out had been registered in the second. Whitey Kurowski singled to left and Litwhiler launched his large evening by doubling to center. Marion drilled a single past Passeau into center, driving in his two mates. The run off Passeau in the fourth was somewhat on the gift side. Tony York tried to take over an outfielding assignment on Kurowski's fly to short center and it dropped for a double. He scored a moment later on Litwhiler's second two-bagger.

The Cards ran out their full string of nine batters in the fifth while doing the three run job that erased Passeau. Johnny Hopp launched the disturbance by singling and going to second on a wild pitch after Ray Sanders had flied out. Musial's single scored him after which Ken O'Dea singled and Kurowski walked. Litwhiler exploded his third two bagger at this point, Musial and O'Dea strolling across the plate. Vandenberg then took charge and induced the Cards to subside quickly.

Novikoff Hits Pinch Single.

The Cubs almost had some real fun in the seventh, but they ran out of base hits too soon. With one out Hughes singled, went to second on Cavarretta's infield out, and home on Pafko's single. Then Nicholson doubled down the right field line, but Dallessandro fanned. In the next inning York and Easterwood singled with one out, so Lou Novikoff was invited to take a hand as a pinch man. He banged a single into center to score York, whereupon Munger was rushed to Lanier's relief.

Fleming's difficulties in the eighth consisted of a single by Hopp, the Musial hit—which happened to be a triple—and a squeeze bunt by Kurowski.

Paul Derringer went on the waiting list today, his trouble being soreness in his right arm. He has been ordered to desist from throwing for four or five days. Derringer attributes the difficulties to an unnatural delivery he adopted trying to favor the right ankle sprained during spring training.

Detroit, Mich., June 13 (AP).—Miss Nancy Corbett of River Forest, runnerup last year to Pauline Betz of Los Angeles for the woman's National Clay court tennis championship, advanced to the third round of the 1944 meet today on the Detroit tennis club courts by defeating Diane Stinchfield of Grosse Pointe, Mich., 6-1, 6-1. Seeded seventh this year, Miss Corbett tomorrow opposes fourth seeded Mary Arnold of Los Angeles, who reached the quarter-final round by default of Bertha Scott of St. Louis.

Two Chicagoans Lose.

Gene Vash of Chicago was defeated in the men's division by seeded No. 2 Billy Talbert of Indianapolis, 6-1, 6-2. Jack McManis of Los Angeles eliminated Thane Halstead of Chicago, 6-3, 6-3.

Browns Get Three in 9th; Beat Sox, 5-3

Gordon Maltzberger replaced Lopat and made Vern Stephens foul to Mike Tresh for the second out. Gene Moore, batting for Frank Demaree, ran the count to three and two, McQuinn stealing second before Moore walked, loading the bases. Maltzberger curved two strikes past Christman, then threw a ball. Christman lined the next pitch to left, scoring Kreevich and McQuinn. Moore was out, Hodgin to Clarke, as he tried to reach third. But the damage had been done.

Had the Sox been able to hold up thru the ninth they would have had unshared possession of third place, a game and a half behind the leading Browns. Their foldup caused them to drop into the second division.

Dykes Is Chased Early.

Manager Jim Dykes was forced to observe the quaint antics of his chattels from a hideout in the left field boxes. He received his first bouncing of the season when Plate Umpire Cal Hubbard gave him the clammy finger in the second inning.

The Sox scored a run in the first inning on Moses' single, Schalk's sacrifice and Tucker's single but handed the Browns a tying run in the second inning. Demaree walked, then sank with Christman in a double play. Milt Byrnes singled, advanced on a wild pitch and scored on Myron Hayworth's single to left. It was while Hayworth was at bat that Dykes waxed sarcastic about Umpire Hubbard's focus on balls and strikes.

Lopat Drives in Run.

Lopat's wild pitch having lost him his lead, it was fitting perhaps that he should restore it in the Chicago second. Eddie Carnett walked, paused while Clarke flied out, and stopped at second on Tresh's single to left. Skeeter Webb forced Tresh on a tap to Kramer, Carnett reaching third, whence he scored on Lopat's single to left.

There were two out when Kreevich tied the score with his homer in the seventh. It was Mike's fourth of the year. He beat Thornton Lee on his first two homers in St. Louis on April 21.

The Sox took their 3 to 2 lead in the eighth on doubles by Schalk and Hodgin.

It was the sixth time in eight tries this season that Luke Sewell's lads have outclassed the Sox. Kramer, who was credited with his eighth victory, has rung up three against the Sox.

The teams will play the final of the series tonight with Johnny Humphries making his first start of the season. Nelson Potter will go for the league leaders.

4 TOP GOLFERS TO PLAY BENEFIT MATCH SUNDAY

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Chicago, once a favorite port for exhibition golf matches, will entertain one of the best foursome competitions in years next Sunday at the Park Ridge Country club when Pvt. Chick Harbert of the Air WAC recruiting office and Storekeeper 1st Class Mike Stolarik collaborate with 2d Lt. Patty Berg of the marines and Mrs. Mildred Didrikson Zaharias in a preview to the 15th annual Women's Western Open tournament, which gets under way at Park Ridge Monday morning.

Time was when local galleries were regaled by the shots of such touring artists as Walter Hagen, Gene Sarazen, Joyce Wethered, and Lawson Little. Exhibition golf in those days, largely for the personal profit of the players, waned with the approach of the war in Europe.

Hospital to Get Proceeds.

Sunday's match, however, will be conducted on a different scale, and with a different purpose. All proceeds of the match, as well as those of the W. W. G. A.'s open and amateur tournaments, will be turned over to the recreation fund of the new Vaughan General hospital. Tickets for the match are $1.20, tax included.

Altho no definite pairings for the Sunday quartet have been announced, it is expected that Lt. Berg will team up with Pvt. Harbert against Mrs. Zaharias and Storekeeper Stolarik. Thus each team will be powered with a long hitter, since Harbert won the driving contest in the Chicago Victory National meet last year, and Mrs. Zaharias' tee shots have caused more than a few stares in her time.

Lt. Berg Aims to Repeat.

Lt. Berg will be the defending champion in the Western Open at Park Ridge, while Harbert has been playing as often as possible at Edgewater against the opening of the Victory National there on June 28. Mrs. Zaharias, who established herself as America's most versatile woman athlete as Babe Didrikson, will be out to duplicate her 1940 triumph in the Western Open. Stolarik, the one time north shore caddy who has proved himself one of the finest shotmakers ever to come out of the public course ranks, is the present holder of the Illinois state amateur championship.

All of the above mentioned players will compete in the foursome phase of the Victory National tournament at Edgewater. This novel 36 hole competition, to be decided on June 28 and 29, will send out the country's leading professionals with three partners—a lady, an amateur, and a senior. Thus, each pro will have an opportunity to share in three national team championships.

Elmhurst Country club, one of the oldest golf organizations in the game, will conduct its 44th annual Blow-out tournament today. Tomorrow will witness the annual Pro-Amateur tournament of the Chicago District Golf association and the Illinois section of the Professional Golfers' association at Sunset Ridge, and the Chicago Women's District Golf association will open its 1944 competitive season Friday with an open day at Beverly. Ridge will hold its annual Pow-wow tourney Saturday.

Shells Well Wrapped Up—with Red Tape

BY BOB BECKER.

Mr. Sportsman, here's the latest dope on the shotgun shell situation straight from the manufacturers. The firms which make shotgun shells and rifle cartridges are about to ship the ammunition they made during the first two quarters of the year. But don't crowd boys, there isn't a shell for sale to the civilian hunter. All the stuff due to reach the stores during the next three weeks is earmarked for the farmer and rancher.

However, the WPB has indicated that it may revise its regulations before fall, which will permit the hunter to buy some of this ammunition. Our guess is that stores will be given the okay to sell shotgun shells to civilian hunters before September.

Buyers Will Need Certificates.

George Davis, sales manager of Western Cartridge Co., told us yesterday that in his opinion the system of buying shells from a store again will be by means of certificates, the same as last year. In other words, it's extremely doubtful if anybody is going to be able to walk into a sporting goods store this fall and order a case or a half case of ammunition. Indications are that one must fill out a certificate good for possibly a few boxes, but no details of the distribution plan have been announced by the WPB.

May Step Up Production.

Indications also are that the shell manufacturers will be given more materials for making ammunition during the third quarter of the year. During the first two quarters of 1944 production was about 40 per cent of a normal pre-war year. Davis said that the program might increase 20 per cent during the third quarter. If that happens hunters should get fair quantities of shotgun shells this fall, if the farmers and ranchers don't use too many between now and late summer.

COURT REVIEW OF OPA ORDERS VOTED IN HOUSE

Coalition Smothers New Deal Pleas.

BY LAURENCE BURD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 13.—Smothering protests of the administration, the house today tentatively adopted a series of price control amendments giving the federal courts broad powers to review and rule upon orders and penalties imposed by the office of price administration.

A coalition of Republicans and southern Democrats forced the restrictions thru the chamber amid charges that the OPA, by acting as both prosecutor and judge, has "thrown the courts overboard."

Pleas by administration stalwarts that court review of OPA actions would hamper and confuse price control efforts were shouted down as Republicans took the lead in asserting the war must not be used as an excuse for overturning constitutional rights.

New Blows at OPA.

1. One by Rep. Dirksen [R., Ill.] providing for review in any federal District court of an OPA order on petition of an aggrieved party. Under the proviso, the court may set aside the order by injunction, and an appeal may be taken directly to the United States Supreme court, which is directed to expedite proceedings in the case. The vote was 127-115.

2. A proposal by Rep. Wolcott [R., Mich.] forbidding OPA from suspending companies from doing business as a punishment for price violations without a court order. Wolcott charged OPA, thru its "kangaroo courts," has defied congress by ordering rationed goods withheld from companies charged with selling above ceiling prices. Adoption was by voice vote.

Courts Given Latitude.

3. A proviso by Rep. Sumner [R., Ill.], passed by voice vote, giving the courts full discretion on penalties assessed against price violators. Under this change, the court may impose fines of $50 or treble damages, whichever is greater, but the present law making these assesments mandatory is eliminated.

4. An amendment offered by Rep. Goodwin [R., Mass.] and approved, 111-72, holding that proven innocence of OPA price violations is adequate defense and relieves the defendant of any penalties, except refunds of overcharges to customers. A similar provision was in the bill as it passed the senate last Friday.

These amendments, together with other restrictions tentatively adopted in the last two days to curb alleged OPA abuses, will be subject to final action by the house when the OPA bill comes up for final passage, probably tomorrow.

Assails OPA Decrees.

Dirksen, speaking for his court review amendment, told the house that OPA, thru burocratic decrees, has run roughshod over citizens' rights to due process of law, as guaranteed in the Constitution.

"The OPA," he said, "has thrown the courts overboard.

Rep. Cox [D., Ga.], supporting the court review proviso, said that OPA has used "government by men instead of by law" to oppress citizens with "dictatorial orders." The practice has been "abusive and unjustified," he said.

Taking the administration's side, Rep. Spence [D., Ky.], chairman of the house banking committee, urged defeat of the amendments. He charged that review of the validity of OPA orders in district courts would create confusion as to which rulings are legal or illegal and thus hamstring price controls.

Rep. Morrison [D., N. C.], siding with Spence, said he would oppose giving OPA its present broad "judicial" powers in peace time, but said they were essential in the war economy.

End of Profit Curb 'Rule' Is Asked of SEC

Philadelphia, Pa., June 13 (AP).—Representatives of securities dealers asked the securities and exchange commission today to abrogate an alleged 5 per cent profit limitation "rule" of the National Association of Securities Dealers, issued as an interpretation of its fair practice rule.

Asserting that the NASD's interpretation in a letter and directive to the membership had the practical effect of a rule, Edward A. Kole of New York, representing a dealers' committee, said "an interpretation involves the individual's volition, but the moment you establish an interpretation and send out a directive, the interpretation becomes a rule."

Puts Responsibility on SEC.

Terming the NASD the SEC's "baby," Kole told the commission: "Hence responsibility for the NASD's rules is yours. If they are improper, you must revoke them. You have the power to do it under the Maloney act."

Kole said that, in demanding information thru questionnaires, the NASD has more power than the SEC, because failure to provide required information can be considered a breach of discipline on the part of a member.

Frank Dunn, president of the New York Securities Dealers, said the NASD's action "violated the democratic spirit" of the association and brought discontent in its ranks.

Termed "Private Club."

"The operation of the NASD as a private club must be eliminated," he said.

Frank J. Maguire, representing S. C. Parker & Co. of Buffalo, N. Y., said his client opposed the contents of the rule and the method of its adoption and believed "an arbitrary ceiling on spread is wrong whether it be 5 per cent or 1 per cent or 10 per cent."

The commission granted all parties two weeks in which to file exchange briefs and an additional week for reply.

Grains Climb as Rust News Boosts Wheat

Reports of rust damage to crops in the southwest helped to advance wheat prices yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. September led the rally and closed up 2¼ cents a bushel. Rye and oats followed wheat, rye advancing 1¾ to 2½ cents and oats, ¾ to 1¼ cents.

When wheat started to rise early, sufficient commission house selling developed to carry prices below Monday's close, but the setback attracted active buying and prices again advanced.

Conditions Favor Rust.

Conditions have favored the spread of rust, and the threat in the southwest is genuine, government experts said. A survey last week showed rust had developed rapidly in Texas.

Most traders were not alarmed over damage possibilities, but because of an extended short interest uneasiness resulted. The reports were received at the same time that heavy rains fell in the southwest.

Rye Futures Follow Wheat.

Rye futures followed the action of wheat. Much buying was short covering.

Trade in oats and barley futures was light. Some selling of oats developed on reports of a weaker tone in cash oats.

CEILING CHANGE TO CUT PRICES OF FUR, SAYS OPA

Washington, D. C., June 13 (AP).—The OPA today ordered a "substantial reduction" in the ceiling prices for domestic and imported fur skins and said the savings would be passed on to the public.

A regulation effective June 19 fixes prices for sales of some 30 types of skins thru auction houses and brokers. OPA said specific savings at retail will not be determined until revision of the fur garment price regulation has been completed. The ceilings are based on the highest prices in effect between Oct. 1, 1941, and April 30, 1942. The base period heretofore has been March, 1942.

Explaining how prices will be lowered, OPA said that during March, 1942, there were relatively few delivered sales of skins and sellers were permitted to use offering prices as ceilings. These were unusually high. The new regulation ties ceilings to delivered prices in the expanded base period.

Further Probe of Utility's Reorganization Ordered

Six Months Needed After 'Go' Sign.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., June 13.—Keep on nursing that automobile. That's the advice motor car company officials give as they report slim prospects for resumption of production this year. It is agreed that unless a green light is given by early July it would be virtually impossible to start assembly lines moving in 1944.

Most executives do not expect production to start until Germany is defeated. However, some manufacturers hope they can start building cars by next March.

Confidence in speedy resumption of production once authority is given is the attitude of the top executives.

Speedy Resumption Assured.

"The nation has witnessed what the auto industry has been able to do in the production of something about which it knew nothing—war material," said the head of one big company. "Just give us the word and we will show the country how fast we can get back to doing something which we had been doing all our lives."

Two practical problems must be met before production can be resumed. Tools and dies must be obtained and producers of parts must resume large scale output.

It is true that many of the tools and dies used on the 1942 models as well as jigs and fixtures have been stored and are ready for use again. But many of the machines used when the assembly lines were shut down early in 1942 were absorbed in war work and either have worn out or were shipped to other plants and are not available. These must be replaced and that takes time.

One Item Could Delay All.

Every manufacturer has hundreds of suppliers who make everything from wheels to carburetors. Inability to obtain any one item might well hold up assembly. Many suppliers are engaged in war work that will have to be continued until the war is over. So a way will have to be found to obtain a complete line of supplies.

The auto industry has been producing at a rate on many war items which assures that one day there will be a surplus. When that day arrives there will be more cutbacks and contract terminations—some already have been made—which will cause sharp reductions in employment.

The industry wishes to be ready when that situation arises to resume car production and avoid unemployment. The consensus is that when war production is reduced 30 to 40 per cent the industry should be ready with a plan to build cars.

Expect Output Limit.

When production is resumed it is held likely that some limit may be imposed such as 2 million cars in the first year. This would entail production by each company based on an average for a number of years preceding the war. Obviously output would have to be on a basis which would give the benefits of mass assembly because production below an economic level would require much higher prices.

Post-war price is a matter that is giving the industry concern. Wages and other costs going into the production of an automobile have risen during the war, which will cause prices to be substantially above 1941 levels as has been indicated. Meantime, some auto makers are doubtful about the ability of the public to pay greatly increased prices. In the lower price field it is expected that a minimum down payment will be $500.

Farm Machine Export Probe Is Promised

Washington, D. C., June 13 (AP).—Sen. Gillette [D., Ia.] promised a senate committee investigation today of the entire government export program of scarce farm machinery, including reports that the Tennessee valley authority is sending trucks to northern India for use in building power dams.

Gillette, chairman of an agriculture subcommittee studying the farm equipment distribution situation, said at a committee session it would be necessary to determine the "possible diversion" of implements needed by farmers at home.

Reads Excerpt from Article.

He read to the subcommittee an excerpt from a magazine article reporting that TVA trucks, tractors, and other machinery were being used in India in constructing dams in the foothills of the Himalya mountains [a housing project is said to be under way]. Sen. Bushfield [R., S. D.] said he had read the article and already had begun an investigation on his own with government agencies.

Witnesses from both the war food administration and war production board said only the foreign economic administration could supply accurate information on the extent of farm machinery exports. Gillette said FEA officials would be asked to give the subcommittee a complete report.

Reports Steady Improvement.

Steady improvement in the farm equipment distribution situation was reported by J. W. Millard, a WFA official, but Gillette said data Millard had presented showed deliveries to farmers were from 25 to 80 per cent behind established quotas.

PREDICTS VOIDED INSURANCE ACTS IN SOME STATES

As a result of the recent Supreme court decision holding that interstate insurance business is subject to federal regulation, some state regulatory laws may be overruled later by the federal courts, James C. O'Connor, associate editor of the National Underwriter, said yesterday. He told the insurance group of the Union League club this may happen if state laws are found to burden interstate commerce unduly.

"It will be interesting to see what happens to those state laws requiring policies issued to nonresidents covering property in a stateto be counter-signed by a local agent and a commission paid to him," said O'Connor. "Moreover, we may find some state agency agreements being brought up for examination."

CATTLE PRICES NEAR PEAKS AS RECEIPTS SLIDE

Hogs Steady Altho Holdover Mounts.

An acute beef shortage developed at the Chicago stock yards yesterday at the same time that packers and commission men were struggling with the problem of handling one of the largest holdovers of farmer-owned hogs on record. Packers fought to pay near record prices for cattle as shipments from farms went into a seasonal slump.

A new 1944 high of $17.60 a hundred pounds was paid by eastern order buyers for 74 prime steers. This was the highest price paid for cattle since May of last year and was the highest June sale in 26 years. Heifers brought $17.25 to equal the highest price for this class since August, 1920. This was only 10 cents under the highest June heifer sale on record.

Beef Production Dips.

Beef production in the Chicago area the first 13 days of this month was smallest in a year, slaughter data showed. Members of the trade were not surprised by the dip in volume. They had predicted a seasonal shortage would precede the flood of cattle from the range that the government has forecast for this fall. Tonnage this month has been about 75 per cent of January's.

Cattle receipts in Chicago the first two days of this week totaled 21,100 head, the second smallest Monday and Tuesday total since June of last year. Only 6,500 arrived yesterday.

An estimated 26,000 farmer owned hogs, in addition to about 15,000 held by packers, were carried over. Sales were mostly at steady prices, but some of the heaviest hogs sold 10 to 15 cents lower.

Heat Slows Slaughtering.

Extremely warm weather slowed down butchering crews in many packing plants so that slaughter operations fell behind schedule, packers reported. Some hogs bought Monday will not reach the killing floors until late this afternoon, and some hogs bought yesterday will not be butchered until tomorrow. Receipts the first two days of the week were the largest in three months.

Only the best of the government weights reached the $13.75 floor, which has been the top for hogs in every session since April 25.

Strong to unevenly higher prices were paid for the limited supply of sheep and lambs offered. The $16.00 top was paid for new crop natives.

Heads Grain Board

HARRY C. SCHAACK.

Philip R. O'Brien, serving his fourth successive term as president of the Chicago Board of Trade, resigned that office yesterday at the regular meeting of the directors. The directors elected Harry C. Schaack, previously first vice president, to succeed him. The change becomes effective July 1.

O'Brien gave as the reason for his retirement his desire to devote more time to management of two large farms which he operates and to his personal grain business.

O'Brien's friends recalled that when he accepted reëlection last January, it was with the expectation that his recommendation for a paid president of the exchange would be adopted by the members. Under that plan, a new president would have been chosen and O'Brien would have become chairman, a new office without salary. However, the proposed changes were rejected.

Schaack, who is associated with Shearson, Hammill & Co., is chairman of the executive committee.

UNITED GRANTED NEW ROUTE OUT OF NEW ENGLAND

A new air service between New England and the Pacific coast by way of Chicago was assured yesterday when the civil aeronautics board granted United Air Lines authority to operate between Boston, Mass., Hartford, Conn., and Cleveland, O., W. A. Patterson, president, said. The New England service will be linked with the company's transcontinental route at Cleveland.

Patterson explained United will inaugurate the new service when equipment becomes available. The elapsed time from Chicago to Boston with the four engine type of plane which United expects to place in use immediately after the war will be less than three hours, Patterson said.

BUYER SPLURGE SWEEPS STOCK MARKET HIGHER

Volume Again Tops 2 Million Mark.

New York, June 13 (AP).—Rising optimism over prospects for an early end of the war in Europe resulted today in another buying splurge in the stock exchange.

Advances were broad and ran from fractions to more than 2 points. A fair total of industrial stocks reached the highest levels since late 1938. For the second time this year volume exceeded 2 million shares.

At the close some prices were a little below the highs, but generally the final quotations were near the top. Motors, rubbers, steels, farm equipments, chemicals, oils, amusements, merchandising, and soft drink issues were especially popular with buyers.

Trading Is Broad.

The market was broad, with 1,010 issues traded, the largest total since April 6, 1943. Yesterday's issues totaled 963.

The Associated Press 60 stock composite advanced 0.4 to 54.1, a new high since Nov. 12, 1938. Transactions amounted to 2,330,920 shares compared with yesterday's 2,236,780. This was the largest turnover since Nov. 8, 1943.

Du Pont and Eastman Kodak were top gainers, each adding about 3 points, and Pepsi-Cola, Continental Can, Pullman, Goodyear, Harvester, Oliver Farm, International Telephone, Johns-Manville, United States Rubber, and Delaware & Hudson moved up 1 to 2 points.

BOND MARKET STRONG.

New York, June 13 (AP).—The bond market strengthened all along the line today with rails again popular. Advances in the general run of issues ranged from fractions to more than a point and the highly sensitive commercial Mackay income 4s raced up 12 to 129 on light transactions.

CHICAGO PRICES RISE.

Prices advanced in broad and active trading yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. Thirty-eight of the 133 issues traded sold at new 1944 highs and 98 closed with gains. Volume leaders included Chicago corporation, Radio corporation, Aviation corporation, and Houdaille-Hershey B, all up fractionally.

NAVY CANCELS BUDD CONTRACT FOR 175 PLANES

Washington, D. C., June 13 (AP).—The navy announced tonight cancellation of its contract for approximately 175 stainless steel Connestoga cargo carrying planes manufactured by the E. G. Budd Manufacturing company of Philadelphia and Bustleton, Pa.

The cutback leaves the company only 25 of the original total of 800 planes scheduled to be produced, since the army recently canceled its contract for 600 Connestogas.

Naval spokesmen said that the army was expected to provide war work in the Budd plants that would avert unemployment of the several thousand workers there. It was expected that one to four months would be required to convert the plants to munitions production.

The navy's need for cargo transports will be met with lower cost Douglas transport planes now available from the large scale Douglas production for the army, the announcement said.

WAR INVENTORY DROP REPORTED CURBING SURPLUS PROSPECTS

Washington, D. C., June 13 (AP).—The commerce department today reported declining manufacturers' inventories indicate a trend that could hold down the amount of surplus stocks after the war.

At the end of April, the department said, war inventories held by all manufacturing firms totaled 10 billion dollars, a reduction of ½ billion since the peak of last September. Stocks of raw materials and goods in process—principal problem in contract terminations—totaled 7.7 billions compared with 8.3 billions a little more than six months ago.

"Since war production is now at a peak," the department said, "the war inventory needs will tend to be held at present rates or even decline with the easier supply situation.

"The closer manufacturers hold their inventories to current production needs, the less will be the surplus stocks to be liquidated."
